Melville, besides issuing citizenship papers to two applicants, handed down a number of decrees. Final decision was rendered in the suit of the Clatsop Mill Company vs. the city of Astoria, or the celebrated water works case, by which the motion for re-hearing was over-ruled and the receiver ordered to pay, within twenty days, from the funds in his hands, seventy per cent of the claims filed that are regular on their face.

Last week Messrs. Horace Thing, C. C. McDonald, W. T. Chittler, V. Boelling and Geo. Nelson, made a trip into the Nehalem country looking for sport. They found it. Upon their return Monday they presented to Mr. Harry Hamblet what some claimed to be a young elk, and what others of the party said was a bear cub. Mr. Hamblet asked no questions, but had the animal properly dressed and roasted, and when yesterday served with apple sauce, connoisseurs pronounced it the finest of young pig. The feast also consisted of baked sweet potatoes, green corn, cracked crab salad and fruits. It was generally supposed that Mr. Hamblet was celebrating another birthday.

Mr. Geo. Bartley returned yesterday from the logging camps on the lower Necanicum, and brought with him two photographs of an immense log cut from a spruce tree and hauled to the banks of the creek by five yokes of oxen for floating down the stream to H. F. L. Logan's mill at Seaside. This log was truly a monster, measuring 10 feet 10 inches in diameter, and is estimated to contain about 18,000 feet of lumber. The largest log cut heretofore in this region, contained 14,000 feet of lumber. Mr. Logan intends to cut a slice off this log and send it to the Portland exposition. The operation of getting these large logs over the riffles in the creek at the Seaside House, is most interesting one. A donkey engine stationed just below the rapids operating a long wire cable, successfully does the work, which would be almost impossible to accomplish in any other manner. It is said that there is a tree about two miles from Astoria, near the Walluski road, blown down by the recent storm, which measures sixteen feet in diameter. Both this tree and the big log secured by Mr. Logan, are of the best quality of spruce.

making, and I know that he will carry out his agreement. All good citizens ought to back him up, and all encouragement that we can give to him will be an encouragement to others to come here and make an investment. Yes, everything that can be done to silence that kind of journalism complained of by Mayor Taylor cannot fail to advance our general interests.

S. NORMILE.

"Judge Taylor's letter, as many have already said, certainly was timely and expressed my views in every respect. No fair-minded business man can in any way endorse the unjust, untruthful and uncalled for attacks made by the Budget and Herald against Mr. Hammond and the railroad company.

"As far as I have investigated the matter Mr. Hammond has not only not fallen short of his promises and written agreement with us, but has spent more money here and is building a better road than his contract calls for, and I have every confidence that he will complete his contracts and keep up the same excellent grade of work.

"Such public reports as Mayor Taylor refers to, which are not only untruthful in themselves, but absolutely misleading, only hurt the city. They cannot in any way injure Mr. Hammond's reputation, because the business men of the East who are acquainted with him know what kind of a man he is. Strangers who are seeking investments, however, will be apt to hesitate before coming to a city which will allow its press to run down the very proposition on which is based its future prosperity.

"When I first came here the Daily Budget more than burned me up, and among other things accused me of having taken public work here, only agreed to pay their men $125 per day, and did not even pay that, but they were severely mentioned in the press. I am glad to see an effort made to suppress this sort of abuse. I believe in fairness in all things, but when the people or the press of the community undertake to blacken the character of those who are endeavoring to build up that community, only bad results can come to them. Harmony alone can build up a town as has been thoroughly proved in the instances of Chicago, Spokane, and Seattle."

R. L. BOYLE.

"It is against my general principles to go into print on any subject on any subject outside of my own business, but since you have asked me concerning the work being done on the railroad by Mr. Hammond and his associates, I will say in a few words that he is doing good work, is building a better road than might possibly have been expected under the terms of our contract with him, and that as rapid progress is being made as circumstances would permit. It is evident from the present rate of construction and the terms of sub-contracts on the road bed, we will have the railroad completed before 1898. To criticize and call the men names, who are doing this work, and who have been the only ones in twenty years who have been able to meet the requirements of the situation, can only injure our own general interests."

CONCERNING ATHLETICS. W. C. Patterson Speaks Highly of the Local Organization.

Mr. W. C. Patterson, California's premier high jumper and hurdler, who has been visiting in the city for the past month, leaves for his home in San Francisco on the steamship Columbia tomorrow.

He said he has given up athletics and will leave the coast field to younger men. He is firmly of the opinion that Bert Kerrigan, the joint holder of the coast high jump record of six feet two inches, will eventually raise the record to six feet three inches or more.

Concerning track athletics in the Northwest, Mr. Patterson says they are in a healthier condition than in California, because they receive the money support of the people, and also because they are held under the patronage of the best class.

When asked concerning the treatment accorded the Olympic athletes at the recent meeting in Portland, of which much has been said, Mr. Patterson stated that, on the field, it was not all that might have been expected, but that this is partly excusable on account of the ignorance of the Portland men regarding athletic etiquette toward visiting teams.

Speaking of Will Tallant, the Astoria distance runner, whose record for the mile in 4:31, Mr. Patterson said he was, beyond doubt, the fastest runner in the West and among the five best in America. However, Mr. Patterson thinks if Brown, the Olympic miler, and Tallant ever come together again, the latter will have to break his coast record to defeat the former.

Mr. Patterson was very favorably impressed with the Astoria Football Club, and said it is one of the most thriving amateur organizations on the Pacific coast, both from financial and athletic standpoints. He said there is plenty of excellent material in the local club, and if the men league to gether and contest under the A. F. C. colors, the club would soon bid fair to rival the Multnomah Club, of Portland.
