Regular services at the Presbyterian church today. At 11 o'clock the pastor will preach on "Christian Heroism." In the evening at 7:30, Rev. W. S. Holt, D. D., of Portland, will preach. Sunday school at 12. Y. P. S. C. E. at 8:30. All are most cordially invited.

Miss Martha L. Gilbert, besides accepting a few more pupils desiring private lessons in French, will form a class for instruction in that language. Those who wish to join the class are invited to meet Miss Gilbert on any day this week, at her residence, 185 Third street.

Capt. Larsson, of the schooner Blinn, which arrived in yesterday afternoon, 28 days from San Francisco, says that he was obliged to feel his way the entire trip. The smoke from forest fires extends out to sea six hundred miles from land, and the captain notes that the present condition of the atmosphere on the ocean surpasses anything in his experience.

Among the visitors from the country yesterday were James Leahy, Oliver A. Young, A. M. Lindholm, J. M. Sales, Herman Bunke, Young's River; Theodore Christians, Charles Crandall, Walluski, David Keefe, John Days; D. Upton, and Wm. Anderson, Deep River; Geo. Holmes, D. F. Halferty, and H. T. Klindred, Warrenton; Richard Barry, Clatsop City; J. R. Michada, Lewis and Clarke.

M. E. Church—Morning subject, "The Power of the Holy Ghost." Evening, "The Past Triumphs of Christianity and Its Ultimate Victory." These will be the last services before the session of the annual conference which meets at Roseburg, Or., next Wednesday, and the pastor is anxious to see every member and friend of the church present at all the services of the day. A final meeting of the official board will be held at 2:30 p. m. today.

A peculiar incident happened at Mr. C. J. Trenchard's office yesterday afternoon while the crew of the James Nesmith were being paid off. One man, Leon, by name, and a West Indian, when asked to sign the payroll, stepped forward and received his money, part of which was in 250 gold pieces. He turned to Mr. Trenchard, pointing to one of the coins, and asked him what it was. Mr. Trenchard replied that it was a twenty dollar gold piece, and that if he preferred he would give him all silver dollars. The man said that it was the first gold piece he had ever seen, but was very glad to get it. He had been brought up in a silver country.

A party of business men, among whom were Mr. Will Madison, W. W. Corey, Superintendent Watts, W. L. Robb, P. Grant, A. J. Megler and Harry Hamblett, boarded the steamer Electric at 1:30 yesterday afternoon and made a trip to Burnside Point. Sneaking of the excursion last night, Mr. Madison said: "I never saw a finer piece of railroad work in my life. The road bed built by Corey Brothers is the very best that can be put up for money. They certainly know their business and it is evident that the railroad company is determined to have the best road on the Pacific coast. Astoria has every reason to be proud of its railroad."

Mr. A. P. Bradbury, who was in the city yesterday, says that the principal business of the country now is politics. He has just returned from a trip in Eastern Oregon, and states that Oregon will roll up a good round majority for McKinley. While in Baker City he met a representative of the well known wholesale grocery house of Paxton & Gallagher, Omaha, Neb. That gentleman stated that Mr. Paxton, the head of the firm, who has been a life-long Democrat, offered to bet $10,000 a few days ago, or any part of it, that McKinley would not only be elected, but would carry the state of Nebraska. He could only find one taker for $1000.

Another traveling man named Fairchild, representing a big Chicago home, was also in Baker City, and told Mr. Bradbury that his home was in Lincoln, Neb., and that he lived in the same precinct with Bryan. He stated that before leaving home, and since his arrival in Portland, to which point he accompanied Mr. Bradbury, that he had offered to bet $100 each on the five following propositions taken together: That Bryan would not carry his own precinct, his own city, his own county, his own state, or the general election. Up to the time Mr. Bradbury left Portland last night, Mr. Fairchild had received no takers of his offer.

Western Union Telegraph Manager Johnson, who is looking after the government office during Mr. Grover's absence, says that if the latter gentleman remains away a while longer, he thinks he can run the good weather over into October.

Mr. John Mattson, whose little child died in Chicago the other day, is expected to return this morning from Kalama, where he went to meet his wife, who is bringing the body with her from

THE M. AND C. SOCIETY.

An Association Which Will Prove Very Popular.

Many of the leading merchants belong to the select 400. Their card parties and sociables are elegant and expensive affairs.

I am only one of the common people, but I enjoy the entertainments I give to my customers probably as much as my high-toned brother merchants enjoy their fine parties, and my affairs the year around don't cost as much as those high-toned parties; besides, I believe it a good plan for a merchant to mingle with his customers and foster a friendly, neighborly feeling. I call mine the

MERCHANTS' AND CUSTOMERS' ASSOCIATION.

My next entertainment will take place on Xmas night. Every customer who buys over $5 worth of goods is entitled to a ticket and can take part in the dance and receive an X-mas present.

PRESBYTERIANS CELEBRATE

The Fiftieth Anniversary of the Founding of the Old Church on Clatsop Plains.

FIRST CHURCH ON THE COAST

Ministers and Large Gathering of People Duly Commemorate the Occasion—Old Settlers Take Part in the Ceremonies.

Members and friends of the Presbyterian church 10th here and on Clatsop Plains had been looking forward with much interest to the day which marked the lapse of 50 years since the founding and organizing of the old Presbyterian church on Clatsop Plains, it being the very first church of that denomination instituted on the Pacific coast, or west of the Rocky Mountains.

Yesterday ushered in that day, and a more lovely day as far as weather was concerned could not have been desired. Just previous to the starting of the 9 o'clock train for Seaside, a very large company, largely consisting of old pioneers and their immediate descendants, were assembled on the railway dock, ready to take the cars for Morrison's, the location of the old Presbyterian church. We are told that 150 round trip tickets were sold to this point and on the arrival of the train it was found that in carriages, wagons, or on horseback, at least 100 more people had gathered from all parts of the Plains to celebrate the historic day.

At 11 o'clock the church where the addresses were to be delivered was packed solid and those who could not gain entrance stood outside at the open door and windows. Revs. W. S. Holt, of Portland, W. O. Forbes, of Astoria, Henry Marquette, of this city, and S. Sayre, of Clatsop Plains, all Presbyterians, together with Rev. J. McCormac, Bethel Chaplain, all took part in the anniversary exercises, assisted by an excellent choir consisting of Mr. J. B. Wyatt, Mrs. F. J. Taylor, Mrs. C. W. and Mrs. G. C. Fulton, Miss Hobbs and others. Miss Maud Warren presided at the organ. Mrs. Taylor kindly favored the audience with a beautiful solo. Dr. Holt read very interesting letters from former pastors of the church from Rev. Lewis Thompson, the first organizer, down to the last. At the close of these exercises the visitors were called to refreshments and well the ladies of the Plains had done their part. Three large tents kindly loaned by quartermaster had been pitched and a table 16 feet long was loaded down with substantial and luxurious, and although the toothsome viands tempted one's appetite beyond measure, yet there was enough for each, enough for all, and judging from what was left, enough for evermore. It was a most interesting gathering. The old settler of more than four-score years was here and here were his gray-headed sons and their children's children. The most interesting reminiscences of early days were narrated and many old school fellows of 40 years ago had by this celebration been brought together.

talk and laugh over schoolboy escapades, the facts of which had slumbered in their memories for years. Clatsop church and the manse looked neat and clean in a new dress of paint brought about, it is said, largely by the energy of old Mr. Ward, who with his wife and daughter, Mrs. Wingard, have with others been good friends to the old church on Clatsop Plains.

MOORE REPUBLICANISM.

Enthusiastic Gathering in Uppertown, but Friction at Olney.
Last evening at Golde Hall the Uppertown McKinley Club was organized amidst the greatest enthusiasm yet exhibited in Astoria. The meeting was called by A. T. Brakke, president of the old Blaine and Garfield club. The hall was filled to overflowing. Mr. Jno. Kniberg was made temporary chairman and W. F. McGregor secretary of the meeting. Constitution any bylaws were adopted, and the club was christened the Uppertown McKinley Club. Permanent organization was effected by the election of the following officers:

President, John Kniberg.

Vice-President, W. B. Painter.

Secretary, A. T. Brakke.

Treasurer, W. F. McGregor.

It was decided to hold meetings of the club each Saturday night during the campaign. After the organization was completed, Mr. Moore, of the Coeur d'Alene mines, himself a practical miner, made an eloquent address during which he told how silver and lead were extracted from the ores and were sold on the telegraphic London quotations for gold. He gave a practical illustration of the effects of free silver on the mining business.

C. J. Curtis delivered a stirring address in which he urged the opening of the factories instead of the silver mines, which he said was the only way to get silver in circulation amongst the people. Judge Nelson, Andrew Daligity and Fred Johnson also made speeches. Mr. Brakke made a short address in which he told about Norway, where only 2,000,000 people live, but which has never yet had a disturbance on account of money, their money being good in any part of the world.

Delegations from the Young Men's McKinley and Hobart Club and the McKinley Club were present during the meeting. A large number of ladies were present and the hall was tastefully decorated with flags, bunting and pictures.

About 6 o'clock last evening Judge Taylor, delegations from the Young Men's McKinley and Hobart Club, and a number of others, including Sheriff Hare, went out to Olney where a meeting was held, and at which Judge Taylor had been invited to deliver an address. Upon arrival there it was learned that a large number of Democrats and Populists from the city were also
