It was erroneously stated in yesterday's Astorian that Mr. C. R. Higgins and wife were on the excursion to Flavel, New Astoria and Warrenton. Inasmuch as Mr. Higgins is not married, Mrs. Higgins was not along.

Mrs. P. F. Woodford's classes in shorthand for beginners meet every Monday and Thursday evenings at 7:30, Room 24, Tighe Hotel. The advanced classes meet Tuesday and Friday evenings at the same hour and place.

The big brew kettle and various tanks and pipes in the Kopp brewery were tested yesterday by Architect Schacht. About sixty tons of water were turned into the tanks and through the pipes, and the test proved to be most satisfactory in every respect.

Inquiry amongst the architects and real estate men yesterday, revealed the fact that there is a general movement on foot amongst the property owners to put up substantial buildings and improvements to property during the winter and spring months.

School Clerk H. B. Ferguson yesterday received a stand of corn from the West ranch at Clatsop Plains which was in tassel and measured thirteen feet in height above the roots. The stalks were large and well formed and would do credit to Nebraska.

Miss Martha L. Gilbert, besides accepting a few more pupils desiring private lessons in French, will form a class for instruction in that language. Those who wish to join the class are invited to meet Miss Gilbert on any day this week, at her residence, 108 Third street.

Next Saturday is Red Men's day at the Portland Exposition. A large number of the members of the order in this city have already signified their intention of attending. The steamer Grady will leave here at 6 o'clock Friday evening, and will carry the delegates to the metropolis.

At Fisher's Hall last evening the dance given by the Rebekahs was one of the few successful social functions of the season. The hall was well filled by a select crowd, the music was excellent and the refreshments, which were served the latter part of the evening, were duly appreciated by all.

The street superintendent and his assistants yesterday afternoon cleaned the mud off 11th street on the grade above Grand Avenue. The dirty condition of this street has been a source of annoyance for a long time to residents of that vicinity. The action of the officials yesterday met with the most hearty approval.

Mr. Daniel Riercke, who was in from Mishawaka yesterday, said that it was now more of a pleasure than a hardship to travel over the county roads. The work recently done by the Wallusti people and the county court, he says, was not only much needed, but was well done and is a great boon to the farmer.

The recent storms throughout the middle west and eastern territory have greatly interfered with railroad and telegraphic communication. The wires are down in many sections and connection entirely cut off. The storm was general and at the same time one of the most severe ever known to sweep over so wide a range of country.

The Astoria Iron Works is now building the large marine boiler for Kopp's new brewery. When completed it will be one of the finest pieces of work ever turned out on the Pacific Coast. It is 72 inches in diameter, 16 feet long, and of the type known as the Scotch marine boiler. It has a 44-inch corrugated flue, and 125 2-inch tubes, 14 feet long.

A number of political bets were recorded yesterday afternoon. One wager between two prominent men was $100 to $25 that McKinley would carry New York. Another was $100 to $100 that McKinley would carry California. The stake money in both cases was deposited in the hands of a third party and the outcome will be watched with interest.

Mr. W. J. Ingrams, of the Lewis and Clarke, met with unprecedented success in the circulation of his petition yesterday for the levy of a 2-mill tax to create a fund for the building of the Young's River bridge to connect with the Lewis and Clarke road. Every merchant, lawyer, real estate man and business man of prominence in the city put his name on the list.

For once Mr. Observer Grover hit the weather nail on the head. The mist which he put up yesterday suited the farmers to the dot. Grass was very much in need of a little moisture, and his country cousins were not slow in their praise of the weather man yesterday. It is threatened, however, that if he does not restore sunshine within three or four days he will be visited by a mob.

The speech of ex-Governor Flower, of New York, one of the old Democratic wheel-horses, which he delivered at the Indianapolis convention, has caused much favorable comment throughout the country. The governor is well known as a careful and successful business man, and his ringing speech is filled from beginning to end with old-time patriotism and it would do any one good to read it.

Professor Garrison, who has been giving lessons in penmanship in the schools of the city, closed his term of instruction yesterday and awarded the following prizes: The first prize, given for the most improvement given in penmanship during the term, was divided between Ted Cherry and Clara Dunbar. The premium was a $5 gold piece. The judges were unable to decide which had made the most progress, so the prize was divided. For the best writing, Jennie Curtis received the prize, which consisted of a handsome silver napkin ring.

The stevedores yesterday in spite of the bad weather, took another large lot of rails out of the Fulwood. She will be completed today or tomorrow with the exception of 400 tons which will be left in her hold as stiffening, as was done in the case of the Chelmsford. Both the Fulwood and Chelmsford are now awaiting orders. If they are chartered in Portland the balance of the rails will be unloaded in that port and shipped down the river on barges. Should they be chartered in San Francisco, the rails will be unloaded at Flavel and sand ballast taken aboard.

Upon a cablegram received from the managing owners in London of the ship Fulwood, Captain Lewis, at 9 o'clock this morning, started three of his able-bodied seamen overland via New York, for Liverpool, England. Each man was provided with a through ticket to his destination, which cost $11, with eight days' provisions to last him to New York, and a supply of pocket money. The lunch baskets, which weighed 100 pounds each, were packed by the Ford & Stokes Co. The men will catch the steamer Teutonic, which sails from New York a week from today.

At the recent grand council of the United States, Imp. Order of Red Men, there was a very interesting and hot discussion upon the question of liquor dealers being barred from the order. The proposition was defeated, the majority of the council being of the opinion that the ballot box of the local councils was the place to exclude proposed members of the order. The addresses delivered on both sides of this question were eloquent pleas and attracted the attention of every member of the order in attendance upon the convention. Delegate A. A. Cleveland, of Astoria, was engaged in the controversy, and made one of the best arguments during the consideration of this question by the great council.

There were more teams in yesterday from the Nehalem than have perhaps ever been in town before in one single day. The cause of the large number of country visitors is attributed to the improved condition of the county roads. One of the farmers remarked yesterday evening that it was easy to see the benefit to be derived by the entire community from improved and properly maintained roads by the fact that even a little work and the comparatively small expenditure of money had made it possible for the farmers of the upper Nehalem not only to reach the city comfortably, but to make the trip in about one half the time formerly consumed. If such good results come from only a little work, what can we not expect in the future when our roads shall have been still further bettered and improved.

Notice is hereby given, that the partnership heretofore existing between Sam E. Harris and Charles Wright, of Astoria, Oregon, under the firm name of Harris & Wright, has been by mutual consent, this day dissolved, the said Sam E. CIRCUIT COURT.

In the circuit court yesterday before Judge McBride, a considerable amount of business was disposed of. A number of decisions were rendered, grand jury reports received, and orders entered.

Andrew Hendrickson vs. Jacob Pantaja, jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for the recovery of $201.64 on a promissory note.

State vs. Chas. E. Ward. Defendant was arraigned and charged with forgery. He was given until today in which to plead. Samuel Oliver vs. the Astoria Savings Bank. This was an action resulting from a dispute over the amount of a bank account. After about fifteen minutes' consideration the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the defendant.

A special venire was ordered for six jurors to appear in court at 9:30 this morning.

The grand jury returned three true bills and one not true bill. States vs. Chas. Wolden. The defendant was discharged.

State vs. Louis Morrell. Upon the finding of a true bill by the grand jury the defendant's bail was ordered forfeited, and a bench warrant ordered issued for appearance.

State vs. Edward T. Frechette, the same order was entered.

State vs. Chas. E. Ward, the defendant, by his attorney, pleaded not guilty, and the case was set for trial October 7.

MELVILLE NOTES.

Editor Astorian.—As fall is fast approaching, the farmers and loggers are taking the necessary precautions, and are by various means preparing to live in comfort during the winter. The rain which came a few days ago, was most welcome, as the soil is badly in need of moisture, and it will kill the forest fires which have kept the air smoky and sultry.

Watson & Wiener are rafting their second raft of logs for the season. Mr. John Tyberg has moved to second bottom for winter quarters. He will return in the spring when a little more attraction arrives.

Otto Adolph Bruno Pollicarpus Olsen is contemplating the erection of a new barn on his farm. Mr. Anton Anderson has been busied for the past two weeks drawing the plans.

Politics are receiving their share of discussion. The sound money sentiment is strong, and Lewis and Clarke will give McKinley a big majority.

Mr. John Elander went to Astoria to prove up on his claim Wednesday.

O. Olsen is painting his house. He intends to make things look thrifty around his place.

Mrs. O. Erickson returned to the city Saturday after an absence of two months.

The Olsen Bros. have put nearly two million feet of logs into the stream this summer. As soon as the river rises they will feel jubilant. A. A.—

MADE A GUN PLAY. At 12 o'clock last night Frank Cabanis, who some time ago was arrested for holding up the crap game at the corner of Bond and 12th streets, was arrested by Officer Oberg and placed in the city jail for attempting to draw a gun on an officer.

Earlier in the evening the man, who was under the influence of liquor, is reported as going into Erickson's and placing his gun on the table, threatening that if he needed money he would get it. Little attention was paid to him there, and he then crossed the street and entered Seaford's by the side door. Here he used abusive language and finally attempted to pull the revolver on Captain Hallock, who by a quick movement, caught his hands while Officer Oberg disarmed him and marched him to the jail. The case will probably be heard today.

ANSWER TO WOMAN SUFFRAGE QUESTIONS.

Susan B. Anthony. First, What are the fundamental principles, succinctly stated, upon which it is claimed our women ought to have the right to vote?

The same exactly upon which man bases his right of suffrage; the one for which Martin Luther fought, the right of private judgment; the right of self government and individual sovereignty; the principle that "governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed," that taxation and representation are inseparable; the assertion of Abraham Lincoln that "no man is good enough to govern another without his consent," that this should be a government of the whole people and not of half the people.

The difficulty with those who ask such questions as this is that they fail to recognize in woman an individual entity, but look upon her as a subordinate part of man. Woman is always thought of, spoken of, and legislated for, simply as an adjunct to man. In this whole question of the suffrage the relation of the woman to the home, the husband, the family, to society, is freely considered, while there is never a thought as to its effects upon the woman herself as an individual.

Second, What are the evils, if any, suffered by women by reason of their not having such a right?

Disfranchisement is ever and always degradation. In this country men are disfranchised only for cause, and this cause is always attended with humiliation. If women do not feel the degradation of disfranchisement, then this very fact is one of the most prominent of the evils; to make it impossible for a woman to have any voice in the levying and the spending of taxes, to deny her the right of making the laws or of selecting the lawmakers or the officials who are to enforce the law; to refuse her any participation in municipal government in questions relating to the schools, or in deciding the environment of her family; to hold her responsible for the conduct of grown-up children and forbid her all power to remove temptation from their pathway or to make the community a fit place for them, as she made the home. In the world of wage-earners, woman's disfranchisement forces her into subordinate positions at inferior wages; or if permitted to occupy as high a position where she does the same work as a man and does it equally as well, it compels her to accept less pay for it.

Third, What are the evils, if any, suffered by men by reason of women not having such a right?

It is not good for men to associate with inferiors. It develops in them the traits of the autocrat; it fosters their self-esteem and cannot fail to make them more or less tyrannical and overbearing. Women, in a similar position, would be no better. It requires a perfect equality between men and women to develop the strongest and best characteristics of both. Man thinks that woman can more successfully lead him to nobler things while she is subordinate. We know that when woman is given her perfect freedom we will have a grander race of men than the world yet has seen.

Most so-called "salmon twines" are colored with acids. The acids rot the fibers and render the material useless. In the office of Elmore, Barnum & Co. is an object lesson that ought to be examined by all fishermen. It is the whole of the material used in the manufacture of Marshall's twine—from start to finish. Go there and examine the color right through. You will see then why Marshall's is called the best in the world.
