TO READERS.—The "Daily Astorian" contains twice as much reading matter as any other paper published in Astoria.

AROUND TOWN.

The "Astorian" hereby offers to donate One Hundred Dollars to St. Mary's Hospital, payable on demand to Father Dielman, whenever legal evidence is produced showing that any afternoon newspaper published in Astoria has printed, within the last ninety days expiring prior to this offer, a single "special" or other kind of "telegraphic press report," received over the wires entering either of the telegraph offices in this city, from any point outside of Oregon.

Flag day. Halloween tonight. Feather boas at Dunbar's.

Children's school umbrellas, 50c at Dunbar's. All silk baby ribbon one cent per yard at Dunbar's.

Don't forget to hang out your flags and bunting today. Everybody will decorate today in honor of the national flag day.

Gunter's, the only candies in the city. C. B. Smith, sole agent. If Snodgrass doesn't make your photos you don't get the best.

Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Dyer were over from Deep River yesterday. C. B. Smith's selection of choice candies are the finest put up in Astoria.

Just take a look at C. B. Smith's famous Gunter candies. It will do you good. Mr. Henry Lang, of Lang & Co., Portland, called on his Astoria friends yesterday.

Messrs. Johnson, Thorsen and London arrived on the steamer Thompson yesterday morning. Dr. Howard's residence is at 255 Commercial street, over the "Spa." Night calls promptly attended.

The Outing Club met at Mr. Tallant's residence last evening to decide upon a program for the winter. Dr. T. L. Ball, dentist. Teeth extracted without pain. Price reasonable. No. 562 Commercial street.

Republicans will not fail to turn out Monday night to take part in the final grand rally of this campaign. Mackintoshes are selling very rapidly at the Low Price Store since they made their big reduction in prices.

Dr. W. D. Baker is authority for the statement that McKinley will receive 307 votes in the electoral college. Today is "flag day," and throughout the nation all patriotic people will throw out the stars and stripes.

Mustin's perfect fitting union suits with seamless shoulders, broad lap, and full size over hips, at Dunbar's. Mr. and Mrs. John McInosh have taken passage on the Columbia for a two weeks' visit in San Francisco.

Don't pay ten and twelve dollars for air-tight stoves when you can get them for half the money at 431 Bond street. The McKinley Club Quartet will give some fine new selections of campaign songs at the Republican rally at Olney this evening.

A prominent clergyman Burchardizes Candidate Bryan by calling his campaign one of lungs, lunacy and larceny. The Republican rally Monday night will wind up the campaign in Clatsop county. Everybody is expected to turn out.

Carbons are the only permanent photos as well as the most artistic, and Snodgrass knows how to make them. Plenty of air tight stoves in the market, but only one with hot air draught tube. The Queen, at Fisher Brothers'. Price, $10.00.

The small boy was in his element yesterday floating miniature ships in the gutters, which were running with water like a mill race. The celebration in honor of the opening of the Cascade Locks promises to be one of the historical events of the state of Oregon.

"Patsy" said last night that the Oregon mist was so thick yesterday that he was obliged to keep his white elephant in the barn. During the storm yesterday Mr. E. W. Tallant's chicken house was blown down and rolled down hill into one of his neighbor's lots.

LOOK OUT for fraudulent telegraphic news in the Astoria afternoon papers. None of these papers receives one line of outside news by telegraph. A Main street barber yesterday, while shaving an Astorian representative, stated that there was only one barber in town who was not a McKinley man.

The handsomest line of jackets and capes have just arrived at the Low Price store. They will be sold at wholesale prices. Take advantage of this offer. The Hon. John A. Leasure will be here to address the voters of Clatsop county on Monday evening, November 2d. A rousing demonstration is promised.

Corey Brothers are pushing their Elko, Nevada mining canal with a vim. A letter received yesterday states that they now have seventy-five teams at work. Prompt and complete returns from the election will be posted on the bulletin board at the "Louvre," commencing Tuesday night and continuing until the finish.

F. J. Schofield is an expert at flower and general landscape gardening, and offers his services for such work at a reasonable rate. Leave word at Astorian office. Purchasers of dress goods and woolen underwear met with pleasant surprise at the big reductions that are going on at present at the Cozen Low Price Store, 491 Bond street.

Captain W. H. Buchanan, J. T. McGinn, J. W. Wilson, A. G. McElane, Portland; L. Brennan, Seattle; A. B. McNight, St. Louis, were registered at the Parker House yesterday. If you want drugs or druggists' sundries, go to Rogers, 469 Commercial street. He carries a full assortment in his line and sells at the lowest cash price. Call and examine goods and prices.

finding the steamer Columbia ready for sea, he made up and shipped a consignment of seeds for Australia.

There will be a grand Republican rally and torchlight parade at Olney, this Saturday evening at 7:30 p. m. The steamer from Astoria with the Flambeau Club, will leave Fisher's wharf at 6:15 p. m. A general invitation is extended to all to go with the excursion.

Mr. James Stokes and A. M. Smith returned yesterday from a hunting trip in the lower Nebelam. They found game very plentiful, and bagged a large number of snipe, ducks and geese. Mr. Stokes brought back with him an elk tooth, but did not say whether he had killed the animal or not.

Monday night, November 2nd, 1896, the Republicans of Clatsop county will hold their final grand rally at McKinley Club rooms on Commercial street. The weather permitting, there will be a grand parade and outdoor demonstration, which it is expected to surpass anything ever seen in Clatsop county.

It is reported that the Popocratic rally at the school house, Upper Astoria Thursday night was attended by thirty-six voters, four of whom at least were Republicans, and two boys and three ladies. The majority of those present came from lowertown. As Upper Astoria goes, so goes the election. See?

The big dollar, about the size of an ordinary cartwheel, brought back from the East yesterday by Mr. Joe Hoch as a sample of the money to be issued should Bryan be elected, was on exhibition yesterday. It would cost the laboring man half his wages to hire a cart to take his money home if he had to take such dollars as these.

Manager Selig while in Portland this week placed the Fisher Opera House on the list of the Northwestern Theatrical Association. On November 12th and 14th the Jules Grau Opera Company will appear in this city, producing "La Traviata" and "Tar and Tantar," to be followed at a later date by Katie Emmett's Company in the "Waifs of New York."

One of the heaviest rainfalls in the history of Astoria was heard yesterday. The precipitation measured 2.32 inches. The gutters on the hillside streets were incapable of carrying off the water, which spouted up in streams in numberless places on 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th and 19th streets, washing large deposits of earth onto the sidewalks and crossings.

A telegram was received by the Republican county central committee late last evening from the Hon. Sol Hirsch, chairman of the state central committee, saying that the reason Hon. Robt. G. Smith did not come down yesterday to deliver the address at Uppertown, was because he was obliged to go to the bedside of his mother, who is dangerously ill.

Remember, voters of Astoria, not only of genuine election or other telegraphic news appears in the afternoon papers of this city. All such news printed by them is either deliberately concocted by some one connected with these papers, or cribbed from the Astorian and the Portland papers and altered with the design to hoodwink unobservant people.

Mr. L. E. Selig, who returned yesterday from Portland, states that the most elaborate arrangements are being made for the grand rally tonight by the Republicans of that city. The whole city is one mass of bunting, and he says that the window decorations are the handsomest he ever saw, while the parade will be the greatest ever known in the state of Oregon.

The Republican rally at Olney tonight will be the final wind-up in that precinct, and the citizens there are making preparations for a big time. The Hon. Robt. G. Smith, of Grant's Pass, is booked as the speaker of the evening. A special boat from Astoria will carry a number of McKinley Club members from this city, who will take part in the demonstration.

The people of The Dalles, Oregon, are going wild over the prospect of the opening of the Cascade Locks on November 5th, and are making elaborate preparations for a celebration. Astoria will not be behind in the procession, but will join her sister up the river in a fitting commemoration of the event, which means so much to the people of the upper and lower Columbia.

Captain Turnbull, of the Glenmorag, has already made good headway with the work of dismantling his splendid ship. All of the rigging and spars have been stripped from the mizzen mast, and the main mast is almost completely dismantled. Captain Burns and Captain Ingram hope that there will be a change for the better in the weather, so that they can make the attempt to pull the ship off the beach at the high tide the first week in November.

Dr. W. D. Baker and Captain Bob Caruthers yesterday morning went to the Bryan headquarters anxious to cover the bets advertised to have been offered by the Bryan papers of this city. They were very much disappointed, however, when told that the gentleman who had the money and had made the offer of the bet had taken to the woods, and that there were no more available funds to put up. The captain thought it was a case of put up or shut up.

Several farmers who were in yesterday from the Nebelam suggested that the vacant lot on 14th street opposite Ford & Stokes' store would be a good place for the establishment of a down town watering trough. They were enthusiastic over the prospect of having a trough erected near the waterworks on the top of the 15th street hill. No doubt the store keepers and merchants generally will contribute their share to the expense of establishing these watering places, and it is quite probable that property owners will be willing to donate the location.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY. Take laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. For sale by Chas. Rogers, Druggist.

VOTERS OF CLATSOP COUNTY—TAKE NOTICE! Not one line of telegraphic news is printed in any afternoon paper published in Astoria. The articles in these papers day after day, purporting to be received by them from outside sources by telegraph, are either RANK FORGERIES or dispatches stolen from the columns of the Astorian and Oregonian and garbled with the view to impose upon unsuspecting readers.

OUR CORNER. A gentleman's resort, at corner of Bond and Twelfth streets. The finest brands of liquors and cigars always on hand. Call and try us. ANDERSON & PETERSON.

Salton Sea Salt for baths at the Estes-Conn Drug Store 10c and 25c per package. CASTORIA. The Fish and Game Department is on every wrapper.

HOW THE ARAGO WAS WRECKED

Thomas Quinn, an Eye-Witness, Gives an Account of the Loss of the Steamer.

THE FIRST MATE WAS A HERO

Twice He Righted His Capsize Boat and Then, Exhausted, Swam to Another—Captain McGee, of the Columbia, Exonerated.

Mr. Thomas Quinn returned Thursday evening on the steamer Arcata from Coos Bay. In conversation with an Astorian reporter Mr. Quinn related some interesting facts concerning the wreck of the steamer Arago, which went ashore at Coos Bay. Mr. Quinn makes a hero out of the first mate, who was captured by Captain Reed, of the wrecked steamer, and gave the probable cause of the disaster. He said:

"The Arago should never have attempted to cross out that day. The weather was very rough and Captain McGee, of the tug Columbia, which had been outside, warned Captain Reed of the danger. The Arago had lively competition, and I suppose Captain Reed wanted to score a point over his business rivals. A heavy southwest wind was blowing at the time and the tide was flooding.

"Captain Reed probably did not realize his danger until his vessel was in peril. He stopped the steamer and this caused the disaster. Why he did so he alone knows, but his idea was, no doubt, to dodge a sea, that is, slow down until the sea had passed him and then make a run until the next heavy sea was encountered. The Arago was a bad vessel to steer and this added to her distress in the storm. When Reed rang to reverse the engines the steamer came to a sudden stop and, losing her steering power, was soon drifting backward by the force of the wind and tide. Another sea struck her, swinging her bow toward the spit, and in a few moments she was piled up on the jetty.

"I notice in the papers that Reed censures the first mate for not staying by his boat. Now, I was there when the steamer went ashore and can state positively that the mate acted like a hero. In his boat were five persons. It capsize once, throwing all five into the water, but the mate righted it. No sooner had he done so than another sea overturned the craft. Again the brave mate righted it, doing all in his power to save the lives of his companions, but again the boat was capsize. Then the mate, almost exhausted, swam to the second mate's boat. Captain Reed states that, if he had stayed by his boat, several lives might have been saved. This criticism is a great injustice to the brave man who so nobly tried to save the lives of those in his charge. He behaved only as a hero can. In which respect he differed somewhat from Reed, who was clinging to the steamer's rigging.

"Reed also charges that Captain McGee, of the tug Columbia, steamed by while the Arago was pounding to pieces and her passengers and crew drowning. Captain McGee, who is well known all over the coast, did what was right. Had he steamed to where the Arago lay the Columbia would also have been piled up on the jetty. It was certain death, and Captain McGee wisely decided not to add to the magnitude of the disaster. He lent all the aid in his power. Had Captain Reed taken his advice in the first place the Arago would have been adrift today and the four or five persons who were drowned alive and well.

"Our trip up the coast was very unpleasant. When the Arcata arrived off the Columbia the captain made two attempts to cross in, but put back each time. The glass was falling and, making everything fast, we came in. We came in a-flying, too.

"The salmon pack has been good everywhere but at Siuslaw and Coquille. At those places the pack has been very light. A strange thing happened at Ten-Mile Creek. The stream had been open for five years, but the heavy breakers from far-off storms in the Pacific have completely filled the mouth of the stream with sand. Forty fishermen were thrown out of work by this condition.

"While below I saw John Bergman, formerly of Astoria, but now captain of the Umpqua life-saving crew. He sends his regards to his friends here. I also saw Bergman's medals for bravery displayed in saving the crew of a schooner. The medals were presented to him by the government and are of excellent design."

(Not one of these propositions has been successfully contradicted.) The original "demonstration of silver" was effected by the following order from Thomas Jefferson:

Department of State, May 1, 1808. Sir: In consequence of a representation from the directors of the Bank of the United States that considerable purchases have been made of dollars coined at the mint for the purpose of exporting them, and as it is probable further purchases and exportations will be made, the president (Thomas Jefferson) directs that all silver to be coined at the mint shall be of small denominations. So that the value of the largest pieces shall not exceed half a dollar.

JAMES MADISON. To Robert Patterson, Esq., Director of the Mint.

Of course the men who gave utterance to the above sentiments were unpatriotic and had no love for America. They were, in all probability, dominated by British gold.

Captain Burns, of the Glasgow Salvage Company, left this morning for San Francisco on the steamer Columbia. The work of getting the Glenmorag off the North beach is in charge of Captain Ingram and Captain Turnbull.

Captain Burns hopes to be able to return in time to see the ship floated, but this may not be possible because of his unexpected delay in this city at the present time.

Captain Burns has had a wide experience in many different parts of the world in saving wrecked vessels. At one time he helped to float a large ship which ran ashore in the large bay during a dense fog. The master of that ship was an experienced one, and for years had been on that particular run. Before the board of inquiry which investigated this mishap in the Clyde, in his evidence the master stated that he attributed all the trouble to the fact that a careless passenger had left his umbrella in the compass house, the steel ribs deflecting the compass to such an extent as to throw the ship out of her course and cause the wreck. The board ridiculed this idea, but later both the compass and the umbrella were sent to the observatory of Sir Henry Thompson, who investigated the matter, and reported that the captain's statement was absolutely correct, as he found that the presence of the umbrella deflected the compass several points and that undoubtedly the wrecking of the ship was due to that fact. It is thus seen how small a matter will cause trouble on board a great ship.

Captain Burns says there are many strange things developed in his line of business, and that many interesting stories might be told of shipwrecks and their causes.
