In Medieval Days When people wanted anything they

When people wanted anything they knelt down and prayed for it. However, that was some time ago. Along about 1400 a fellow named Gutenberg, who had "come de Rhine over," was monkeying around a carpenter shop in Lentz. He whittled some little blocks and actually made an alphabet. Then he rigged a sort of—well, a machine that would look something like our letter press of today. He arranged his blocks in order, put some ink on t.em, also a piece of paper, and then screwed his press down. That was called printing. Old Gutenberg made a howling success of the racket, and his head became so savoilen that he really snubbed the king one day. The king overlooked it, however, for he had an idea what kind of fellows printers would be. Welf, finally they got the printing system down pat, and, as the centuring rolled by began printing. ing system down pat, and, as the centuries rolled by, began printing newspapers-first person, invariably singular number, any gender and hard case.

matter of fact. But it is an utter matter of fact. But it is an after impossibility to get a newspaper to admit it. The advertising patronage of a newspaper depends largelyves, wholly-upon its circulation. A newspaper is a great deal like the human body; if its circulation is good, it prospers; otherwise, otherwise. Some papers publish

GEO. NICOLL, Assistant. Want Columns

That is, a column, or a number of columns, devoted to small advertisements. If a fellow wants anything—trouble, a wife, a house—don't make any difference what it is—he can get it by means of a small ad. Included in the "want" column are "For Sale," "For Rent," "Lost," "Found," "Stolen" and "Miscollaneous." Now, just see what chumps some people are! Why, a man has been known to but over man has been known to hunt over a city—this city—for days looking for a house in which to live. Had
