INDUSTRIAL JAPAN.

post, at least, of civilization.

An interesting sketch of the com mercial expansion of Japan is given by a recent writer in "The Contemporary Review." It snows clearly that the people of that island empire are applying to peaceful industries and commerce the same intelligence, enterprise, energy and adaptability that have already made them so formidable in war. Vast sums as the world knows, have been lavished upon the army and navy of the Mikado. No less a sum than 300,-900,000 yen, the Chinese war indemnity.

But such expenditures are small compared with the capital that in the same sick headaches yield to its influence. time is being invested in manufactures We urge all who are afflicted to procure and commerce. Between January, 1895, a bottle, and give this remedy a fair and April, 1896, new enterprises were trial.
