The story told by Mr. A. J. Coutrie fatal lung trouble. Chas. Rogers. of the gold discovery at cannon Beach will be a surprise to a great many of the Astorian's readers this morning. Mr. Coutrie is so well known to everyone who has lived in this section of the country any considerable length of eredence without the additional and convincing proof exhibited in the pouch of gold brought with him from the "diggings." There is gold to the north of us, and gold to the south; and it gold should exist in this immediate vicinity. Recent United States geological reports show that distinct places indicating large deposits of gold and silver have been found at various points along the coast from the Co lumbia south to the Nehalem river, and there is every reason to believe that further prospecting in the neighborhood of the new Cannon Beach will produce surprising and gratifying re-

It now appears that the minor consulates - those whose salaries are sure to their present democratic incumbents. It was generally believed that when the president issued his famous order extending the civil service law last May to some thousands of positions that belonged to the spoils Parish, La. system, that these consular positions were included in the order, and that service were to be filled by competitive examinations through the civil service. The men who had been appointed to these places by the Cleveland adminintration were laughing in their sleeve at the cute way the president had given them a life-tenure of their places, but it turns out that they laughed too soon. A prominent government official tells this to the Wamington correspondent of the Louisville Courier Journal;

"United States consuls who draw a mainry of $2,500 a year and under are not under civil service, as many people believe. They are, however, under civil service in a limited way, as I will explain. For instance, 40 or 50 applicants file papers asking for this or that consulate. The secretary of state will recommend the applicant to be appointed. The favored applicant is then notified to appear before a civil board in the state department for examination. If he makes the required per cent, he is qualified for appointment, and the presdent does the rest. You may put it have at hand an active, harmless and per-tetter's Stomach Bitters.
