Those politicians who contemplate reiterating the recent democratic assertions that the Wilson law has been more productive of revenue than was the Mc-Kinley law would do well to examine the official figures before committing themselves to statements. The treasury reports show that the customs receipts under the Wilson law during its entire operation from August 28, 1894, until May 1, 1897, a period of 32 months, are $429,020,185. During the first 32 months of the McKinley law the customs receipts, as shown by the official statements, were $518,803,085. People have been puzzled, probably, to know what is the explanation of the frequent state ment made by democrats that their tariff law is more successful as a rev nue producer than was the McKinley law. The explanation is simple. The statement is a He.
