The boys are confident of being able to complete arrangements for the building of a bicycle path in the near future. It has been suggested that it would be a good idea for the county court to join hands with the bicyclists and hold a good road to John Day's and Knappa, charging the whelmen with their share of the cost. The present road to John Day's is too steep in places for wheels.

Look out for the date of the grand entertainment next week. That bright, laughable little farce, "A Lesson in Fascination," is too funny for anything. After the play the fun of the evening will begin, for a real fortune-teller has been engaged, who is far superior in reading both character and the future to any who have yet been in the city. Don't miss this if you want a jolly time.

Mr. E. S. Woodworth, of the Grain commission firm of E. S. Woodworth & Co., Minneapolis, and a brother of Mr. J. G. Woodworth, assistant to President McNeill of the O. R. & N. Co., is spending a few days in Astoria. To an Astorian representative Mr. Woodworth said that he was making a long intended visit to the Pacific coast and that this was his first trip to Oregon. "I was much pleased with the situation on the Sound. I have there a well-established grain shipping business and fine facilities for handling it. You have fine docks here in Astoria and plenty of room for more. I should think this would make a magnificent site for a flour mill when your railroad is completed. There is a growing demand in the Orient for our flour, and tide water is a good place to grind the wheat. I had long promised to visit my brother and am more than repaid for the long journey by what I have seen of Oregon. The Columbia is a mighty stream, and there seems to be plenty of room here for ships of all kinds and any amount of business."

THE FIGHT WAS A DRAWN GAME

Jack Hills and Australian Godfrey Have a Six Round Bout.

THE CROWD WAS SATISFIED

Australian Had the Best of it—Hills Not in Condition—Referee's Decision Considered a Fair One.

Jack Hills and Australian Godfrey fought a six-round glove contest at the new concert hall last night, before a good-sized audience.

Round 1—At the call of time they squared for a moment, and Hills landed hard on the cheek. The crowd made a vicious swing, but Morris cleverly ducked. The crowd swung again and they clinched and the round ended.

Round 2—Godfrey landed left on shoulder, and landed left again on the neck. Hills landed hard right on the breast. Hills landed again and missed. Godfrey landed lightly on the ribs.

Round 3—Hills landed a hard right on the mouth. The crowd missed a swing. Hills landed a hard left on the head and swung again for the same place, but Hills cleverly ducked him.

Round 4—Hills came to the scratch a little winded. They both squared evenly. Hills landed and landed hard on the chin, staggered the crowd against the ropes. The crowd swung his left, but Hills ducked. He swung again, catching Hills lightly on the shoulder. Morris led for the head landing, and the round ended.

Round 5—Hills landed a hard right on the cheek. Hills landed again, and they clinched. Hills landed a hard right and left on the stomach and the round ended.

Round 6—Hills showed up well for this round, although handicapped by his opponent's height and reach, and appeared to have regained his wind somewhat. Godfrey was cool and looked as fresh as in the start. After cautious sparring, Hills landed a hard right and left on the breast. Hills landed on the neck. Hills landed again on the stomach and landed a vicious swing. Hills landed on the chin, Godfrey getting in an uppercut. Hills landed lightly. The crowd swung and missed, which ended the bout.

Referee Keating declared the fight a draw.
