

WOMAN'S REALM

THE DAUGHTER AND THE FATHER

She Should Be Taught by Him Common Sense and Business.

A good deal has been said by Caroline about what mothers can and should do in the training of their daughters...

How many homes have been wrecked because the wife and daughters had never learned the value of a dollar or how it was earned...

Each in the thought that a woman cared, murmured a prayer to God...

Each in the joy of a woman's love, smiled through the pain of death...

Yes, the husbands and the fathers, however much they may try to forget or ignore the fact, have a very grave responsibility...

Woman, with the keener foresight and delicate intuition can frequently more wisely guide the ship of state or steer the family craft than the stronger man...

AND THE SUN WENT DOWN

Two soldiers lay on the battlefield at night when the sun went down...

One held a lock of thin gray hair and one held a lock of brown.

One thought of his sweetheart back at home, happy and young and gay...

And one thought of his mother left alone, feeble and old and gray.

Each in the thought that a woman cared, murmured a prayer to God...

Each in the joy of a woman's love, smiled through the pain of death...

Yes, the husbands and the fathers, however much they may try to forget or ignore the fact, have a very grave responsibility...

PIONEER WOMEN OF OLD CLATSOP

Among the many interesting features of the recent pioneer reunion held in Portland, Ore., has attracted more attention than the address delivered by Mrs. Dr. Owens-Adair...

Mr. President, Oregon Pioneers, Ladies and Gentlemen: I have been requested to speak to you this evening about the pioneer women of Clatsop county, Oregon.

In preparing myself for this pleasant duty I have collected fairly complete sketches of the lives of many of the women who reached old Clatsop in the pioneer days or within the last few years...

Before making particular reference to the little band of noble women who braved all the dangers and privations incident to getting to and living in old Clatsop during the earliest times...

When the earliest pioneer women reached Clatsop they found themselves in the midst of numerous and powerful tribes of Indians...

At this early time the lower Columbia river Indians, from Gray's harbor to Tillamook, although greatly reduced in numbers, could easily have thrown a thousand warriors into Astoria at a day's notice...

Unfortunately, up to quite recent years, the noble part taken by American pioneer women in holding Oregon under our beloved flag, has not been given the prominence it deserved in the printed pioneer annals...

especially from the women, in his intelligent and energetic efforts to this end. In the very interesting and valuable address delivered in 1895 before this society by our late eminent citizen, Col. James W. Nesmith...

It has been my pleasant duty to give a few of the pioneer women who journeyed to old Clatsop, down by the sounding sea, a place in our records...

It will not be surprising to many of my hearers to learn that the first white woman came to Oregon, not by the long and dangerous way across the plains, but in a comfortable vessel, the bark Nevada, from England, in 1842...

There were no pioneer women in the good ship "California" or with the Astor Trading Company or their immediate successors in the summer of 1842...

The separate waist that has soft folds drawn loosely in shirring and gathers and sometimes in few tucks is indispensable in the summer wardrobe of maid or matron...

There are thirty patients at present in St. Mary's hospital and out of that number only one case is of a serious nature...

There are no patients seriously ill at present, but for the medical attendance, as well as being a personal tribute to the watchfulness and kindness of the good sisters.

reaching Oregon City, the steaming journey was long, but their long journey had ended. The Clatsop pioneers thought, had to make a second start, by boat to reach their homes on the shores of the Pacific...

Mr. John Minto gives a graphic description of a trip from London, just below Portland, down the Columbia to Clatsop plains in 1841, when he assisted in moving Captain J. W. Merriam's family to their Clatsop home...

In tracing the lives and deeds of these Clatsop pioneer women, I cannot forget the pleasure of referring in a general way to some of the different types of women, remarkable for their varied characteristics...
