... she put into the woods and smothered her brains out against a large tree.

At Keating's concert hall the Clark sisters are the attraction on the boards this week. They are dancers of more than ordinary ability, contortionists, and will incorporate during their performances a unique and original boxing contest. Crowded houses greet them every night.

It is reported that a gang of bad boys are killing cats and damaging property at Thomas Peterson's and other places on the Young's bay side of the city. Windows are broken, buildings damaged, and small animals killed almost daily. Property-owners are getting tired of these depredations.

A new river service has been inaugurated between Astoria and Rainier, Oregon, including all intermediate landings. The fine steamer "Pillgrim," Captain A. L. Braze, will make round trips daily, except Sunday, leaving Rainier at 5:30 A. M., reaching Astoria at 1:30, and departing on her return at 1:30. Prompt time and the best service is guaranteed for both passengers and freight.

Northern Pacific railroad trains leave Portland daily at 11 o'clock A. M. for Tacoma, Spokane, and the East. Close connection made at Spokane for Roseland, Nelson, Sandow and British Columbia mining camps. For maps and information call on or address C. W. STONE, Astoria, Or.

During one of the horse races at Seaside Sunday, at the Red Men's celebration, Wm. Beasley was run over by one of the horses, which became unmanageable, and seriously injured. The horse struck him in the breast and face, breaking a cheek bone and leaving such marks as will disfigure him for life. He was brought to the hospital and made as comfortable as possible. Report from the hospital last night stated that he was resting very well and would doubtless recover from his injuries.

AN AWFUL ACCIDENT.

Fisherman John Lundgren and Son Run Down by a Steamer.

Saturday night one of the most disastrous accidents which has occurred on the Columbia river in years caused the death of James Julius Lundgren, the thirty-year-old son of John Lundgren, one of the fishermen of the Fishermen's Packing Company.

Only Saturday morning the lad arrived from Aberdeen and that night went out with his father to assist in curing the family living. Just after dark they were fishing off Tongue Point, when the steamer Fannie, with a ship and large net towed behind her, came upon them, the large net being visible in the darkness.

"I saw her coming," said Lundgren, "and shouted to them to stop, but they paid no attention. We rowed as hard as we could, and I thought we were safely out of the way of the steamer, but did not see the large net until it was upon us. My boy shouted 'Pa! Pa!' they are coming over us; and in a moment he was struck and sunk out of sight under the large net. The boat was also sucked under. Praying to God for my boy, I lifted my hands high, and by accident struck the breast line of the large net and was able to drag myself upon the barge. When the steamer struck us the men stopped her machinery and the men aided me in a search for the boy. They said they heard him say good-by, but we could not find him. The boat staid around there all night, and landed me the next morning at the Eagle cannery, after taking my name and that of the boy. Oh, my boy! my boy! Why can't the steamers, when they know that there are hundreds of poor fishermen in the river every night, trying to earn a living in the only way they can, blow their whistles occasionally to give us warning. The captain said he heard me cry out, but had a heavy load and could not stop. But the boy is gone."

Mr. John Peterson, one of the officers of the Fishermen's Packing Company, says that Mr. Lundgren had been nearly crazy since the accident, and thinks that it is time steamers took some means to be more careful of fishermen in the river. Boats often cannot display lights, and on dark nights it is an easy matter for the pilot of a steamer to blow his whistle frequently to warn the fishermen.

A TALENTED LECTURER.

A writer in the Eugene Journal, speaking of the Capital City, has the following to say of Rev. W. E. Copeland, who is to lecture here next Thursday, notice of which is to be made elsewhere: "One of the foremost thinkers of the Capital City, and one who ranks high among the thinkers of the Pacific coast, is Dr. W. E. Copeland, the pastor of St. Paul's church, for Unity Church at Astoria. I call him lecturer rather than preacher, because he lectures on economical, sociological and historical questions, keeping always uppermost the teachings of Christ, and interweaving in all his lectures the idea that human kindness and love is paramount to all creeds and the true brotherhood of man is the true religion. Dr. Copeland is a Bible, short, slender, shrewd man, with a long head, which for many years has not been troubled with hair. He is really a very small man physically, and a very large one intellectually. His head goes high up in front, square across the top, with a large reverence bump behind, and then square down. He wears short chin-whiskers and mustaches, both now quite gray, for the Doctor is a Harvard graduate with the class of 1884, and is a parastite of A. R. man. Dr. Copeland has just closed a series of lectures on the pre-historic races of America. In these lectures he has demonstrated the great antiquity of man in America, has shown that highly civilized races of people lived in Central America many thousands of years before the archaic Bible was written. Dr. Copeland has quite a fine following, or congregation, of independent people, most of whom are educated and careful persons."

emphatic announcement of the principles and beliefs which accord with the best and most thoughtful sentiments and aspirations of our countrymen."

When the letter from Cleveland was read his name was greeted with tumult. It was said that the delegation from the democratic league was present to give all gold men.

Bryan's letter was loudly cheered. Bryan in his letter said: "I trust your meeting may prove the inauguration of a campaign which will result in putting Greater New York under democratic control. The party has already shown, in Chicago, Cincinnati and several other cities, larger gains than will be required to overcome the republican majority registered in New York and Brooklyn last November. An interesting point to a strong growth in public sentiment about the lines laid down in the Chicago platform, the failure of the republican policy to restore prosperity having given new impetus to the movement, which has for its object the restoration of the gold and silver currency of the constitution. I trust your celebration will excite increased interest in the principles of Jefferson and Jackson, and thus hasten the day when these principles will be completely triumphant in city, state and nation."

Ex-Senator D. B. Hill, pleading a previous engagement to speak at Oswego, sent a letter of regret in which he said: "I have but one practical suggestion to make at this crisis. The republican managers, in creating Greater New York, expected to make it a republican city, otherwise it would not have been created. Democratic division will fulfill their expectations. Democratic unity will disappoint them. The course of the democracy is plain. Let us disappoint our enemies."
