The Finest Circus and Mentgerts Ev-On the Pacific Coast.

What was undoubtedly the bear and cleanest circus and menageris entertainment ever seen in Astoria yesterday made its appearance here. Both the chief of solice and the sheriff said that It is a pleasure to see a neatly dressed it was the first time in their experience man. And it's remarkable to what ex- when they had seen a circus company here which was not followed by a game of sure-thing gamblers and confidence men. There was absolutely no work for the department to do. Mr. Walter Recorder Williams was kept busy all L. Main, the proprietor, is only thirty years of age, but la a man of great xecutive ability, and will not have anyhing connected with his entertainment that is not absolutely on the square. He is a Mason of high standing, and takes particular pride in keeping his business

> The finest specimens of horses and wild animals which have been exhibited n this territory for many years belong a the W. L. Main show. The team of eight blacks which draw the band wagon, the ponies and riding horses, are all perfect specimens of horsefiesh. They are well groomed and well fed. Mr. Main does not allow a whip to be used by any of his men, his animals being samiled by the law of kindness.

To describe this great circus enter tainment would take columns. It can only be said that every feature as adver tised was presented. MAN OVERBOARD.

Priday night, as the Walter L. Main reus company was on its way down the river on two large barges in tow of he steamer Harvest Queen, a tragedy

Jake Hansen, who lives at 1522 Tacoma (venue, Tacoma, joined the circus company, the other day, while it was exhibiting in that city. Hansen worked for Kelly's woodyard, but thought he would like to travel on the road, and was given the opportunity. Just before the beats were nearing Brookfild, Hanwas taken with nightmare and jumped up shouting "They're after mel He was sleeping near the end of the barge and close by was a pony, which had become restless and kept up a stamping. This, probably, had its effect on Hansen, who, in his sleep, jumped out of bed, ran to the end of the barge, and jumped into the river. The concussion with the water awoke him, and he cried for help. A fisherman near by said he shouted three times. Three of the circus employees umped into the water and swam about, looking for the missing man, while several bonts were lowered, but all to n vall-Hansen could not be found.

CLATSOP CROPS
