who attend will be afforded an excellent opportunity to see the progress which has been made in the railroad construction. Train leaves at 9:30, returning at 4:30. Fare for children, 15 cents. Members of the Sunday school are free. Adults, 25 cents. There is a nice beach for bathing. Basket lunch in the orchard.

Northern Pacific railroad trains leave Portland daily at 11 o'clock a. m. for Tacoma, Spokane, and the East. Close connection made at Spokane for Roseland, Nelson, Sandow and British Columbia mining camps. For maps and information call on or address C. W. STONE, Astoria, Or.

D. Ellery, the well known traveling freight agent of the Northern Pacific, was in the city yesterday. He reported that business with the transportation companies is very good, and that the prospects are that the railroads will have more than they can do this fall. The large crops in Oregon and Washington will tax the capacity of the companies to move them to market.

There will be services as usual at the Presbyterian church tomorrow at 11 in the morning and 8 in the evening. Theme of the morning sermon, "The Hiding Place of Wisdom"; evening theme, "One Debt to a Christian Ancestry." Sunday school at 12:15, Y. P. S. C. E. at 7. You are most cordially invited to worship with us. Henry Marcotte, pastor.

Mr. H. F. L. Logan, of the Seaside sawmill, will soon put in a box-making plant at his mill and largely increase his business. The new, fashioned logging engine which is being made for Mr. Logan by the Columbia Iron Works will soon be ready for use. It will weigh about twelve tons and has a patent drum different from anything in use in this territory.

Swedish Lutheran church—Swedish services at 10:30 a. m. English services at 8 p. m. Text, Luke 12:1-8. Topic, "A Faithful Steward of the Lord." The Sunday school picnic was a success as far as the place of holding the picnic and the weather were concerned. The accommodations for getting to the grounds were also good. Yet, the crowd might have been larger.

"Where are the subscriptions of the Canadian and Northern Pacific railroads to the regatta fund?" was the question asked in many quarters yesterday. It could not be quite understood why these two companies, who are each doing a large business here, should not be as liberal as the other transportation lines, when they will be benefited as much as anyone by the carnival.

It was a pleasure to every true Astorian to watch the endless chain of men who came out of Herman Wise's big store yesterday, laden with suits, hats, shirts, etc. There are several reasons why Wise does the biggest business. One is, he has by far the largest assortment in pick from, and another reason is his fine standing among the fishermen, whose friend he has shown himself to be. The fishermen are a generous lot of men and they always stand by their friends.

THAT STEAMER LINE.
Inquiries Coming in From All Sides in Regard to It.

Hundreds of inquiries are being made concerning the proposed steamer line between Astoria and Alaska. County officials and business men daily receive letters and personal inquiries as to when it is to be inaugurated, when stock in the line will be for sale, what the rates of freight and passage will be, what ports will be made, how many boats will be in the line, and many other similar questions. Even the farmers in the Nehalem are offering to subscribe stock to such a project, knowing that it will be a profitable investment if the enterprise is conducted on business principles. Fishermen, who are going to Alaska in the spring, have requested that they be included in such a scheme, and will give their work during the winter for the sake of getting greatly reduced rates to Alaska.

It has been suggested that during the winter fishermen and others who want stock put in their time building a good-sized knoeked down river steamer—their time, work, and any material furnished to entitle them to so much stock in the concern and reduced rates of freight and passage to Alaska. A large steamer should be chartered to ply regularly between Astoria and St. Michaels and on the first trip the river steamer in sections could be transported to the Yukon and launched for regular service there. That such an enterprise would pay large returns is certain.

A man who knows how to handle goods and is not asleep said yesterday that what was wanted here was two or three live men, possessed of a little of the Seattle spirit, who would get their heads together and do something instead of waiting until a year from next Christmas for the report of an investigating committee, when, by the time they learned that there is such a place as Alaska and that it is being rapidly peopled and that goods of all kinds are bringing large prices, some other town would have all the trade cornered and there would be no profit in another steamer line. "If Astoria," he said, "is content to remain all its days a fishing station on a par with Skamokawa, Cathlamet, or Pillar Rock, a mere aggregation of China wash houses, fish oil factories and a few packing houses, then let it continue to pursue a backwoods schoolboy policy of sitting on the banks of the mighty Columbia, at the greatest natural harbor on the Pacific coast, and watch the possession of property infiltrated by Seattle, Tacoma and Portland, pass by. In the face of a rising tide of national pride and plenty and with unlimited timber reserves within a stone's throw of the harbor, and with the greatest wheat crop the Northwest ever saw; added to the fact that within a few months the railroad will be completed and the iron horse that has traveled across the continent will blow its breath upon Astoria's docks, it is simply suicide and death to every hope and project to quietly sit down, fold our hands and wait for the other fellow to do something that will sell our town low."

The inquiring company residents and others have one and all been old that when Astoria's Alaska steamer line is put in operation the millenium will be upon us and there will be no need of gold mines, steamer lines or railroads.

THE BIG RAFT Afloat.
Captain Robertson's third big raft of logs built at Seila for shipment to San Francisco is now on the way down the river in tow of the two steamers, Maria and Vulcan. The voyage was commenced at 12 o'clock noon on the 12th and the huge craft passed Oak Point at 3 o'clock yesterday, tying up for the night at Pillar Rock. It will reach Astoria today, and barring any accidents the captain will sail for San Francisco tomorrow.

Captain Robertson has been very successful in handling these rafts and anticipates a smooth trip with this one.

CARE OF THE EYES.
The greater per cent of the eye troubles, such as inflammation, granulation, etc., are brought on by errors of refraction, due to malformation of the eye-ball. This also is the cause of 90 per cent of headache and nervous troubles and 50 per cent of stomach troubles—all of which can be overcome by glasses properly adjusted.

Dr. J. A. Barr, a scientific optician of Portland, late of Minneapolis, is stopping at the Hotel Tule, for two weeks. If you are afflicted in any way with the eyes, or are suffering from headaches, be sure to see him. Examination free.
