"The debts of Nebraska are being paid. follow the political doctrines of their governor they would adopt a policy of repudiation. I understand why you appear so well and happy. You are thinking of wheat and silver. They have come to a passage of ways slace the good old days of Benjamin Harrison until last October, when the republican victory became assured they have not been within speaklow distance of each other. The first great promise of the St. Louis and opportunity for us to begin the work of getting Nebraska back into the union again. The immediate problem for us today is to save our supreme court from populist invasion, and save our state from the contempt of good men."

Harrisburg, Pa., August 26.-The state republican convention met today to namlast November and the prospects of success in Pennsylvania this fall. He closed by saying:

'With more gold in the Klondike, gold in the harvest fields, the republican party directing the administration of patienal affairs the Dingley bill on our statute books and McKinley holding the reins government, peace and prosperity shall dwell within our borders, let us hope, forever."

The platform adopted reaffirms the doctrines enunciated in the national platform adopted in St. Lous by 1896. The platform continues: "Dollar wheat has sounded the death knell of the free coinage heresy. The farmer now receives a dollar for wheat payable in gold. The dollar thus received will buy two dollars and thirty-five cents worth of silver. We pledge ourselves anew to the republican doctrine of sound money and an honest dollar."

James S. Beacom, of Westmoreland county, was cominated for state treasurer, and Major G, McCauley, of Cheser county, for auditor general.
