Especially would he have the railroads managed by the state, and he points to Germany as the model not only in railroad administration, but in popular liberty and prosperity generally. It is really a pity that Mr. Altgeld left Germany, if he really thinks the German methods better adapted to popular progress. There seem to be a good many of his countrymen who are not of his mind, and there certainly are a great many Americans who prefer the American system and have very little time for Altgeld's railing accusations against the whole structure of American society.

SPEAKER REED ON PROSPERITY.

Speaker Reed says it is safer to prophecy what will happen in a hundred or a thousand years, than as to what is coming to pass tomorrow; but as to prosperity, all the symptoms are here, and it looks like 1879, when the country rose up, because specie payments gave the people confidence that all was night. He says:

"Another encouraging symptom is that the financial medicine men are now ex plaining in a low tone of voice why what they said in such loud tones last year was not so. This is the prelude to the utter silence which will fall upon them in due time, a silence which will be the aignal that the world has settled one other fiffancial problem in the only way it can be settled, and that is, in the
