Louis Cordes, driver of the chemical engine, met with a very painful accident yesterday morning. After the morning exercise the team was stopped in front of the engine house for the purpose of giving the running gear of the machine a washing. Cordes got down off his seat and was standing by the horses when the water was turned on. The little noise that the water made startled the horses and they started east on Commercial street on the jump. Cordes grabbed the reins but was unable to stop them and when opposite Cooper's store was thrown against a telegraph pole which broke his hold on the reins. The team turned at Carlson's corner and then turned west on Bond street. In the meantime Cordes had picked himself up and ran through the alley way next to the Palace restaurant. He reached Bond street just as the team passed by and made an attempt to stop them, but was knocked down and one of the wheels ran over his left hand and forearm. The team ran as far as the top of the hill in Uniontown and then were stopped. They were not injured and the chemical only had the front axle sprung. Cordes was taken to Dr. Estes office where it was found that two fingers of the left hand were broken and the bone of right arm cracked in two places, and an ugly scalp wound was inflicted on the back of his head, which required three stitches. After his injuries had been dressed he was taken to the residence of Frank McGregor. It is not thought that he is internally injured but it will take several days to determine whether he is or not. Last night he was resting as comfortably as could be, and friends watched the night with him.

M'GREGOR WENT DUCK HUNTING

AND THAT'S WHY THE COUNCIL DID NOT DO BUSINESS.

The Meeting Was Decided to Be Illegal, as the Absent Member Had Voted Against It.

Councilman McGregor is shooting ducks above Tongue Point. If he were not there last night's meeting of the council would have been legal and the matter of the extension of Commercial street acted upon. But Mr. McGregor had to go hunting and no business was transacted at the meeting.

McGregor's smiling face was missed when Mayor Taylor's gavel collided with his desk. The mayor stated that the meeting was held through a resolution passed (?) at the last gathering of the municipal paters. He thought there was a question as to the legality of the meeting and asked the council to determine upon it before proceeding to business.

"The rules provide," said his honor, "that no standing order of the council shall be changed except by unanimous vote. McGregor voted against the resolution. An important matter is to be considered and the question of the legality of the meeting is left in very grave doubt. Matters of minor importance might be acted upon, but the council should be very careful about the matter of the extension of Commercial street. I call your attention to rule 21:"

The rule upon which hinged the legality of the meeting is as follows:

"No standing rule or order of the council shall be rescinded or suspended except by the vote of every melbere present . . . ."

Welch, Parker and Thompson argued in favor of holding the meeting. The former was of the opinion the council could change a rule at any time; if the rule was not fixed by ordinance it might be changed by majority vote. While satisfied the meeting was legal, he did not wish to take any chances of invalidating any action as to the extension, as he realized fully its importance.

City Attorney Curtis was then asked for his opinion, and there was no further discussion after he expressed himself on the subject. He had discussed the matter with Mayor Taylor and thought the rule left a possible chance of raising a question; but he thought the objection could not be made to hold. Still where the city had to deal with property owners, he was of the opinion it should be on the safe side. It was a matter which had never been decided upon by a court, and therefore one of open question.

Parker took the attorney's advice as the best and moved adjournment.

Mr. McGregor is still hunting ducks.

At the Baptist church tomorrow the pastor will preach in the morning. Subject of sermon, "Christ at the Door." In the evening Rev. Mr. Holtoman, of Eastern Oregon, will preach. All other regular services as usual. You are cordially invited to attend.

The barometer fell, up to 4:30 yesterday afternoon since morning, from 29.90 to 29.53, and was still going down last night. The register is the lowest in a year and a gale is blowing off the coast. The Columbine prepared to go to the Sound at 4 p. m. yesterday, but Captain Richardson wisely decided not to go out. The Manzanita went out in the morning to Tillamook rock, but up to a late hour last night had not returned. Grave fears were entertained by some on the water front for her safety, but Commander Merrell, in speaking of it, said she is now in such staunch condition that he could imagine her getting in no real difficulty.

In speaking of the adjustment of the Flavel Hotel matters yesterday, one of the stockholders said: "The hotel will be revived and put in running order by some one, but some of us may be like the Irishman who got drunk. His friends took him in charge, and to sober him up put him in a coffin to sleep. The coffin was placed in a dark vault, damp and clammy with the dust of ages. After awhile the 'friends' gathered around, in the far corners, to see the result of the experiment on the awakening of their victim. Pat finally came to. All was dark. He sniffed the damp air, felt about him, and defining the outlines of his coffin-bed, exclaimed, 'There, that is just my luck; there has been a resurrection and they left me behind.'"
