Young Leiter and his friends, who have bought wheat by the million bushels, and and malariat disorders. It is at the start put up the price, got credit for a few days that disease is the more easily and comincreasing the balance of trade in our favor. There has been a change in the tone of the journals that are determined the people shall be free. The price of bread is going up with the price of wheat, and there is complaint from the shops. If wheat goes down the farmers are grieved. If it goes up, and bread with it, the poor men of the cities are justly disquieted.

The liberal proposition of Mr. Johnson to donate one hundred trees and plants to the public park certainly will not be allowed to drop. It must be remembered nearly ten years old, and which could not be duplicated for five times the mone that would be paid for young trees as shrubs. The park question is one of the most important matters before the city today. It is not so much the immediate results to be obtained; it is not that any one expects to obtain a finished play ground for use this summer-parks are never finished-it is not that there is an blea on the part of the most ardent sup porters of the scheme that much mone can, or will, be spent this season or it any single year on its improvement. Ruthere is a well-founded belief that a respectable showing can be made before the time arrives when such a public in provement will be an absolute necessity Then land will be high and town lots for such a purpose will cost money. Now there are several property owners ready to donate a site, if there is any assurance made that a beginning will be made for its improvement on a permanent and broad scale. This is the year of all others and now is the time of year to make the beginning. In a few days, comparatively the railroad will be finished, people will be coming here to look at our resource and decide what attractions there are here for a home. One of the influences that will make a favorable impression is a city park, and even though only the site has been selected and a few city boarders put to work clearing off brush, it will have its weight. Let the site be secured while everything is favorable. Mr. Johnson's offer accepted, and the rest will be emocoth satting.

ALLUREMENTS OF THE KLONDIKE.

It was recently announced that all desirable gold-bearing claims in the Klondike had been located, and that the only opportunity for the newcomer to make money would be by purchase or by supplying capital for the operation of claims well situated but now unproductive.

Following this comes the startling information that at least 250,000 people are actively preparing to start for the Alaskan gold region in early spring

The statement that all the productive sent out by original locators want to get more claims, and of course, the statement has always been supported by those who have prospected without satisfactory results. It has been the rule that the discoveries subsequent to such warnings have been greater than the original ones. It is an axiom of mining 'bat "gold is where you find it," and there has been no truer illustration of this than in the great silver camp of Leadville, where in early days no gold was supposed to exist, and where the gold belt now has a larger area than the one in which silver is mined,

The only productive Klondike mines likely that the best claims have be taken. Certain it is that the intendiprospector will have to look for gold long distance from the present bases The Asterian guarantees to its sub-- 23 reported to be preparing for an invasiof the Klondike next spring.
