AN AGGRESSIVE CUBAN CAMPAIGN

wildly. The Winslow now swung around broadside to bring her two after guns to bear as the Spaniard fleet scattered and lost formation.

The Winslow soon maneuvered so that she was peppering all three boats at once. The sea was very heavy and the torpedo boat rolled so wildly that it was impossibl to do good gun practice from her decks, but the rapidity of her fire and remarkable effectiveness under the circumstances demoralized all three opponents, which after the Winslow had fired about fifty shells began gradually to work back toward the shelter of the harbor. They were still hammering away with their six-pounders, but their fire was wild. Several balls passed over the Winslow, and one exploded 100 feet astern.

At last a one-pound shell from the Winslow struck the hull of the gun boat Pinzon after amidships, apparently exploding on the inside. The Winslow men yelled. The Pinzon stopped, evidently disabled, while one of her comrades went to her assistance. By this time the Spanish boats had retreated nearly into the position where they could not be followed because of mines. The Pinzon got under way slowly and limped homeward with the help of a tow line from her consort. During this episode the Machias had returned and within the two-mile range let fly two 6-inch shells, which accelerated the Spanish night. The flotilla managed to creep back into Cardenas harbor in safety.

This is the hottest encounter of the war in Cuban waters up to date, although it was in minature, so to speak. The Spanish gun boats at Cardenas are small unarmored craft about the length of the Winslow, but mounting heavier guns.

When the Three Friends came near Havana at 11 o'clock Monday forenoon a tangle of masts and murky smoke cloud northeast from Morro castle for about ten miles looked as if the fleet was assembled in a marine convention. It proved to be the Norwegian merchantman Bratzberg, surrounded by the gun boats Newport, Mangrove, a small Spanish schooner and two newspaper dispatch boats. The Bratzberg had been captured in the morning eight miles east of Morro by the Newport, which picked up also a deep-laden Havana fishing schooner. The Bratzberg seemed high and light. Her decks were built high with cattle pens, which were empty. The steamer was trying to run the blockade at Havana when overhauled by the Newport and was summarily stopped by a shot across her bows. This is the steamer which was captured several days ago from Mexican ports bound for Havana with a cargo of live cattle. She was taken into Key West but released on condition that the cargo would be taken to a Central American destination. The Bratzberg sailed away with the Norwegian flag flying with promises of being good. She turned up again today with her cargo of cattle missing and headed for Havana. Her papers were not satisfactory nor was her conduct approved. A prize crew from the Newport was put on board and ordered to take her to Key West for further investigation. The schooner was taken in tow of the captured steamer.

bounty to the captain for any vessel captured from an enemy which they are instructed to destroy, or which is immediately destroyed for the public iterest, but not in consequence of injuries received in action. $50 for every person who shall be on board at the time of such capture."

According to the reports from Manila, the Spanish fleet destroyed by the Americans consisted of ten or eleven cruisers, gun boats and torpedo boats, with crews amounting to 1872 men. At the rate of $100 for each man of the Spanish naval force the amount to be divided among the American sailors will be $187,200. The vessels of the United States were, if anything, undermanned. The numbers will be under rather than over 1733.

The $187,200 will be distributed to the fleet under section 4631 of the revised statutes relating to prize money. Admiral Dewey will get one-twentieth of the whole amount of bounty awarded to his command. That will give him $9,360. If he has a fleet captain or what passes for one, the latter will have a share of something like $1800. There will be left to be distributed to the vessels of the fleet, according to their pay rolls, about $175,000. This will go to seven ships in about the following shares:

Olympia, $45,000; Baltimore, $40,000; Boston, $25,000; Raleigh, $25,000; Concord, $20,000; Petrel, $12,000; McCulloch, $9,000.

To the commander of each single vessel there will go one-tenth of the amount assigned to that vessel. After the amounts mentioned have been deducted the residue will be distributed to the lesser officers and samen of the ships in proportion to their rates of pay on the day of the engagement. The amount to each seaman will be in the neighborhood of $50.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D.: "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at Estes-Conn Drug Co. Regular size 50 cents and $1. Guaranteed or price refunded.
