THE END WORKING OUT.

The proposed Kennewick extension of the A. & C. R. R. has but one meaning. It forebodes an alliance between the Astoria road and the Northern Pacific.

No prophetic eye is required to discern the tremendous importance to Astoria of this latest move on the railroad chess-board.

"If my company is successful in negotiations that are now in progress on the Atlantic coast, one of two steamers will be secured and sent around the Horn destined for Seattle, to be used in the carrying trade between this city and Honolulu."

To the interview, the Post-Intelligencer appends the following comment on the purposes and plans of the moving spirit in Mr. Farrell's operations:

Some of the Londoners are still critical, regarding the alleged mutilation and useless slaughter of derisives after the battle of Omdurman, and General Lord Kitchener has just sent a reply to questions asked in Parliament about it.

There was a time when the Northern Pacific looked longingly at the Pacific Coast Company, with its splendid terminal properties in Seattle and its coal mines and railroad there, both of which are earning big dividends.

At that time there was outstanding accounts between the Northern Pacific and the Oregon Improvement Company aggregating in volume something like $250,000.

When Mr. Farrell went east not long since to straighten out that $250,000 account with the Northern Pacific, all hope of the acquisition of the Seattle terminal properties of the Pacific Coast Company by the Northern Pacific was destroyed.
