DEWEY ON THE PHILIPPINES.

The one man whose final judgment as to the final destiny of the Philippine islands will carry more weight with the American people than the opinions of any other hundred men in the country.

Admiral Dewey has several times incidentally referred to the destiny of the Philippines in public or private utterances.

We must never sell them. Such an action would bring on another great war. We will never part with the Philippines.

The is no misunderstanding Admiral Dewey's convictions, and it is obvious that they have not been hastily formed.

The criminal who is always sent to the jail appears to have the courage of his convictions.

Some women are so indolgent that when they have absolutely nothing else to do they worry.

A woman is always so relieved when a man assumes the initiative in a breakup, provided, of course, she is just a bit tired herself.
