How Townspeople and Farm Folks Can Co-operate for Benefit of Each

PRESIDENT HOWARD, CHIEF OF FARM BUREAUS, WRITES FOR THIS PAPER ON 20TH CENTURY SUBJECT,—DEVELOPING THE GREATER COMMUNITY SPIRIT.

JAMES R. HOWARD

James R. Howard, an Iowa farmer and the President of the American Farm Bureau Federation, speaks for organized agriculture. In the following article he touches on a question near to his heart—the development of a community spirit between townsmen and farmers.

Townspeople and farmers are not two alien races but brothers facing the same problems; a spirit of co-operation between them is absolutely necessary if our nation is to reach the Promised Land of Normalcy. One of the great tasks of our national farmers' organization—the American Farm Bureau Federation—is to bring to the town man a better understanding of the farmer and the farmers' problems, while we consider it equally our task to interpret justly to the farmer the town man and his problems.

EXAMPLE OF RELATIONSHIP

The relation of the farmer and the banker serves well to illustrate our point. Certainly their problem is parallel. The banker conserves the fiscal wealth of his community, storing and distributing it as need may arise and occasion justify. It is his business to use this fiscal wealth in such a way as will create new accumulations of wealth and safeguard the interests of the community. It is the farmer's business to conserve the soil wealth of the community, distributing the products as the needs of society may indicate.

but always, if we are good farmers, having in mind the accumulation of fertility on which the drafts of future generations may be drawn.

All know that the farmer is the principal producer of the fiscal wealth of the nation. The banker is interested in the fiscal wealth, and if the farmer fails to produce not only the banker's business but all business suffers. The farmer's problem is certainly the townsman's problem. The period of stagnation from which we are just emerging is but sad proof of this.

FARMER WILL NOW HELP

For several decades cities and towns have had various forms of organizations to work on economic and social problems. They have accomplished much. Most of this time the farmer has been unorganized. His own problems have been neglected and he has been in no position to aid the townsman. That time has passed.

American agriculture is now organized as agriculture never before in the history of the world was organized. Problems peculiar to the agricultural industry are being attacked, much has been done in finding their solution.

And not only is the farmer in a position to aid himself, but he now comes to the aid of his town brother. In a national way such programs as good roads, reduction of freight rates, taxation—all problems of vital concern to the town man—are receiving the heartiest support from organized agriculture.

THIS IS COOPERATION!

In the local units opportunity is afforded for the closest co-operation. Schools, roads—the particular features on which such a co-operative spirit might be developed, are immaterial. Only yesterday from down in Missouri came the story of one example of town-country co-operation: Through its agricultural committee the commercial club of Columbia, Missouri, is furnishing a market news service to farmers. The plan is to list free of charge any grain, livestock products, farm machinery of all kinds, and even land or farms that the owner would buy or sell. The committee believes that owing to the almost prohibitive high freight rates existing today, that it is to the advantage of the producer to sell or buy whenever there is an opportunity near at home.

SCHOOLS COME FIRST

When the question is asked me, "In what particular can country and town best co-operate," the word school immediately comes into my mind. Country and town co-operating in the establishment of consolidated schools find a common ground. Even closer the tie can be drawn by making the consolidated school a real live community center.

My own home is on a farm out in Iowa, five miles from the town of Clements. There we have that real community spirit. We have a park—a community park built by farmers and townspeople—and it is a real park.

Townspeople and farmers are not two alien races, but brothers facing the same problem.

REPORT UPON PEACE TREATIES FAVORABLE

Borah Only Member of Senate Foreign Relations Committee Voting No.

Washington. — Favorable report on the peace treaties between the United States and Germany, Austria and Hungary, was ordered by the senate foreign relations committee.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, leader of the fight against the treaty of Versailles, was the only member to vote against reporting the treaties.

Before reporting the three pacts, the committee adopted a reservation requiring that congress pass an act for appointment of an American representative on allied commissions by the president with the advice and consent of the senate.

Another reservation adopted by the committee, presented by Senator Pomerene, Democrat, Ohio, provided that protection given the United States government in its property interests should apply also to American nationals.

The vote on reporting the treaties favorably was nine to one, the supporters of the treaties including six republicans and three democrats, all of the members present except Senator Borah, who cast the sole negative vote. The republicans voting for the treaties were Senators Lodge, Massachusetts, chairman; McCumber, North Dakota; Brandegee, Connecticut; Johnson, California; New, Indiana, and Kellogg, Minnesota.

The three democrats were Senators Swanson, Virginia; Pomerene, Ohio, and Shields, Tennessee.

ALL NATION TO HONOR UNKNOWN WAR DEAD

Washington, D. C.—The nation will pause for two minutes on Armistice day to honor the unknown dead of the great war.

Detailed plans for the ceremony at Arlington national cemetery on that day when the body brought back from France is to be buried were made public by the war department and include a proclamation by President Harding calling for the two-minute halt at noon throughout the nation to be devoted to prayer and reverent memories for the dead.

The body returned from France on the cruiser Olympia will reach Washington after midnight November 9 and will lie in state in the capitol until 9 o'clock Armistice day, November 11. It will then be escorted by an official mourning party to Arlington cemetery, the line of march being guarded by troops. The mourning party will include all living holders of the congressional medal of honor who desire to come, one war veteran out of every 10,000 who served from each state in the great war; and an officer and an enlisted man from each unit of the army and navy and representatives of the American Legion and other veterans' organizations and patriotic societies.

From American military posts throughout the world minute guns of mourning will sound from sunrise until after the burial ceremonies in Washington.

C.—Hearings to be held prior to action by the department of justice on the proposed modification of the consent decree for divorcement of the five big packers from all operations except meat packing will be before a special board of three members representing the departments of justice.
