THE MAN WHO ATE FOUR SHEEP FOR BREAKFAST

There are famous appetites in history and more or less famous appetites right here in our own community. But have you yet heard of the Amerfcan citizen who consumed four sheep -or, to be exact the equivalent of four sheep for breakfast?

Come with us to Chicago. Arriving on another train is a stock farmer from Nebraska who raises sheep by ten thousands. No matter about his name; the incident is on record in the office of Mr. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture in Washington.

The stock farmer has shipped 12,000 sheep before leaving home. When his stock arrives in Chicago he sells it and is paid thirty-two cents per sheep after freights, commissions much there to build a town on, and and other charges are deducted.

The next morning he goes into a fairly good Chicago restaurant and or-ders mutton chops for breakfast. When he pays his bill he finds that he has eaten the equivalent of the price be had the day before received for

As we have said before the woodpile is full of Senegambians.
