THE UMATILLA CUT-OFF

"The Journal" of October 25th has an editorial supporting the Pendleton argument against the Umatilla cut-off. The Journal may not be informed on all points in favor of this small stretch of highway, or the attitude of some of our citizens take on the subject. The same arguments as those of the E-O, might have been used all along the route of the Columbia highway and the road diverged from its natural and proposed route into the various populated districts of the adjoining counties between here and Portland.

But the purpose of the road was and is to enable tourists to enjoy the rare beauty of the Columbia river with its variety of scenery. It was to be a scenic attraction as well as a useful thoroughfare. Why all at once the scenery should be more attractive by way of Pendleton is more than some of us can understand.

This small stretch of highway connects the Yellowstone, Evergreen and Columbia highways, and makes a direct route into Portland; there is a missing link without it. There is no reason why it is not as important as the rest of the 150 miles of roads.

MRS. D. C. BROWNELL PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

Word was received here Monday of the death of Mrs. Clara Alice (Bassett) Brownell, one of the early settlers and best loved citizens of Umatilla, which occurred in Portland on Sunday, October 22nd.

She has always been a participant in all the social and active life of Umatilla and the surrounding community, and her long and incurable disease was a great grief to her five children and husband, and her many friends and relatives.

Mrs. Brownell was born on November 10, 1855, at Quincy, Ill., and crossed the plains when only 4 years old by ox team to California. She married Dewitt C. Brownell on February 16, 1879, and moved to Oregon in 1888. Until recently the Brownell home was at Umatilla, where they had lived for the last 20 years, and the name Brownell has been connected with every progressive movement in eastern Oregon.

Her father was Isaac Bassett, and her mother Sarah Ormsby Bassett. She is survived by her husband, Dewitt C. Brownell, sons Llewellyn and Carl of Umatilla, and Cyril of Portland, and daughters, Mrs. Edward Lee of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Mrs. Fred G. Hofer of Portland. She was a member of the Eastern Star and the First Presbyterian church.

The many friends of the departed will miss her greatly. One of her last wishes was to see her old home town with its familiar faces.

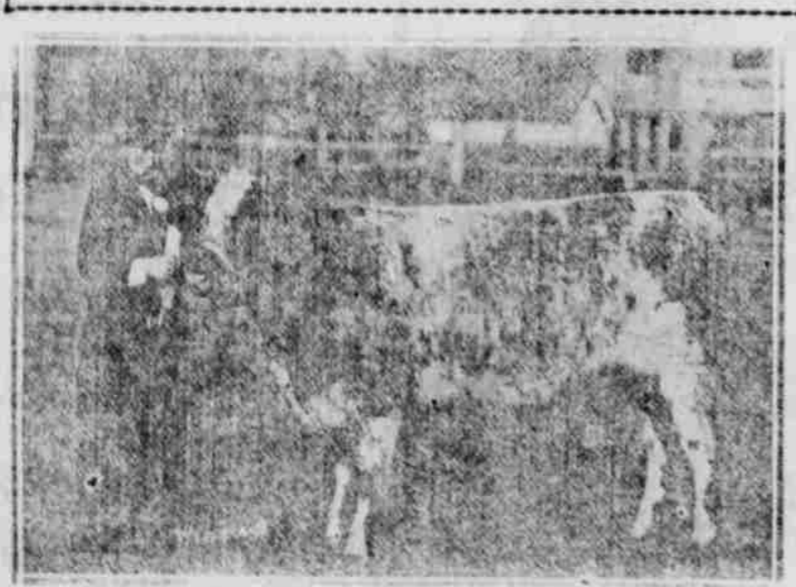

Her father was Isaac Bassett, and her mother Sarah Ormsby Bassett. She is survived by her husband, Dewitt C. Brownell, sons Llewellyn and Carl of Umatilla, and Cyril of Portland, and daughters, Mrs. Edward Lee of Oklahoma City, Okla., and Mrs. Fred G. Hofer of Portland. She was a member of the Eastern Star and the First Presbyterian church.

The members of the Masonic order were acting pall bearers. Many large and beautiful floral offerings were received from all parts of the country, where she had friends and acquaintances.

Dr. Ray Logan has been under the weather this week.

Dale West and His Winning Heifer

Dale West, of Klamath Falls, Oregon, came with the other boys' and girls' club members to the Pacific International Live Stock Exposition last year and entered his Shorthorn heifer, Meand's Baroness 2d. Well bred, in splendid condition and trained to stand and lead properly for the judges, both she and her master made a fine impression, and she was awarded first in the young class of beef breeds. Dale was written to O. M. Plummer, manager of the great show to be held this year at North Portland, Oregon, Nov. 5-12, that he wants to be a part of the exposition, and he sent his check for $25 for one share of stock. The boys' and girls' club exhibits at the Pacific International last year were very interesting, and perhaps as important to the nation as any division there.

UNCLE SAM'S FUMIGATING VATS

SO RAPIDLY does the world move now-a-days, so numerous and varied are the wonders which are wrought by the ingenuity of our experts in various lines and so quietly is the work carried on, it frequently happens that the general public knows but little of the marvels that are among us.

For instance, down on the Texas border—at Laredo, to be exact—the United States Department of Agriculture operates a fumigating plant or vat which is sufficiently large to accommodate a train of fifteen freight cars at one time.

Freight cars arriving in the States from Old Mexico are infected with five, pink bollworm—a pest which feeds and devours the unripened pods of the cotton plant. If permitted to enter and scatter in this country, it would, provided it gained much headway, create losses running into the millions of dollars annually.

To prevent this loss and preserve the crop, therefore, such cars are unceremoniously shunted into these vats and the unwelcome bollworms aboard accorded a knock-out reception.

This plant resembles a long, brick shed. After the cars are received, the doors are closed and the plant is flooded with a gas, generated on the spot, the fumes of which are sure death to bollworms. At the end of an hour or more, the gas is drawn off, the cars removed and sent on their way and the plant is ready for the next incoming train.

Other similar, but smaller, plants are located at various coast points.

TO DISPOSE OF LIQUORS

Accruing Storage Charges Cause of Prohibition Commissioner's Request.

Washington, D. C.—Immediate disposition of liquors seized under the national prohibition act, owing to storage charges, which are accruing, was ordered by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

Instructions were sent to prohibition directors and revenue collectors to request the district attorneys to petition the courts for disposition orders for all seized liquors, automobiles, boats or other vehicles seized.

Liquor, such as "moonshine," adulterated and low-proof liquor, having no commercial value, should be destroyed, Mr. Haynes said, while the higher proof and unadulterated liquors should be diverted to commercial but non-beverage use.

Incomplete reports from the various districts, Mr. Haynes said, estimated total value of good liquors held by the government at about $1,000,000.

MARSHAL FACES BIG JOB

Would Be Compelled to Visit Every State if All Accepted.

Paris—Marshal Foch would be compelled to travel more than 20,000 miles and visit nearly every state in the American union if he should accept all the invitations he has received from the United States since it was announced that he would cross the Atlantic this fall. Friends who call upon the marshal are shown a stack of invitations more than foot thick, which he has received.

"Which of them will you accept?" an American visitor asked the marshal recently.

"All of them," he replied, "and I would like to visit every state in the union."

The Russian Reds do not place much faith in the Bible, but they will be wise if they remember what comes after pride and a haughty spirit.
