

"Old Fashioned Girls" Trio

Presenting a Program of the Delightful Songs of "Long Ago" and Sketches Written Expressly for Them by Bess Gearhart Morrison, Coach and Organizer

The "Old Fashioned Girls," soon to be heard at the Chautauqua Festival are entirely unique upon the American platform. These three charming girls have a program which is distinctly out-of-the-ordinary. Dressed in the costumes of a half century ago, they feature the delightful old songs and stories of the South. The entire program has been arranged by Bess Gearhart Morrison, noted coach and entertainer and moving picture artist. A musical treat is in store for you in the coming concert. The entire program is presented with snap and life and without a single dull minute. There is enough variety too so that every taste will be satisfied. Vocal and instrumental solos, duets, costumed songs, sketches and readings comprise the program to be given by these talented and versatile young ladies.

NATIONS ARE ASKED TO REDUCE NAVIES

Scrapping of Capital Warships and Ten-Year Halt in Building Is Proposed.

Washington, D. C.—More drastic and far-reaching than the most ardent advocate of disarmament dared hope were the American proposals laid before the arms conference at its first session by Secretary Hughes.

A ten-year naval holiday is the proposal, and the United States, Great Britain and Japan shall scrap 66 capital ships aggregating 1,878,943 tons.

Within three months after the conclusion of an agreement, the United States would have 18 capital ships, Great Britain 22 and Japan 10. Tonnage of the three nations, respectively, would be 500,650, 604,450 and 299,700.

Might Replace Ships.

Ships when 20 years old might be replaced and the replacement scheme is 500,000 tons for the United States, 500,000 tons for Great Britain and 300,000 tons for Japan. No replacements could exceed 35,000 tons.

The United States would scrap 30 capital ships, aggregating 943,740 tons; Great Britain 19, aggregating 583,375 tons, and Japan 17, aggregating 448,928 tons.

The figures include old ships to be scrapped, ships building or for which material has been assembled.

The American proposal, concrete and detailed, fell on the opening moments of the great conference like a bombshell. Foreign delegates were stunned.

Conference Atmosphere Cordial.

Seldom has a conference of nations assembled in an atmosphere of greater cordiality than that which enveloped the opening session of the armament conference.

From the moment Secretary Hughes called the conference to order until the last delegate had departed the deference everywhere apparent was a notable feature. Even the astonishment of delegates and spectators at the naval reduction proposal of the American government failed to halt the exchange of courtesies or develop any manifestation of doubt that the negotiations would be crowned with success.

A. J. Balfour, head of the British delegation, was the first among foreign delegates to strike the general note of harmony.

He received prolonged applause when he proposed that as an extraordinary tribute to Secretary Hughes and the United States the secretary of state act as chairman by common consent and without a formal election.

The galleries helped the spirit of good feeling along by calling for one after another of the distinguished delegates until every head of a visiting delegation had spoken.

After Hughes called the conference to order prayer was offered by the president's pastor, the Rev. W. S. Abernethy of Calvary Baptist church. Immediately at the conclusion of the prayer President Harding rose and began delivery of his address.

Mr. Harding read his speech slowly and deliberately from small printed pages which he held in the hollow of his left hand. With his right he punctuated his statements with driving gesture.

Silence Tense During Keynote.

There was the tensest silence as the president pronounced the keynote of the conference as follows:

"The United States welcomes you with unselfish hands. We harbor no fears; we have no sordid ends to serve; we suspect no enemy; we contemplate or apprehend no conquest. Content with what we have, we see nothing that is another's. We only wish to do with you that finer, nobler thing which no nation can do alone. We wish to sit with you at the table of international understanding and good will. In good conscience we are eager to meet you frankly and invite and offer co-operation. The world demands a sober contemplation of the existing order and the realization that there can be no cure without sacrifice, not by one of us, but by all of us. I do not mean surrendered rights or narrowed freedom, or denied aspirations, or ignored national necessities. Our republic would no more ask for these than it would give. No pride need be humbled, no nationality submerged, but I would have a mergence of minds committing all of us to less preparation for war and more enjoyment of fortunate peace."

The audience and some of the delegations came to their feet applauding when Mr. Harding declared America wanted "less of armament and none of war," and wanted to work to that end.

SCRAPPING TO COST U. S. $500,000,000

Washington, D. C.—Actual cost to the United States for the scrapping of the present naval building programme, naval officials estimate, would be between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000, exclusive of any salvage plan. In his statement to the conference Secretary Hughes said that the work already done had cost $330,000,000, but these figures do not include costs incident to abandonment of the ships under construction.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt said that the American programme would save the government about $200,000,000 in naval expenditures. The figure is the difference between the total cost of completion of the ships, about $600,000,000, and what scrapping would cost. Included in the scrapping costs are allowances for reimbursement of contractors for work they have been compelled to do in their yards in preparation for building the huge craft.

There is no intention by the government to stop work on the new ships until an agreement actually is reached by the conference and ratified by the governments.

Alaska Railroad Fund Is Voted. Washington, D. C.—A house bill authorizing inclusion in the new budget of $4,000,000 additional for completing the government railroad in Alaska between Seward and Fairbanks, was passed by the senate.

THE WALLULA CUT-OFF

While in Portland the other day the writer had a conversation with the editor of the Journal regarding the Wallula cut-off, and he informed us that they had taken a stand favorable to the cut-off some time ago, and believe it is the next most necessary piece of highway to be built, but has been informed that the State Highway Commission has no funds for such a road at this time, but they intend to take more interest in the cut-off in the future. He had maps and figures showing the position and saving by the cut-off highway.—Umatilla Spokesman.

NANCE O'NEIL IN "THE PASSION FLOWER"

Probably the most interesting event of the present theatrical season in Pendleton will be the appearance at the Rivoli, on Saturday, November 26th, of Miss Nance O'Neil in "The Passion Flower," the Spanish drama from the pen of Jacinto Benavente. Miss O'Neil is now in her third season under the direction of Richard G. Herndon.

The play was written about the end of 1913 for the famous Spanish actress, Maria Guerrero, and was produced at the Teatro de la Princesa, Madrid, on December twelfth of that year by the Guerrero-Mendoza company.

In the part of Raimunda, the soul tortured wife and mother, Miss O'Neil has found perhaps the greatest role of her brilliant career, and those who remember her "Monna Vanna," "Lady Macbeth," "Magda," "Fires of St. John," "Hedda Gabler," and last but no means least, her incomparable "Odette," in Mr. Belasco's production of "The Lily," and her unforgettable Mother in "The Wanderer" will have little trouble in imagining what she can accomplish in a role that gives her full swing for her wonderful powers of emotional expression.

Listen dear readers and we'll confess that the senior class has been a success.

They started out as all have seen, One day as Freshmen, a bright shiny green.

They wore that same coat for one whole year But then they changed it—so we hear.

Next year back to school came they, As lanky Sophomores, happy and gay.

They managed to get thru again that year— Of course they didn't have much to fear.

Juniors they were the very next fall Bright and good looking, one and all. Though years of study they've now put in

With never a frown but always a grin. And so they went from class to class Till soon they came to the glorious last.

They are dignified Seniors this very year And from them again you soon will hear.
