

SPRIT OF THOUGHTFULNESS

In no community have I ever found so prevalent a spirit of thoughtfulness of neighbors for others. Now at this busy season when the men are using their horses for work, their wives find it very difficult to attend any social proceedings. But we find every time some one neighbor who can go and she invites all the neighbors that can pile into what ever conveyance she may have, and thus several neighbors can attend, and keep alive the interest so necessary for progress.

IRRIGON NEWS ITEMS

Mr. C. C. Calkins, County agent, informs the farm bureau that the rodent control voted in 1920 will be exhausted this year and that if we expect to carry on this good work, we should be laying our plans and vote for sufficient funds at the regular election this fall. Two years ago, this tax carried almost 100 per cent and since the good, that has been accomplished, we do not believe there should develop any opposition to provide for the necessary funds.

Advantage of the fund can be readily appreciated by those having an opportunity to see how it has worked out in the field. Because of the fact that we are able to purchase strychnine, Mr. Calkins has been able to get 100 per cent co-operation in most communities in the extermination of the rabbits. While approximately 85 per cent clean-up in the Irrigon district we find that very little work was done just across the line towards controlling them. In the counties where they do not have such a fund very few people are willing to buy the poison and carry on the work. Reports from the different communities throughout Morrow County show that we killed at least 125,000 rabbits. Biological Survey considers this one of the best pieces of work done anywhere. Farmers in the North end of the county are more interested in controlling the rabbits but this fund provides poison for the squirrels that interests people living in the greater part of the rest of the county. Some funds support the Government hunters who are getting a lot of coyotes. People in the Alpine district, for instance, are so interested in this work, they have sent a delegation to Heppner to make sure this fund and work will be carried on. The people in the Irrigon district certainly cannot afford to let this work die out and the writer believes there is no opposition here.

Some soldier bonus checks have reached this district and several items of long standing have been paid and money passed on from one to another in a noticeable degree. If these checks are noticed in the various transactions, who will the Farm Loan checks do in this community? We are hoping it will only be a few weeks now.

Mr. Williamson, brother-in-law of Lyle D. Salling, Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Clifford Holland, sister of Mrs. Salling, are guests at the Sallings this week, having motored up from Portland Saturday and report roads good this side of the Dalles but very icy most of the way West of The Dalles.

Miss Lena Snell Shurte, County School superintendent and Mr. Shute were Irrigon visitors the first of the week. Mrs. Shurte called on the school and Mr. Shute looked over several tracts of land in this district. He hopes to find something that will appeal to him and settle among us.

Mr. C. P. Bishop is here for a few days looking after his interests and visiting around.

Mr. Compton of Umatilla came down Monday after a load of corn from the Farm Bureau car for Mr. W. A. Ford. McFarland also came down for two wagon loads for his stock. The car cleaned up in short time.

The community day cleaning up the park and planting trees Sunday March 12 proved a big success. Lots of trees were planted in the East end of the park which is provided for the campers and lots of rubbish was gathered, raked and burnt up. A camp stove was also built of brick for the campers and other improvements will be made later. The ladies did their part well in providing a big feast which was served in the dining room of the new school building and several of them after dinner helped to do the raking. N. Seaman was on the job to eat and took note of what happened to be able to tell of the doings.

Mr. Walpole has been taking up considerable of the city water mains during the past week account number of the water users had not paid water charges for some time. He informs us that unless more prompt payments are made in the future water will be shut off and pipes taken up without further notice. Sooner he gets all the water mains out, that much the sooner he will be able to quit business that is not paying itself at any time.

Mrs. Lulu Johnson, the County Public Health Nurse held her audience every minute of her talk Thursday evening. A good crowd turned out to hear her explain the work that is being done. If there was any opposition of opinion, there was not a word uttered. Every body appeared

THIS FARMER LOSES MONEY SELLING HAY BY CARLOAD

Senator Arthur Capper, chosen as the leader of the farm bloc to succeed Senator William S. Kenyon of Iowa, who resigned from the Senate to accept appointment on the Federal bench, promises to put even more pep into the bloc by bringing sharply to public attention concrete cases showing the exploitation of farmers and the necessity for non-partisan support for agriculture. Almost before he has settled himself for action, the Senator points out the case of a farmer named Kantz who sent a car load of alfalfa hay to Kansas City, Mo. for sale. Quoting from the report of the commission merchants these facts come to light.

"The hay sold for $196.20. War tax, freight, plucking, watching and commission footed up to $99.39." The balance left for Kantz was $96.81, or $3 a ton, the exact price it cost the farmer to bale the hay. The hauling cost the farmer $1.50 a ton. The cost of cutting, stacking and irrigating the crop also had to be paid. The farmer did all the work. When he got down to figures, not counting his own time or the value of his land, Kantz found he had sold 2,800 pounds of hay in the Kansas City market through the regular channels and had lost $2.50 a ton in the transaction.

The railroad made money hauling the hay, the commission man made money handling the hay, an army of small employees made money in connection with the transaction, the government made money taxing the transaction, and the man who did all the work lost $2.50 a ton.

Other startling facts are fast being absorbed by the public. For instance, a cow hide sells for about 3 cents a pound. After it has passed thru the business machinery of the packers it is found that the hoemaker pays $1 a pound wholesale for the leather. By the time the farmer needs a pair of shoes he learns that his income for an entire cowhide does not come anywhere near being enough to pay for them. Concrete facts of this kind are winning a stronger support for the farm bloc.

"The 'agricultural bloc' is non-partisan," says Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia. "It has in view its purposes only those things in legislation which are for the best interests of the whole country. It has been mainly concerned in legislation to help agricultural conditions, and where successful it has helped all lines of industry. The farmers and livestock growers of this country do not hoard their earnings, but their success means prosperity in all lines of business."

"To show that the so-called 'bloc' is non-partisan, it is only necessary to cite the legislation which has been passed during the present Congress, with the main support of the Democrats and the few Republicans who wanted to help in the agricultural troubles. Two important bills which have become laws were the Norris agricultural credit relief bill and the Kenyon-Kendrick meat packer legislation. If the Democrats had cared for party advantages rather than the welfare of the country those two measures would not have passed. The Republican administration will go before the country on these two measures as the greatest thing in a constructive way during their time.

"It has been truly said that the farm bloc has created a great deal mainly because it works in the open. Other blocs which have been successful and notorious, wanted anything but light on their acts and purposes.

"The safety of the Republic is not threatened by the agricultural bloc, despite the propaganda inspired by those interests who fear their hold will be lessened through the activities of those senators who think that the welfare of the country means something to the masses of the people.

Mrs. C. Snively will entertain the Ladies Aid at her home next meeting, April 5th.

A. B. Chaffer has rented the school garden and hopes to have vegetables galore this spring.

It is of one mind that the work of the nurse was an important consideration of any community.

Mr. Knight, of Maupin, Oregon spent a couple of days the first of the week looking over two or three tracts of land in this district and hopes to settle here if he can dispose of his holdings near Maupin.

Mr. L. W. Jordan, of Goble, Ore. is here for a couple of days looking after his properties.
