MRS. HARDING

Mrs. Warren G. Harding, wife of President Harding, whose illness has aroused country-wide sympathy.

WASHINGTON CAPITOL BUILDING IS BEGUN

Olympia, Wash.—The cornerstone of the administrative building, the principal structure of the magnificent capitol group of the state of Washington, was laid in Olympia Saturday, just 100 feet from where the first building ever erected for legislative purposes once stood.

Enough of the foundation has been erected to give some idea of the beauty of the new building, and to show the harmonizing effect of the central structure on the rest of the group.
The foundation of granite and Wilkeson stone surrounds the old foundation built in the early '90s and abandoned during the Governor Rogers' administration, when the Thurston county courthouse was purchased, added to, and since used as the capitol building.

The laying of the cornerstone would seem to mark the end of a long fight that has been waged since territorial days for the permanent location of the capitol.

FARMER AID IS PROPOSED

Bill Would Provide Loans to Buy Seed for New Crops.

Washington, D. C.—Provision for advances to farmers of crop failure areas of the United States with which to buy seed grain was made in a bill introduced by Senator Harrell, republican, Oklahoma, which would authorize the secretary of agriculture to make loans in 1923 aggregating $500,- 000.

The bill fixed a limit of $300 that may be advanced to any one farmer.

Big Gains in Postal Receipts.

Washington, D. C.—Postal receipts in 50 industrial cities selected by Assistant Postmaster Glover as representing various sections of the country showed an average increase of nearly 8 per cent in August over the same month in 1921, according to figures made public by the postoffice department.

W. F. McKenney Heads Oregon Elks.

Seaside, Or.—William F. McKenney, past exalted ruler of Portland lodge of Elks, was unanimously elected president of the Oregon State Elks association and The Dalles was selected for the next convention, during the closing session of the state convention here.

Last Saturday morning four cars left here for Boardman on a hunt for peaches. They were not very successful in finding peaches but Oh Boy! the watermelons they did find.
Those in the party were L. J. Padberg and family, E. L. Padberg and family, J. H. Bryson and family, Mrs.
W. G. Carson and daughter, Mrs. H.
C. Wood, daughter and son Bill; Mrs.
Della Mobley, Mrs. R. E. Williams and Charles Duncan. If anyone should need water for their radiator while out here on the prairie they may just ask Mrs. Carson where the windmill may be found.—Ione Independent.

The Ideal

Irrigator

Appropriately named "The Hydro-Can" because of the manner in which it "shoots" water.

This phenomenal pump is making it possible to irrigate by pumping with greater profit than by any other method. This is because of its extreme high efficiency and its economy in operation.

There are no valves, no stuffing box and, since the pump is always submerged in water, no priming is necessary. Thus, all the annoyances experienced in the use of other pumps has been eliminated.

Its light weight and compact construction makes it easily installed or moved from place to place
