

HOOTS! WHO-O!

BY

(On With Laughter)

Hello Folks, Maybe calf love is caused by the skirts the gals wear now-a-days.

It frequently happens that the bankrupt saves enough out of the wreck to buy a car with two more cylinders.

There are more self-unmade men than self-made.

A down and outer likes to blame his failure on the town he lives in.

A little caution now and then is relished by the best of men.

"Men will steal, swear, slay, burn, lie and face death for love," but taking baths regularly and changing socks ever so often are entirely different propositions.

It is a sign of the times that the papers are carrying the advertising of more lotions, to make the hair stay slicked down than of overalls.

Little beams of moonshine,
Little hugs and kisses;
Makes a little maiden
Change her name to Mrs.

Skinny people never forget to pull down the shades at night."

Some families claim they keep a diary when it ought to be called a "scrap" book.

When your two-year old son is determined he wants to sleep in the big bed, and you are equally determined he shall stay in his own little bed, and he raises a row every night about it, and the neighbors complain—which should you let go to the devil? "the baby or the neighbors."

A speaker on home economics declares that in another five years all women will have to do about the house will be to push the electric switch button. Most of them will want their husbands to do the button pushing.

Have you an opening for a bright high school student?
Yes, and don't slam it on your way out.

A corn-fed won't go in for music because she can't stand the scales.

The fellow who can do the most for you is the fellow you see when you shave.

Flattery is merely quinine, sugar coated, declares a doctor.

Serving the Country.
"Every man should be willing and anxious to serve his country."
"True," answered Senator Sorghum, wearily, "but why should so many insist on serving as postmaster?"

The Original Cave Man.
Bluebeard sought 'em,
Loved 'em and thrilled 'em;
Peev'd 'em, caught 'em,
Beat 'em and killed 'em.

Lo, The Poor Editor.
Flowers and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth ten bones. The groom standeth the editor off for a 12 months subscription. All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered into a pile. The minister getteth his bit. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns of obituary, three lodge notices, a cubit of poetry and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head and the darned thing cometh out: "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place". And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great vigor. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subscriptions and they swing the hammer unto the third and fourth generations. — Arkansas Thomas Cat.

Why "Honey" Was Slow.
She left her hubby alone in their room at the hotel while she did some shopping. She returned. The many doors and numbers confused her. But she soon decided which was her room. She knocked and called: "I'm back, honey; let me in."
No answer.
"Honey, Honey—let me in," she called again, knocking harder.
"Honey, it's me. Please, Honey."
Brief silence, then a man's voice, cold and full of dignity, came from the other side of the door. "Madam, this is not a beehive; it's a bathroom."

County Judge Schanep and the county roadmaster were here yesterday to look over the road situation. They inspected the bridge over the Western Land ditch and agreed to change the grade down the hill and rebuild the bridge at once. When they consulted with the Western Land management however, it developed that the company plans to widen the ditch this summer, and for that reason it was necessary to drop the proposed improvement at this time.

The company will widen the ditch for its entire length, so as to carry enough water to irrigate all of the Western Land project. This work will be done with a power ditching machine and all of the bridges will have to be removed. After the widening of the ditch is completed a bridge will be put in according to the roadmaster's specifications and this will do away with the present objectionable conditions. — Echo News.

Construction of the highway from Echo to Butter creek, which was being done by the Newport Construction company, was completed this week, and there is now an excellent stretch of road west of Echo. The new highway connects with the highway that runs down Butter creek at the corner of the Gaylord Madison ranch and runs almost straight east for a little more than six miles.

This road is one of the best that has been built in the west end of the county. The contractors found a very fine deposit of cement gravel where the crusher is installed, and the crushed material from this pit is superior to any road material heretofore used on highway work. The gravel is in a matrix of sharp sand, entirely free from dirt, and when crushed and spread on the road it packs quickly into a solid foundation for the roadbed. — Echo News.

The prospects for a fair-to-middling spud market are said to be looking up. An inquiry was received this week by the Weston Mountain Seed Potato Growers association from one of the largest commission houses in St. Louis, which wants quotations on two cars of certified seed and 52 cars of commercial U. S. No. 1 for May delivery. This house will be given prices on seed, but 52 cars of table spuds could not be had in the whole Weston country. The house has a branch in Twin Falls, Idaho, and is in close touch with the potato situation, according to W. L. Rayborn, sales manager for the mountain growers. It is quite well known, Mr. Rayborn points out, that it will have to seek elsewhere than Idaho for potatoes in May. — Weston Leader.

J. S. Landers, president of the Oregon State Normal school at Monmouth, was a recent visitor in Weston, having come up here on a brief trip from Pendleton, where he had been looking after summer school preliminaries. In company with Superintendent Robe, Mr. Landers inspected the buildings and grounds of the former state normal at Weston, now used by the local schools. Mr. Landers gave it as his opinion that the state plant will be given to the community of Weston by the state board of regents. He is convinced, he said, that the property is valuable only for school purposes and that no appreciable sum could be realized from its sale. Moreover, the community having given the grounds to the state, he considers it only a matter of justice that the property be returned, the state having abandoned its school at Weston. Mr. Landers was formerly superintendent of schools at Pendleton. — Weston Leader.

Chester Pelmulder, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Pelmulder of this city, is now chief operator in the U. S. Radio service, according to information received from Robert Loghry, Radio instructor, in a letter to Mr. Pelmulder.

The letter is as follows: "Your son, Sergeant Chester Pelmulder, was transferred to the U. S. A. T. Somme and left for Honolulu immediately after arrival of the Buford, as chief operator. The Somme will arrive back here sometime in the near future and I will then turn your letter over to your son.
"You may rest assured he is getting along nicely. He has advanced very rapidly in the transport radio service and you can well feel proud of him. As chief operator on a transport he has a very high standing and his experience in that capacity will sure fit him for his future career in a very good manner.
"Very respectfully yours,
Robert Loghry,
Radio Inspector."

FEDERAL FARM LOAN LIMIT IS INCREASED

The National Farm Loan association of Stanfield, has just received word from the Federal Land bank at Spokane notifying them that the Farm Credits Bill passed on March 4, increasing the limit of federal farm loans from $10,000 to $25,000, same to take effect on March 5. This will effect borrowers who have $10,000 loans and wish the same increased.
This will also apply to new applications.
Full information will be given prospective borrowers by Miss Julia Haggman, the local secretary.

A Recipe.
There once was a man who for hiccough
Tried all the known cures he could,
And the best without doubt,
As at last he found out,
Is warm water and salt in a ticcough.

FARM TOPICS

(Farm Notes from O. A. C. Experiment Station.)

The sow which spends the entire summer raising one, two, or three pigs is a losing proposition. Find out which is to blame, the sow or the man. It pays to give the sow careful attention at farrowing time.

Skim milk is the cheapest possible source of protein for pig feeding. Buttermilk, if free from wash water, is equal in value to skim milk for this purpose.

Do not feed moldy corn to breeding sows. It may cause them to lose their pigs. An ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure.

Eggs held for hatching purposes should be stored in a cool, dry place at approximately 60 degrees F. and turned regularly.

The orchard spray program for 1923 can be obtained free on request to the Oregon Agricultural college, Corvallis, Ore. This bulletin gives complete information and the latest advances in spray practices.

Many Oregon orchards are now reaching an age when the spray outfits originally purchased are going to be inadequate. As satisfactory seal and worm control cannot possibly be obtained until spray equipment of greater capacity is provided so that the acreage can be covered fast enough to permit accurate timing of the sprays. Failure to time sprays accurately always means lost profits.

WHOLE GRAIN PRODUCTS HEALTHFUL

Eating whole grain products in cereals and breadstuffs is a healthful food practice. Grains in their natural state contain considerable amounts of minerals, vitamins, and roughage, besides energy and proteins, all daily food essentials. Present day milling of wheat especially removes the bran and the germ, and with them very largely the minerals and the vitamins. White flour, polished rice, and refined breakfast cereals no longer contain the minerals, vitamins, and roughage of the original grains. — O. A. C. extension service.

VEGETABLES PROMOTE HEALTH

Vegetables eaten freely promote health. They are an excellent source of mineral elements, vitamins and roughage. Some protein and energy are also supplied. These materials are necessary for the successful nutrition of both children and adults. Raw vegetables carefully cleaned and thoroughly chewed have a higher mineral and vitamin content than cooked vegetables. Overcooking vegetables in too much water results in loss of flavor and food value. — O. A. C. extension service.

Vegetables Follow Vegetables.

Early planting of hardy vegetables such as spinach, peas, radishes, onion sets and early cabbage, means a corresponding earlier maturity of these vegetables which will then come off the ground in very dry or warm weather. This early planting of hardy vegetables makes possible the planting of a succession crop such as peas followed by late cabbage or fall cauliflower, or onions from sets followed by late beans or fall lettuce. — O. A. C. experiment station.

THE COLUMBIA BASIN

Oh it's nice to be there when the geese are southward going,
And they have ceased their alfalfa mowing,
Where the great Columbia flows,
Amidst the sand that blows,
Oh it's nice to be there when the wind is a-blowing,
And the mercury is below-ing,
Where the great Columbia flows,
Amidst the sand that blows,
Oh it's nice to be there when the wind is blowing,
And the geese are northward going,
Where the great Columbia flows,
Amidst the sand that blows,
Oh it's nice to be there when the wind is blowing,
And the sand is moving,
Where the great Columbia flows,
Amidst the sand that blows,
Where the great alfalfa grows,
Oh it's nice to be there when the sun is shining,
And things commence a-growing,
Where the great Columbia flows,
Amidst the sand that blows,
Where the great alfalfa grows,
Oh it's nice to be there when the sun is shining,
And the alfalfa is a-blooming,
Where the great Columbia flows,
Amidst the sand that blows,
Where the great alfalfa grows,
Oh it's nice to be there when the mercury is a-booming,
And they start their alfalfa mowing,
Where the great Columbia flows,
Amidst the sand that blows,
Where the great alfalfa grows,
Oh it's nice to be there when the irrigation water is a-flowing,
And the sand is hotter growing,
Where the great Columbia flows,
Amidst the sand that blows,
Where the great alfalfa grows,
But I would rather be in

A large tonnage of apples was lost in the northwest during the last year because of a lack of storage facilities. Common air-cooled storage houses can be constructed at a reasonable cost and would do much to reduce losses. — O. A. C. experiment station.

Baker Herald—The alfalfa weevil is in Baker county. County Agent Paul Carpenter in his discussion of the weevil with the farmers of the county offers no plan for stamping out the weevil. Nor is he able to offer a plan for holding the insect to the present infested areas. He says it is only a question of time until it will probably spread over the county. Efforts should and will be made to retard the spread of the weevil as much as possible.
