Trail Marker Planned.

Union, Or.—A monument commemorating the crossing of the first wagon train on the Old Oregon Trail 80 years ago will be erected at the top of the Blue mountains, the site selected for the July 4 pageant, according to announcement made by W. E. Meacham, president of the trail committee, when representatives of the various cities of eastern Oregon met in La Grande. The monument will be a huge stone with a bronze inscription plate attesting the memory of the pioneer days and respect for the men who first made the perilous trip. Top of Blue Mountains is at the summit of the Blue mountains, where one of the first homesteads of eastern Oregon was settled.

Hole in Bead Saves Tot From Choking to Death

Atlantic City, N. J.—Howard, the three-year-old son of Daniel Watson, owes his life to his ability to breathe through the small hole in a glass bead lodged in his throat.
A few weeks ago the child was seized with a fit of coughing. The family physician, unable to discover the cause, advised an X-ray photograph. The photograph is said to have failed to show any obstructions. He was seized with another coughing spell just as his parents were about to take him to a Philadelphia specialist. The coughing dislodged the glass bead. Fortunately the head had lodged crosswise in his throat and the little fellow was able to get his breath through the hole.

Chehalls.—Because he was unable properly to digest a quantity of nails, pieces of baling wire and other such, Mona Loa of Walkiki, one of the best purebred Jersey bulls owned in southwest Washington owned by Anton Adolphsen of route 2, Chehalls, died Wednesday morning of peritonitis. Mona Loa was purchased by Mr. Adolphsen at the Pacific International three years ago and was valued at $1500.
Recommendations to be placed before congress relative to renewal of the rehabilitation act which expires June 30, 1924, were discussed in Washington, D. C., Tuesday, by state civilian vocational rehabilitation directors and social welfare workers at a conference called by the federal board for vocational education.

THE COMMON HEART

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THE Lord has made us much alike, And made us all akin; Three meals a day, and work and play, And night to slumber in. We're high and low, we're rich and poor, And think we are apart; But, in our pain, our joy again, We have the common heart.

The Lord has made us much alike, However else it seems; The poorest man has still his plan, His visions and his dreams, And, if humanity shall rise, Together we must start, The high and low together, so We have the common heart.

The Lord has made us much alike And made us like to Him, Build not so high the shadows lie Another's path to dim, All you can suffer He can feel, And tears of sorrow smart The eyes of all, as hotly fall Upon the common heart.

The Lord has made us much alike— Think not of clan nor class, But understand and shape the land Remembering the mass. Grant rich or poor the rightly his, There lies the statesman's art— With justice thrilled, the nation build Upon the common heart!

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

DON'T BE SCARED

FEAR has done more harm in the world than drunkenness—which is saying a good deal. The sooner you eliminate fear from your make-up, the sooner you will get where you are trying to go. The man who has the best chance in the world is the man who is afraid to be scared—who has learned to fear fear.

The fear that saps a man's purpose and leaves him trembling and helpless on the threshold of life has many forms. There is the fear of the rich and powerful—too common, even in this day when the rich and powerful can do little harm to their fellows.

There is the fear of poverty—a real fear, and one which is harder to shake off than all the others. There is the fear of what other people will say, the fear of being ridiculed—the commonest and perhaps the most mischievous form. Get them all out of your system. Remember that the rich and the powerful, of whose greatness you stand in awe, are only human beings, and that they have little reason for wanting to injure you, even if it were possible.

Get rid of the fear of poverty by thrift and frugality, which will enable you if necessary to live on little, and give you a reserve to tide you over if the loss of a job temporarily strands you on the beach.

As to the fear of ridicule, forget it altogether. The opinion of other people is more negligible than you suppose. And those who would ridicule you because you are working hard and with a purpose are moved more by jealousy than any other motive. As soon as you discover that other people can be afraid of you, you will cease to be afraid of them. Then your fears gradually will subside.

Fear is instinctive in most of us. It is one of the results of the desire for self-preservation that is as old as the race. But it is always a handicap. The thing that you should be most afraid of is fear—the fear that makes you a weak paltry creature, with your faculties paralyzed, and all the elements of progress that are in you terrified into inaction.

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because

You pack your trunk at the last minute?
Why not? You haven't asked anyone else to pack it for you. You value your vacations, you enjoy them so much you don't want to infuse them with work. If you are on a business trip you want no interruptions either. You know the folks who begin to pack a week before they leave. They never can do anything you ask them to do because "I must pack." "I must throw those things in my hat trunk, etc., etc." You on the contrary, pack when there is nothing else to do but pack. You save time and pack when you have to only and don't spoil your days with it.
SO
Your get-away here is: You never let business interfere with pleasure.

STATE NEWS IN BRIEF.

Bend.—Annual round-up of cattle will be started this week by high desert stockmen. The round-up is one of the largest of the old-time cowboy events of the kind in Oregon.

Baker.—The country is being scoured to get the worst possible bucking horses, and wild cattle are being brought in from the range for the Haines stampede May 31, June 1 and 2.

Salem.—Governor Pierce has received from the Building Material Dealers' Credit association, with headquarters in Portland, a lengthy resolution protesting against the sale of prison-made brick in the open market.

Salem.—Members of the state board of control will meet here Tuesday and decide upon a site for the new state training school for boys. Forty sites have been offered, all of which were inspected by the board this week.

Albany.—New features for this year's fair announced after a meeting of the fair board Friday afternoon, will include a wedding and the offering of three automobiles, one to be given away on each day of the fair.

Salem.—Appointment of a state highway commissioner to succeed Robert A. Booth of Eugene probably will be announced by Governor Pierce this week, according to a statement made by attaches of the executive department.

Salem.—Work of paving the six-mile section of the west side Pacific highway between Rickreall and Holmes Gap in Polk county will start Wednesday, the Oregon Contracting company announced. The work will be rushed and the road should be opened to traffic late in the summer.

Cottage Grove.—Clay England, employe at the J. H. Chambers mill, was killed instantly Saturday morning when he became entangled with a shafting while he and several others were making repairs to the sawdust carrier. Evidently his jumper caught and lashed him to the machinery.

Salem.—John G. Wright, pioneer resident of Salem, and steward at the Oregon state hospital for 30 years, died here Sunday night. In the early '60s Mr. Wright was in the mercantile business in Salem and carried supplies to the Snake river country during the gold mining activity. He was a veteran of the Indian wars.

Salem.—It was reported here Friday night that a suit will be filed in the Marion county circuit court within the next few days to restrain the state, county and municipal officials from enforcing a law enacted at the last session of the legislature providing that all persons engaged in public work must be citizens of the United States.

Heppner.—Six clips, aggregating 2,400,000 pounds of wool, were sold by growers here Friday for an average price of 44 cents a pound, or a total of approximately $1,056,000. The clips were bought by George Colby and Edward Cox, representing the American Woolen company. The highest price obtained for fleeces was 45 cents a pound.

Salem.—Salaries in connection with the conduct of the various state activities under the governor and board of control for the month of April, 1923, aggregated $162,729 as compared with $198,614 for the month of November, 1922, according to a statement prepared by the executive department here. The comparative monthly reduction in salaries was $35,235.

Klamath Falls.—The serviceable blue serge skirt, plain middie blouse and sturdy low-heeled shoes worn for the past year by Klamath county high school girls will be worn next term only at the wearer's preference. Last year by the majority vote of the girls the plain uniform was adopted. Friday they voted 52 to 45 to discard the plain things and return to more sophisticated dress.

Salem.—As a result of a collision between an automobile driven by C. M. La Porte of Eugene and a Portland-Salem stage manned by Earl A. Hatfield, the latter Saturday filed suit in the Marion county circuit court to collect damages in the amount of $1840 from La Porte. The plaintiff alleges that La Porte was on the wrong side of the road, and that the accident was due to his carelessness.

Albany.—Louis J. Hill has bought 61,000 acres of land in Linn county from the Oregon & Western Colonization company for a consideration of nearly $1,500,000, according to a deed which was filed at the office of the county clerk. The land was originally granted to the Willamette Valley & Cascade Mountain Road company by the government with the stipulation that the company build a road from the Idaho line to Albany.

Pompey's Pillar.
Pompey's Pillar is a beautiful red granite Corinthian column in Alexandria. The inscriptions show it was erected in 302 A. D., in honor of the Emperor Diocletian. No one knows how it came to be called Pompey's, except that he was assassinated in Alexandria 350 years before the date of the column.

Lincoln vs. You

Lincoln belongs to the ages. He was a man among men and all the world today recognizes his genius of character. Lincoln was self-taught. Instead of waiting for someone to pour knowledge into him, he would walk miles to secure a book that he might pursue the quest of knowledge which was a supreme passion with him throughout his life. Lincoln instinctively knew that knowledge was the key that unlocks the door to fame and fortune, or any success that man desires. He went directly after knowledge to prepare himself so that when his chance came he would be ready. You may look handsome than Lincoln; you may have more native strength than Lincoln; you may have an intellect that could easily be developed; but if you have not the burning desire to develop yourself, you are certain to stick in the mud-suck class.

Knowledge is distinctly a matter of inclination. If you do not secure knowledge you are just as certain to suffer for your lack of development in a mental way as you would certainly deteriorate physically if you laid in bed all the time and would neglect to develop your muscles. Laziness leads to pain and failure. If you insist on being lazy, the law of compensation will force you to pay compound interest for your idleness. You will be whipped and scourged and made to do the meanest work of the world. The laws of necessity are sure to overtake you. You must eat and people will insist that you earn what you eat. The whip of necessity will beat your bleeding back and the sharp tongue of a heartless world will tear to shreds your sensibilities. When you are stretched on the cross of necessity, people of this world will crown you with thorns and drive into your flesh, nails expressing their scorn.

Lincoln knew that the world will never forgive failure. Logically he equipped himself to succeed and he did succeed. You, too, can succeed, but you must prepare yourself for the battle of life. The greatest asset in life is a strong character and the ability to express yourself. If you are dumb as a dog you will receive the reward of a dog, the crumbs from some rich man's table, who understands the way to express himself. The great mass of men have made no effort to develop themselves. Nearly all are capable of infinite development, but they do not realize it. They are inferior when in reality the only difference between a successful man and themselves is development.

They could easily grow if they would get busy and develop themselves as Lincoln and other great men have done. You do not have to be a super-man or a giant of intellect, but you do have to be just a little better than the average to be selected to occupy a seat of honor and ease where you will work less and get more. If you simply develop the stiff back of a jack-nas and the physical strength of a mule you will naturally be paid for brute strength and nothing more, because that is all your equipment will enable you to render in doing the work of the world. Lincoln wisely learned to talk convincingly.

We are offering Dr. Frederick Houk Law's course on "Mastery of Speech," which will quickly develop your ability to express yourself effectively. The good talker, you have noticed, is the fellow who gets in the lead every time. Dr. Frederick Houk Law, of Oxford Academy, Amherst College, and Brown University, holding the degree of A. B., A. M., and Ph. D., has prepared a course entitled "Mastery of Speech," that is not only simple but exceedingly interesting. By following the instructions he gives, it is possible for anybody to become a convincing talker. Probably not a Demosthenes, but a rattling good, entertaining speaker. Do not delay. Cut off this coupon today and send it in without any money, and we will send you this course for $1.00. Settle with the postman when he delivers it.
