Events of Noted People, Governments and Pacific Northwest, and Other Things Worth Knowing.

A violent storm, during which hail fell for a considerable period Tuesday destroyed the immense crop of grapes in Italy.

Governor McMaster of South Dakota Wednesday formally announced his candidacy for United States senator on the republican ticket.

All available men have been dispatched to four bad forest fires which are burning near Republic, Mich. Holdings of Henry Ford in two sections of land are reported to be threatened.

Earl Hackett, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hackett, living on a farm three miles south of Chehalis, Wash., was shot accidentally Tuesday by his brother, Lloyd, 16, while the two were out hunting.

The action of President Coolidge of the United States in ordering an inquiry into the proposal to increase the duty on wheat from Canada is being watched closely in Ottawa, but no official comment is forthcoming.

Delirious from typhoid fever, Miss Meral Lacour, 25, of Hansen, Idaho, a grade school teacher at Cosmopolis, Wash., walked through a second story window of a hospital here late Wednesday afternoon and was killed in the fall.

President Coolidge expects Richard Washburn Child, America ambassador to Italy, now en route home on leave of absence, to return to his post at Rome after conclusion of his leave and then to retire at his pleasure. This was announced at the White House.

The engagement of Archduke Joseph Francis, young son of the former field marshal, Archduke Joseph, to Princess Anna Monica, youngest daughter of ex-King Frederick August of Saxony, is announced. Archduke Joseph Francis is 28 years old and his fiancée 20.

Tillamook Daisy Butter King De Kal, prize-winning entry of the Carnation stock farm, Seattle, Wash., and Oconomowoc, Wis., is the grand champion Holstein of the United States, having won that designation Tuesday at the National Dairy exposition at Syracuse, N. Y.

Federal agents Tuesday announced they had discovered evidence to support their theory that synthetic liquor was being concocted, bottled and cased aboard the rum fleet off the Atlantic coast. This, it is understood, is sold at top notch prices to runners as genuine liquor.

Enoch W. Conyers, 94, a veteran of the Mexican war and a member of the first Oregon legislature, died at his home in Clatskanie Monday afternoon. Mr. Conyers was born in Carlisle, Ky., December 2, 1825. He came to Oregon in 1852 and had lived in Clatskanie practically ever since.

The Rev. John William Jones, 47, recently archdeacon of the southwestern Kansas Episcopal area, with headquarters at Hutchinson, formerly superintendent of missions at Omaha and pastor of churches at Chicago, Council Bluffs, Denver and San Antonio, committed suicide in a hotel in Kansas City Monday.

The longest summer season in the history of the Klondike finds the last steamer out of Dawson leaving down a river still free of ice. Yukoners are speculating about the cause of the prolonged high temperature, some attributing it to earthquakes or warm sea currents. The possibility of a permanent moderation in the Klondike winter is being debated.

Adjutant-General George A. White of Oregon has telegraphed the commandant of the Puget sound navy yard and the navy department at Washington, D. C., that the state of Oregon will not accept the battleship Oregon unless the government first overhauls the big vessel and puts it in first-class condition for delivery without cost to the state. This action probably will end navy department plans for towing the craft into Portland harbor the latter part of this month.

LLOYD GEORGE SEEKS AID America Should Not Forget, Says English Statesman.

Minneapolis, Minn.—An appeal for the United States to help Europe make peace was made here by David Lloyd George, the war-time premier of Great Britain, in his first public address in this country after concluding his tour of Canada.

Speaking before many hundred persons at a luncheon given by the Minneapolis civil and commercial associations, the ex-premier said:

"I am not here on any mission, but let me say to you one thing, that until the United States of America, with its mighty influence, with its great power, with the moral command which it has in the world because of its past with the great claim that you won by coming into the war without any selfish purpose, but for a holy ideal, sending millions of your best young men across to fight for liberty and for nothing else—until this great land casts its influence into the scale of peace, I despair of the future."

Referring to a statement that Americans were doing their best to forget the recent world war, he urged that they do not forget.

"There is nothing," he said, "for you to forget—nothing. There is so much to be proud of, for you to be proud of. You came for naught; but at the call of a great purpose and a great ideal. It ought to be your pride, the part you took in it is one which is worthy of your greatest traditions. And my last word is that so far from forgetting that part, I trust that the United States of America will once more, in due time, in its own way, cast its might in the scales of peace."

The address was the one formal public function on the program of the distinguished visitor during his day's visit to this city. Arriving early Monday, he was welcomed by huge crowds at the station and on the way to his hotel, and thousands crowded the streets and greeted him with applause as he was escorted on a sight-seeing trip along the Mississippi river boulevard and to other points of interest.

Germany, he is convinced, is playing a "waiting game." Her attitude toward reparations is insincere and she feels that if she waits long enough time will operate in her favor.

"I did not find any evidence of poverty or unusual distress in Germany. The stream of population passed before me much as it appeared in the days of 1912, the time of my last visit to Berlin. I learned, however, that there was suffering, confined almost exclusively to a certain class in Germany.

"The class whose incomes are fixed amounts in marks and for which no adjustment can possibly be made to keep pace with the fall in value is the class which suffers most.

"Much money is being rapidly made and lavishly spent by all who are engaged in industrial pursuits, and the profits are deposited in large amounts in foreign banks in Switzerland, England and New York and investments made in foreign securities.

"It is a significant fact that during the last eight months Germany has been the heaviest buyer of cotton from our country, paying more than $72,000,000 for it, and is also the heaviest buyer of copper, her importation amounting to something more than $17,000,000. It is a mystery where this money comes from, but it is evidence that Germany is not insolvent and cannot be regarded in any sense as a bankrupt nation."

Regardless of the Ruhr, Mr. Hibben said, Franco-German relations will be strained for some time to come unless America intervenes. Germany believes the French are in the Ruhr with the intention of staying but France protests she will leave when reparations are paid. Dr. Hibben continued in part:

"I met a representative of our United States government who had traveled extensively in middle Europe and the near east. He brutally told me that Europe was a 'barrel of rotten apples' and that the United States could well afford to keep her hands off. Those who are complacent with this policy must be ready to face another European war in which we will be directly and indirectly involved."

Phonograph Firm Fails. New York.—The Columbia Graphophone Manufacturing company, one of the pioneers in the talking machine trade, was placed in the hands of receivers Monday when an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in federal court in behalf of several creditors.

The action was a financial one only, and plans for the reorganization under a new name will be made public. H. L. Wilson, president and general manager of the company, and James R. Sheffield were appointed receivers by Federal Judge Hand and furnished a joint bond of $100,000. No estimate was made of assets, but liabilities were given as approximately $20,000,000.

Farmer Killed by Bull. Wheeler, Or.—Lay Daniel, 67, prominent northwest breeder of Holstein livestock, was killed Monday morning by a vicious bull. The bovine, without warning, charged at Mr. Daniel. His head was struck against a tree. Death was due to hemorrhage.

Mr. Daniel was born in Tillamook county. He took a homestead at Foley 30 years ago and had lived on it since. He was prominently identified with the graze.

Five Die in Forest Fire. Marquette, Mich.—Five men were burned to death Monday in a forest fire near Birch, Mich., near here. The dead were employees of the Lake Independence Lumber company of Birch. Telephone lines between Marquette and the copper country have been severed due to the fire and little information was obtainable. Crews of men to go to the fire were being organized here.

Volcano Mihara Active. London.—The famous volcano Mihara, on Oshima island, has again become active, according to dispatches received here.

It was said to be emitting volumes of smoke and large quantities of lava.

HEAD OF PRINCETON PREDICTS NEW WAR

U. S. Intervention Declared Sole Hope of Peace.

TENSION HIGH, BELIEF

Hostilities Between Germany and France Are Said to Be Imminent Danger.

Princeton, N. J.—A future war between France and Germany can be avoided only if the United States employs its good offices to relieve the tension now existing in Europe, said John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton university, in an interview Sunday. President Hibben recently returned from an extended trip through Europe, where he studied conditions in several countries at first hand.

Germany, he is convinced, is playing a "waiting game." Her attitude toward reparations is insincere and she feels that if she waits long enough time will operate in her favor.

"I did not find any evidence of poverty or unusual distress in Germany. The stream of population passed before me much as it appeared in the days of 1912, the time of my last visit to Berlin. I learned, however, that there was suffering, confined almost exclusively to a certain class in Germany.

"The class whose incomes are fixed amounts in marks and for which no adjustment can possibly be made to keep pace with the fall in value is the class which suffers most.

"Much money is being rapidly made and lavishly spent by all who are engaged in industrial pursuits, and the profits are deposited in large amounts in foreign banks in Switzerland, England and New York and investments made in foreign securities.

"It is a significant fact that during the last eight months Germany has been the heaviest buyer of cotton from our country, paying more than $72,000,000 for it, and is also the heaviest buyer of copper, her importation amounting to something more than $17,000,000. It is a mystery where this money comes from, but it is evidence that Germany is not insolvent and cannot be regarded in any sense as a bankrupt nation."

Regardless of the Ruhr, Mr. Hibben said, Franco-German relations will be strained for some time to come unless America intervenes. Germany believes the French are in the Ruhr with the intention of staying but France protests she will leave when reparations are paid. Dr. Hibben continued in part:

Enid, Okla.—All stores were flooded and numerous residences were partly submerged by a nine-foot wall of water which swept through parts of Woodward, Okla., Saturday when the North Canadian river overflowed from recent heavy rains, according to reports reaching here over crippled wires tonight.

Freedom, a small town on the Cimarron river, also was inundated, the advice said, stores there being flooded.

Railroad traffic is demoralized. Nearly 100 bridges have been carried away, and sections of trackage in a number of places are out.

Seven Teachers May Die. Seattle, Wash.—Seven women may die as the result of ptomaine poisoning following a luncheon of a King county branch of the Parent-Teacher association at the Ronald school north of the city, according to reports received here from physicians who were sent to the Ronald school to take care of the patients.

More than 50 other persons were taken ill but doctors declared they would all recover.

Ship Founders; 36 Safe. Tokio.—Thirty-six members of the crew of an unnamed steamer were rescued when the ship foundered on Friday, according to a dispatch received here Sunday from Morioka.

The steamer, it was stated, is owned by the Kawasaki company, Kobe, and is believed to be a 3000-ton vessel.

THE LOST MOUSE

ONCE there was a white mouse who traveled with a circus. He had pink eyes and long white whiskers and he belonged to a clown. When the clown was walking about the ring of the circus he would pull the white mouse out of his pocket and let him run up and down his sleeve and pretend to be very much afraid of the mouse, and the mouse would pretend to bite his ear and they were very happy together. All the children used to laugh and shout when they saw the tiny thing on the arm of the clown, and the people in the back rows would crane their necks and try to see what was happening away down below.

But one day the white mouse slid through a hole in the pocket of the clown's ragged coat and got lost. He looked and looked for his friend, the clown, but he could not find him, so he set out in the world for himself. He ran across the circus ring and frightened the big elephants nearly into fits, then he ran faster and faster along the sawdust ring and at last came to the edge of the tent under the rows of seats. Outside the tent was the great world which the white mouse had always wanted to see for himself.

"I Am Going to Speak to Him."

The great world was so big that it frightened the little white mouse. "My goodness," he said, "the sky is even farther away than the roof of the circus tent. Isn't that funny?" And he went on whistling to himself through his long white whiskers, to keep up his courage.

Before long he came to a house though he did not know what it was. "What a queer brown thing, bigger than an elephant," he said to himself, stopping his whistle in amazement.

MEN YOU MAY MARRY

By E. R. PEYSER

Has a man like this proposed to you?

Symptoms: There's the man who has made his pile. He is hale and hearty, restless and has retired from business. His mother thinks he has been an exemplary son. His sister has never gone without a thing that he could get for her. His small brother has had the careful care that only a big brother could give him. He is good looking, but appears unsatisfied. He believes he ought to get married. His spinster friends believe he should get married. Even his bachelor friends have prescribed marriage. He seems restless, even after proposing to you. He has spent his life in the closest application to work. You can't find anything in which he is interested. He tells you he is sick of baseball; golf is an old man's game; art is not in his line; cards he never liked and why should he take it up now? Reading is futile, for the books are so poor; hunting is a tax on a man of forty; and so on.

IN FACT

He is the greatest tax on himself.

Prescription to His Wife:

You must get carloads of poise and control from somewhere! He wants you because he thinks you will make him less fidgety. Dig up new pastimes he has never had a chance to condemn. Make him enthusiastic even over collecting pebbles.

Jobs are human, hobbies divine.

What's in a Name? By MILDRED MARSHALL

FACTS about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day and lucky jewel

CORINNE

CORINNE has been in vogue in America for so many years that her distinguished French origin has almost been forgotten. Seldom does a deliberately foreign name receive such welcome or such permanent popularity. The Greek is responsible for the earliest source of Corinne, the name coming probably from Persephone's title, "Kore," a maiden, which was applied to the Boeotian poetess, who won a wreath of victory at Thebes.

But unlike many of the ancient favorites connected with the brightest lights of the old world, this name persisted and when ambitious writers, eager for a heroine, delved into early history, Corinna was salvaged and put into current use. Mme. de Staël created the brilliant Corinne, heroine of the novel of that name, and insured her immortality. French dandies beyond number adopted the name, while in Italy, Corinna appeared in an early chronicle of the Middle Ages, relating the story of the lady best known as Rowena, daughter of Hengist.

The warm-hued carnelian is Corinne's talismanic stone. It will protect her against danger and disease and will give her courage and poise. It is said to be particularly lucky for those who sing, since it makes the voice sweet and strong. Wednesday is her lucky day and her lucky number.

TAXES

A FLOWER you would be, you say.

Because they have no tax to pay?

Well, I don't know—it seems to me

They pay their taxes 'e'en as we in the rich stock of luscious nettles.

That's gathered in by Mister Bee, The well-known Floral Tax Collector, And keep on smiling as before They'd given up their honied store.
