Under the bill sponsored by the Wis- from California into Oregon as the consin representative a corporation means of preventing the entrance of tax reduction measure on the senate with a capital of $50,000,000 to be sub- foot and mouth disease into the northwest was agreed upon Saturday by representatives of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, who met in joint conset up, to buy all kinds of wheat until ference at the Multnomah hotel.

In addition to agreement upon the embargo, members of the conference decided that should the foot and mouth disease travel north by one county, or become prevalent within 200 miles of the Oregon-California border, a complete embargo would be placed upon the entry of tourists and automobiles from California.

So long as the disease remains in the present infected areas, it was concluded that the operation of disinfection and fumigation stations at the various entry points on the border would be sufficient.

The conference resulted in the unification of protective measures, some of which already are in effect in one or more of the northwestern states. The action will tend to simplify enforcement of the regulations.

Statements made at an open meeting held in advance of the conference developed that the foot and mouth epidemic in California is much worse than has been reported, and it was freely predicted that should the disease be transmitted into Oregon, Washington or Idaho, it would bankrupt these states.

Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian of Oregon, reported that he had established disinfection stations at the California-Oregon border, where automobiles were given a tire bath and passengers required to walk through a mixture. Baggage and bedding found n machines, he stated, were fumigat-

Dr. Lytle stated that fumigation was not certain to kill the germs, but that there was no other measure, outside of absolute prohibition of entry of rist travel, that was better, and for that reason he advocated continuation of fumigation and disinfection.

CARELESSNESS WILL CAUSE POOR HATCHES

The careful gathering, selecting and holding of hatching eggs are factors too often overlooked, asserts W. H. Allen, poultry specialist at the New Jersey College of Agriculture at New Brunswick. To prove his statement Mr. Allen points out that nearly 90 per cent of all eggs that are set in incubators or under hens are fertile, and Events of Noted People, Governments to sell wheat abroad along lines simi- Steps Taken to Safeguard Livestock should hatch strong chicks, yet only 50 to 60 per cent ever do.

Eggs should be collected three or four times a day, and from clean nests. This prevents them from getting chilled, dirty and damp. Grade them for size, color and shape. A bird usually lays eggs of the type of the one from which it was hatched. Keep the eggs in a dry room with a tempera ture of 50 degrees F., and never hold them more than six days before placing in the incubator. Eggs held 12 days will hatch 10 to 15 per cent fewer chicks than eggs only a week old.

Incubator rooms should not be cold. The ideal temperature is 70 degrees. When the temperature is lower than this the hatch will be retarded and the chicks of poor quality. A chick hatched in twenty days is worth two hatched in twenty-two.

The incubator should be leveled to prevent uneven temperatures within the machine, all thermomet, rs tested for accuracy, and the machines disinfected. The manufacturer's instructions should be followed. Run the incubator three days before putting in the hatching eggs. Do not disturb them for two days after they are set; after that turn them twice dally. No cooling is necessary during incubation, especially during the months of February, March and April.

The best temperature at which to run a machine is 103 degrees. Test out all infertile eggs on the seventh and fourteenth days. To prevent chicks from dying in the shell, it is often necessary to add moisture. This can be judged by weighing the eggs plus the hatching tray on the first day and again on the seventh. The eggs plus the tray should not weigh over 5 per cent less on the seventh day than on the first.

They sat and sat. They began to grow restless as the hour grew later, but their hostess talked on, her eyes bright and feverish. At last a telephone call came for one of the guests, and the spell was broken. Later Psyche explained in confidence, after sitting down she discovered that there were thirteen of them; Psyche knew the fate hanging over the first one to leave; she was no heroine, she confessed it; and if that message had not called away her unconscious victim they would have been sitting there After that Psyche's habit began to
