VOLUME IV

BOARDMAN, MORROW COUNTY, OREGON

FRIDAY NOVEMBER 7, 1924

NUMBER 39

G. O. P. PARTY TICKET WINS BATTLE FOR HIGH OFFICES

STATES CONSIDERED DOUBTFUL CARRIED

All But One State North of Mason and Dixon Line For Coolidge.

New York.—Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts will be continued as president of the United States and Charles G. Dawes of Illinois will be the next vice president. That is the verdict of a large majority of the voters of the country.

Coolidge and Dawes rolled up overwhelming majorities in the east and middle west as the returns came in. In all of New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Illinois, the lead of the republican nominees mounted steadily and both the New York Times and the New York World, supporters of John W. Davis, early conceded his defeat by Mr. Coolidge.

Davis and Bryan are shown by the returns to be running second in the popular as well as in the electoral vote. That the democratic ticket was decisively beaten was shown on the face of the figures from the start. At democratic headquarters, however, party leaders clung to a hope that the west would turn the trick as it did for Wilson in 1916.

La Follette Poor Third. La Follette came off an extremely poor third. With a scant handful of electoral votes, the Wisconsin senator

DAVIS WINS ONLY IN THE SOUTH

Wisconsin Is Apparently the Only State Carried By La Follette.

The early returns showed Coolidge well in the lead in Ohio. Pennsylvania gave the president an old-time republican plurality, as did Michigan, while the indications were that the Coolidge margin in New Jersey was a generous one.

All the returns from Chicago and other parts of Illinois gave token that the vote in that state was an avalanche for Coolidge. As the figures flowed in the president was seen to be maintaining a two-to-one lead over Davis in Chicago and an even larger one downstate, while La Follette brought up the rear with little more than half the vote of the democratic candidate in some sections of the city and not more than two-thirds of the Davis total in others.

Landslide Helps Senate Nominees. The Coolidge landslide in the east swept into office republican senatorial nominees in such doubtful states as Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Delaware and New Jersey. There were indications that the republicans had elected senators also in West Virginia, Oklahoma and South Dakota.

In the senatorial contests the most surprising result was in Iowa where Smith W. Brookhart, republican, had

FALL BUILDING HITS STRIDE MANY IMPROVEMENTS NOTED

The house being erected by the O. W. R. & N. Company for the residence of the signal maintainer is nearing completion and is quite an addition to the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goodwin and daughter Betty Jean, moved to our city from Condon on Monday and are comfortably domiciled in the Mrs. Sherman bungalow on Dodd street, which has been undergoing some improvements in way of a porch.

CITY'S TOTAL INDEBTEDNESS ONLY $2200—ON GOOD BASIS

The City Council of Boardman met on Monday evening, the first Monday in the month, which is their regular meeting time. Mayor J. C. Ballenger presided.

They were notified by the city recorder that enough tax money had been received to pay all bills accrued during the installation of the water system.

The only indebtedness against the City at the present is the outstanding warrants of $2200. The first one of $400 becomes due next October and one becomes due each year for the next 4 consecutive years.

The City has an income of approximately $100.00 a month from the water system with an expense of about $30.00 per month.

Now that the needed repairs on the building covering the pumping plant have been made the City Council is planning to make other needed improvements as the money becomes available.

Armistice Day

CALVIN COOLIDGE

failed to realize more than a pitiful fraction of the popular vote he had expected.

New England loosed a tidal wave of votes for Coolidge and Dawes. The democratic candidates didn't have a look-in there and La Follette was lost in the shuffle.

The Coolidge and Dawes ticket made a clean sweep of the north from Maine to the Mississippi with the exception of Wisconsin, which was the only state which, it could be said with certainty, was carried by La Follette.

Even the border states of Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, the last Davis' home state, went into the Coolidge column.

President Coolidge carried New York state by a plurality of avalanche proportions, almost reaching President Harding's margin of 1,000,000 votes in 1920.

Al Smith Re-elected.

The heavy undertow of this roaring tide of Coolidge strength pulled down to defeat a number of democratic state tickets and democratic members of congress who had been confident of election, but in New York Governor Alfred E. Smith withstood the handicap of a sweep for the republican national ticket and bested his republican opponent for re-election, Theodore Roosevelt, by an estimated 100,000 plurality. Roosevelt came down from the upstate districts with a lead that seemed for a time to make his election certain, but the metropolis rose to the occasion and repelled the invasion at its doorsteps.

It was estimated the state's vote would reach 3,750,000, the greatest in history, with women voting in larger numbers than ever.

Iowa Favors Coolidge.

Iowa, upon which the La Follette managers were relying for enough votes to throw the election into congress, went to Coolidge to the tune of 225,000 plurality and 140,000 majority over both competitors.

conceded his defeat at the hands of Daniel F. Steck, a democrat.

The republicans, however, apparently had gained three senatorial seats on the basis of returns received. These were in Massachusetts, Kentucky and Oklahoma.

In Minnesota, Representative Schall, republican, had what his supporters regarded as a commanding lead over Senator Magnus Johnson, farmer-labor.

Senator Walsh, democratic prosecutor in the Teapot Dome investigation, was leading the field in Montana with a sufficient margin to make him appear reasonably certain of re-election.

The result in both New Mexico and Wyoming was surrounded with much doubt as a result of the slowness in gathering of returns. In Colorado, where two senate seats were at stake, Senator Phipps, republican, was leading Senator Adams, democrat, and Rice M. Means, republican, was ahead of Morrison Shaffroth, democrat.

The republicans held the Rhode Island seat, which had been vacant since the death of Senator Colt, republican. Jesse H. Metcalf won easily over Governor William S. Flynn, democratic.

In South Dakota Governor McMaster, republican senatorial nominee, appeared to be far enough in the lead over U. S. G. Cherry, democratic nominee, to insure his election.

John W. Davis succeeded in capturing certainly only states generally reckoned democratic. Even at that he lost Kentucky on the face of incomplete returns, although Cox had carried it against Harding in 1920. The same returns indicated that he had brought back into the democratic fold two of the states taken away by Harding—Oklahoma and Tennessee.

It was estimated that Coolidge polled 18,000,000 popular votes—two million more than were given to Harding. Davis, it was estimated, had 8,000,000 as against 9,000,000 for Cox.
