STATE INCOME TAX PROBLEM UNSOLVED

Salem, Or.—In case the attorney-general holds that the state income tax already obligated but not paid is collectible, even though the repeal of the law in the election may have wiped out the operating machinery of the department, an effort will be made to collect all the tax due for the year 1924 based on incomes for 1923.

This was the announcement made here by a member of the state tax commission under whose direction the state income tax department has been conducted. Earl Fisher, state tax commissioner, said that an investigation on the records indicated that approximately $700,000 of the total income tax, exceeding $1,250,000, had not been collected. This amount, he said, included fourth installment payments due in December, moneys due from firms, corporations and individuals that received time extensions, and scattering obligations from agencies affected by the law which failed to file returns.

Hughes May Quit Cabinet March 4.
Washington, D. C. — Secretary of State Hughes was reported definitely to have decided to relinquish his post March 4 and retire to private life. Hughes' desire to resign was said to be based upon a wish to resume his private law practice and recoup his personal fortune, which has been depleted by long public services at relative low salaries.

Threaten Revolt if Comrades Hang.
Paris.—Warning of a world-wide uprising of anarchists of the lives of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, convicted of murder of a paymaster and his guard at Baintree, Mass., are not spared, was issued from the secret headquarters of the Paris anarchists.

Nation's Hall of Fame

The Hall of Fame, in New York belongs to New York university. The money to build it, amounting to $250,000, was given anonymously for this particular purpose. It is known officially as "The Hall of Fame for Great Americans." Fifty names were to be inscribed on the tablets as the beginning, and five additional names every fifth year thereafter until the year 2000. Only persons who have been dead twenty-five or more years are eligible to be chosen.

Responsibility

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

THE greater the honor, the heavier the responsibility; the higher the office, the more numerous the obligations which it will carry with it to be met. We want the honor, we crave the distinction, we covet the office—we are not always eager to meet the obligations which inevitably go with these things.

"I'd like to have Bolton's salary," an envious young fellow said with reference to the president of a large corporation.

"I wonder how you would like to settle his troubles and carry his responsibilities?" I asked.

"Well, that's another story," was his reply.

I remember a conversation I had years ago with a city executive whose official record was noted for its inefficiency. I pointed out to him certain violations of law that were constantly occurring almost under his very eyes. He could sit in his office and look out of the window upon one of the worst resorts in town, and yet he made no attempt to correct the evil.

"Don't you know about these places?" I asked him straightforwardly.

"Well, of course, as a private citizen, I am pretty well convinced of their existence," he admitted, "but officially I do not know anything about them."

I watched a body of workmen yesterday—a dozen of them, perhaps—engaged in the repairing of a railroad crossing. The work was simple and it was quite evident even to an inexperienced onlooker like myself what ought to be done, yet they stood around inactive, doing nothing. The boss was gone, and there was no one of the twelve who was willing to take on himself the responsibility of going ahead with the work.

Men marry, join church, accept of fees, become members of organizations too often without a thought of what these obligations mean, of the responsibilities which are involved. Most members of a committee or of an organization can be depended on to do very little work. More or less we are all given to shirking our responsibilities.

Bible Thoughts for the Week

Sunday.

These Six Things doth the Lord hate; yea, seven are an abomination to Him: a proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood, an heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief, a false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren.—Prov. 6:16-19.

Monday.

Whosoever Will Come After Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for My sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it.—Mark 8:34, 35.

Tuesday.

Thou Shalt Love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.—Luke 10:27.

Wednesday.

He That Will Love Life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile.—I Peter 3:10.

Thursday.

The Fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.—Gal. 5:22, 23.

Friday.

He That Keepeth His Mouth keepeth his life, but he that openeth wide his lips shall have destruction.—Prov. 13:3.

Saturday.

Blessed Are the Pure in Heart, for they shall see God.—Matt. 5:8.

Your Conversation

"SAVVY"
The Spanish are very particular. They have a verb "saber," meaning to know, while the verb "conocer" means "knowing acquaintances." It is a serious breach of grammar to confuse the two. "Savvy" is a corruption of "saber" brought in from Mexico over the border. When you ask someone, "do you savvy?" some think you are using a bit of slang of Spanish-Mexican descent.

Makes Strong Appeal

There is something in the very name of fortitude which speaks to the almost indelible love of heroism in men's hearts.—Bishop Francis Paget.

Here's an Unusual Golden Wedding

Fifty years ago John U. Lloyd witnessed a double wedding of brothers and sisters which furnished the basis of his most popular work, "Stringtown on the Pike." A few days ago Mr. Lloyd hurried to Cincinnati to meet these same brothers and sisters, now observing their golden anniversary. Above, at the left, are shown Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Souther. At the right are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Souther. They are perhaps the only brothers and sisters in the United States to observe their golden wedding anniversary at the same time.

Good as they are to eat, there is something pathetic in the fall of the wild goose. Soaring skyward in its graceful curves, it suddenly encounters the shot of the huntsman and wounded, tumbles like the broken plane, earthward.

The season of the open fire place, the warm stove and the old time apple eating is here. Have you stocked up on apples yet? or coal? Oh Boy! give us some of both.

When we played house in the rustling leaves, "them was the good old days", and now they're not sanitary and we burn them as they fall. What with the auto and aeroplane there are still things the modern kids miss.

The skill of the marksman may be true, but you never can tell, "where the goose will hang high", as demonstrated by several stray birds this past week.

Opera Big Success

The Indian operetta, Feast of the Red Corn, went off with a bang on Friday evening November 14th. The performance was branded as the finest thing in the operetta line ever witnessed in this locality. Twenty five girls did themselves great credit as well as showing great things in music under the able direction of the musician of the school faculty, Miss Aldrich. The football boys have reason to congratulate the girls on their support.

Two More Football Victories

Boardman high has met and defeated two rival teams since the last issue of the "Utellem", which are as follows. Ione by a score of 25 to 0 on her own field. Hardman met defeat at our hands on the local field by a score of 45 to 0.

A tall like gentleman sauntered into the school house the other day and after making two trips upstairs to the auditorium, Supt. J. O. Russell halted him and asked what was wanted. He replied that he was a student in college and wanted to take orders for subscriptions to a magazine. Mr. Russell asked, "Did you see the sign at the entrance," he said he did, and then Mr. Russell said that it would be just as well that he make his exit, to which he replied that he was not in fact an agent, but he was given to understand that if he was soliciting he was nothing less than an agent and he was directed again to find his way out via the front door, post haste.

The majority of the highway travel at this season is done in closed cars as a check any day now will indicate.

In Sweater Coats Style Is Emphasized

In fashion's school sweaters and sweater coats used to stand quietly at the foot of the class in dress accessories. But they have made rapid advancement in the last few years, and now dispute with other apparel for a place at the head. In the old days to be competent and comfortable seemed their sole ambition, but now their eyes are fixed on distinction, style and beauty as the goals to be striven for.

Advance showings of cheerful winter-resort clothes show sweaters and sweater coats as numerous as the flowers of the field and equally alluring. There is no end to the varieties of weaving and ornamentation, and some of them have scarfs to match in color but in lace-knit patterns. For instance, an orchid-colored slip-on sweater, bordered with narrow bands of purple, has a wide, lacy scarf finished with the same bands at the ends. The cozy sweater coat shown in the picture is of brushed wool in warm beige color bordered with white braid and white wool.

JOHNSON 3141, NELSON 7

Washington Republican Challenges Anybody to Tie Record.

Hoquiam, Wash. — Albert Johnson, representative in congress from the third district, believes he holds a record for county-wide plurality which he challenges any successful candidate of any party for state or federal office to meet. Pacific county, one of the ten counties in the district, turned in the following result: Johnson, republican, 3141; Nelson, La Follette ticket, 7.

There was no democratic candidate.

Child Labor Law Loses.

Boston, Mass.—The question as to whether the voters of Massachusetts should instruct the members of the legislature to ratify the child-labor amendment to the federal constitution was decided emphatically in the negative on election day.
