Latest Fad Adds to Population of Oregon State Hospital.

Salem, Or.—That the advent of the crossword puzzle, like other similar fads, would contribute its quota to the insane population of the state was evidenced by a report issued by officials at the state hospital here.

During recent weeks five patients suffering from an overzealous attempt to solve these crossword puzzles have been received at the state hospital, three men and two women, from widely scattered sections of the state. Two of the patients were brought here in strait-jackets.
