The Swearing Habit

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
 Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

I KNEW a woman who in explanation of her loud and blatant profanity gave as a reason for her blasphemy that she wanted to let God know that she wasn't afraid to speak her mind. The explanation was dead nite if it was not one that appealed to one's sense of fitness.

Everyone who swears has some reason, conscious or subconscious, and some of these reasons are not difficult to understand. In many cases the individual takes refuge in either the course of utterance, because of lack of vocabulary. The very meagerness of his words drives him to the conclusion that he will gain force or variety by cursing. He "has a feeling" that he is driving a point home when he swears.

The bully or the coward swears to give the impression of force or to fortify his courage. It is a sort of camouflage which deceives only the inexperienced. It is pretty safe to slap a man in the face if he swears at you and to expect an apology. Swearing shows a self-consciousness, a lack of self-reliance, a lack of knowledge; it is like the boy in the woods whistling to keep his courage up. The boss who swears at the men he directs or instructs not infrequently does so as a means of covering up his own lack of knowledge or inexperience in directing people. The profane man is usually the excited or terrified or ignorant one. The man who swears seldom if ever inspires either respect or fear or confidence in those who are the recipients of his bullying. They have the viewpoint of the irreverent young son, who, listening to an outburst of profane advice from his father, said, "Oh, pa's blowing off again."

The young fellow just out of high school, just freed from the restraint of home, often feels that he shows himself a man to the extent that he is able to rip out a good oath. Swearing in his mind demonstrates the fact that he has seen the world, that he is no longer a social greenhorn, that he is entitled to respect.

It is admitted that profanity is a common habit among men, but it is

Father Sage Says:

If a hobo has money, they call him a globe-trotter.

coming to be less in vogue than it was. It is a low, vulgar habit best suited to the ignorant, the ill-trained, and the unclean. It will go out of fashion, I feel sure, not so much because it is wrong as because it is weak. The man who swears has for the time being dropped his guard, has shown a lack of strength, a failure to control himself and the situation before him. He is under such circumstances more easily defeated, he has prejudiced his cause, he is weak and not infrequently pitiable. He is not at his best.

When a man begins to swear at you, you can be assured that you are stronger than he is.

Attend Ball Game

Several of the younger Arlington base ball fans motored to Lexington on Friday to attend the base ball game between Ione and Heppner, which was to decide the championship of that division of the league. Ione defeated Heppner to a score of 4 to 1. Arlington will play Ione for the league championship at Heppner this Friday, May 15.

Those making the trip to Heppner were "Chuck" West, Earle Broughton, Harold Blackburne, Robert McDonald, and Donald Dodson.

George Hendricks of Willow Creek was in town on Tuesday.

William T. Head and daughter, Mrs. Wm. Kurtz, motored to The Dalles on Monday.

Henry Schieven made a business trip to The Dalles on Tuesday.

Sheriff Logan and Deputy Sheriff Potter were Arlington visitors the first of the week.

Attorney Charles Horner of Condon was a business visitor in Arlington on Tuesday.

Geo. S. Smith and J. W. McFadden made a business trip to The Dalles on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Farley of Boardman were Arlington visitors on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Brown were in Arlington on Saturday.

Mrs. George Beardsley and son Ross are visiting friends in Pendleton this week.

Mrs. Ben McMullen of The Dalles visited for a short time in Arlington on Tuesday, while on her way to Pendleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Beeson were Fossil visitors during the past week.

Despite the fact that from 1910 to 1920 the population of the United States increased 15 per cent, during the same decade the number of domestic servants decreased nearly 25 per cent. Their places, however, were taken by the various household electrical appliances and now there are approximately $800,000,000 worth of electric irons, cleaners and washers in use in the homes of the nation
