NEW TYPE OF SPRINGS

Three-point suspension design is introduced for first time.

BIG CAR COMFORT IS CLAIMED greatest improvement in motor cars since pneumatic tires. Overland 4, the new car of light weight construction for which the public has been waiting since its introduction was first rumored at the automobile shows about two years ago, was placed on exhibition in Ashland at the Overland salesrooms of the Overland Garage, corner of Main and Third streets.

The men and women who inspected the Overland 4 the past week were representative of the visitors to Overland salesrooms in a thousand cities, towns, and hamlets of the United States. The company's dealers, from Maine to California. and from Washington to Florida, now have on display one or more of the new models described as embodying "the greatest improvement in riding comfort since the introduction of pneumatic tires."

New Type of Springs This improvement is the use of three point suspension springs. Unusually graceful in body design, Overland 4 makes a splendid impression on the visitor. It was this new spring suspension, however, which absorbed motorist attention at the salesrooms. It is a combination of two principles that have been used to greatest advantage in automobile construction: First, that of cantilever springs; second, the flexible three-point construction.

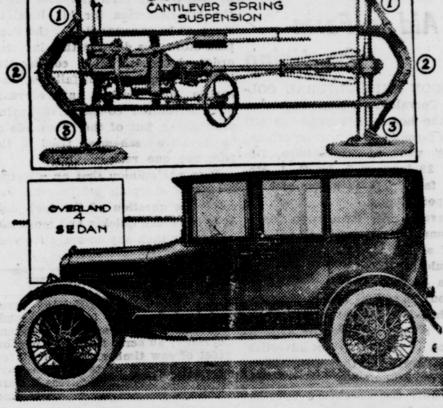

The luxurious riding comfort these springs furnish the car was immediately understood and appreciated. It is this feature which gives to the new omies in manufacturing. Ideals Guide Design Guiding the development of this worth the motorist's study, are: remarkable new car was Mr. Willys' ideal of a motor car which would ety of Automotive Engineers.

The motor of the Overand 4 is cast en bloc with a removable head. It has generous valve opening. The lubricating and oiling system require no pumps. The oil is circulated by pressure automatically created and the water is circulated by the Thermo-Syphon system or notural cooling method. No power is required of the motor to operate these systems. The steering aparatus is of the planetary gear type with the gears at the bottom of the steering column. By this arrangement all the strain is taken at three points instead of at one. The cluth is of the single plate type now used by 71 percent of the motor manufacturers. The selective forward and reverse. It operates in The front axel is of chrome nickel steel which affords both light weight and strength. The front wheels have tapered roller bearings. The rear axel, also of chrome nickel steel, is three-quarter floating. The differential and rear wheels operate on annular ball bearings. The car is equipped with two brakes-foot and hand. These work on 10-inch drums on each wheel and to assure safety are larger than neessity demands.
