LABOR HEADS WILL CONVENE

(By the United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Conference of the heads of all International Unions connected with the American Federation of Labor has been called for a meeting in Washington at an "early date," President Gompers revealed today in a telegram to the Illinois Federation of Labor, in convention at Peoria.

Gompers' telegram was in answer to the suggestion of the Illinois Federation that a convention of the American Federation of Labor and the Railway Brotherhoods be held to perfect an offensive and defensive alliance of union officials of the United States and Canada to fight labor's battles.

The call of this conference is taken here to mean that organized labor is tightening its ranks for a fight to a finish in the steel strike as well as in other industrial conflicts now in progress or threatened.

British Cabinet May Be Forced Out

(By the United Press)
LONDON, Oct. 24.—Lloyd George's government faces a serious situation as the result of last night's defeat in the House of Commons, according to opinion generally expressed today by the press.

The question on which the government lost, 185 to 113, was a minor one, but the impression prevails that the vote is an indication of parliament's attitude toward the present cabinet.

Many officials and political experts of the press believe the resignation of the premier is a certainty.

"If the government's defeat in the future is sustained, or its attempt at rehabilitation is inadequate, Lloyd George must resign," the Chronicle said. "The king doubtless will entrust him with the formation of a new ministry but when will he derive his support? Lloyd George will be compelled to seek fresh authority at a general election."

He won the race, being the first to make the round trip, although Lieutenant Pearson was the winner in actual flying time and Captain Donaldson winner in reliability.

"The big idea of the race, it was stated, was to get across the country and back as soon as possible.

Maynard was first across and first back. Another feature was actual flying speed, while the third was reliability.

Donaldson flew a single seated plane without a mechanic and did not change engines as did both Maynard and Pearson.

Reservations Are Presented

(By the United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Senator McKellar introduced a bill in the senate today aimed at wiping out every vestige of radical agitation in the United States.

It provides that anyone, even peacefully, advocating the overthrow of any government, or persons associating publicly or privately with such advocates be fined at least $5000 or imprisoned from one to ten years.

The jury may order such persons deported to a portion of the Philippine Islands to be set off for this purpose.

McKellar also introduced a new Americanization bill to deport aliens not becoming citizens within five years after arrival in the United States.

McKellar's Americanization bill further requires large employers of labor to provide educational facilities and to pay for the time of employees attending school.

Another measure is directed against "every citizen of the United States who directly or indirectly commences or carries on any verbal, written, or printed intercourse or correspondence with any other person or persons with citizens or aliens, with intent either peaceably or by violence to overthrow the government of the United States or to disintegrate or in any other manner set aside or do away with all government, or who joins any organization having this purpose, or who directly or indirectly, publicly or privately associates himself with any other person or persons having such purpose."

WORKING TO AVERT STRIKE

(By the United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The threatened strike of nearly half a million coal miners, which a few hours ago seemed inevitable, may yet be averted by Secretary of Labor Wilson.

Although the miners' representatives yesterday rejected his proposition for a settlement, Secretary Wilson has persuaded the conflicting factions to meet again today for consideration of another proposal, asking that they assemble open minded, to discuss the questions of hours, pay and working conditions, neither side to attend the meeting with any program of demands.

The miners are ready to attend the suggested conference but the operators so far are still standing pat on their demands that the strike order be rescinded first.

School of Journalism at University Success

(By the United Press)
UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore., Oct. 24.—The school of journalism at the University of Oregon is entering its eighth year with the largest enrollment and teaching staff it has ever had.

Practical preparation for the newspaper profession is the aim of the school, and the students "learn to do by doing" actual newspaper work under faculty supervision.

Conditions surrounding the work of the school closely resemble those of a small daily paper. Every member of the classes is in the position of a reporter, receiving assignments, most of them of a current news nature, which he writes and turns in to the instructors for criticism. Virtually everything written is prepared for publication in some medium. The material handed in also runs the gamut of a regular copy desk, conducted on metropolitan lines.

Such of the articles as are suitable are turned in for publication in the college paper, or in some newspaper outside. Besides the three-a-week newspaper published by the students which offers a field for the activities of members of the journalism classes, the News Bulletin, semi-monthly; "Old Oregon," the alumni monthly, and "Oregon Exchanges," the newspapermen's magazine, give opportunity for laboratory work in journalism. These three publications are prepared by the senior class in editing.

Business and mechanical problems of the newspaper, as they exist in Oregon, are handled in the class in publishing. Cost-accounting and a knowledge of materials, and making up of books are taught in this course. Fundamentals of printing, designed to fit publishers for handling that end of their problem, and trade journalism are also included in the curriculum.

The school is equipped with a complete printing office, in which is done the printing and publishing for the university. The equipment includes a model 19 linotype, a Babcock Optimus press, a job press, power paper cutter, sticher and a wide variety of job type.

Graduates of the Oregon school of journalism, young as it is, are already holding executive positions on newspapers all over Oregon, Washington and Idaho, with several in California. Every member of last year's graduating class had a position waiting for him at the end of the course.

OREGON GOES OVER THE TOP

(Special to The Tidings)

UNIVERSITY HOURS GIVEN FOR INTRAMURAL DEBATE

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 24.—Granting credit for intramural debate is a new step which has been taken by the university in order to promote that activity and to allow the students a better opportunity to apply more study to the debate.

Professor R. W. Prescott, in charge of debate, is the originator of the plan. He has worked out a system whereby the work will be carried on under the direction of competent coaches who will assist and direct the students. Professor Prescott will select the coaches from members of the University faculty, varsity debaters and outside sources. Credit will be given only where strict adherence has been paid to the rules of the debate.

It is expected that the houses, residence halls and other organizations on the campus will each have a team to compete in the series. Professor Prescott will hold a meeting of the coaches and a member of each team Monday to discuss how the work is to be carried out, to decide on subjects and to work out a schedule for the series.

CHILDLESS MARRIAGES AND COOKLESS COOKERS

PORTLAND, Oct. 24.—"Until girls look beyond a swell suit of clothes and big blue eyes, and until men look further than a swell dresser and a 'baby face' and look beyond the exterior of their future mates—we may continue to look for divorces," Judge William N. Atkins told members of the Ad club at the regular noon luncheon.

"It seems to me we are living in an era of apartment houses, childless marriages, cookless cooks and twin beds.

"With regards to sex examination, a woman in this state should hesitate before linking her life with a man who would ask her to marry him in Vancouver, Wash.

"The grounds upon which divorce complaints may be filed are different in each state. An amendment to the constitution is necessary and if there was a stringent national marriage and divorce law, conditions would not be as they are.

"In the actions brought in my court, I have noticed that most couples have lived less than two years. Seventy percent start divorce proceedings within a year after separation."
