Couple Wanted for Murder Are Caught

(Special to The Tidings)

YREKA, Calif., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Lester Tabor and her son Walter Tabor, wanted in connection with the murder four years ago of Maude Faith Tabor, daughter and sister of the accused couple, are in the county jail here awaiting arrival of officers from Van Buren county, Michigan, where the murder is alleged to have occurred.

The body of Maude Tabor was found in an old trunk in the Michigan home of the Tabors on December 3, and from that time until the couple were arrested in this county, Walter at Weed and Mrs. Tabor at Bray, the police of the entire country have been searching for them. Mrs. Tabor claims her daughter died from an overdose of chloroform self administered, while Walter declares he was in Montana at the time of his sister's death.

CHRISTMAS

"Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men!" Do we think it, hope it, pray it. Shout it once, and then—again, Gaining strength with each refrain, Gaining faith each time we say it? "Peace on earth, good will to men!"

"In God We Trust" as well as man: Take this for guide,—you cannot miss it.

If each one worked on God's great plan We'd dig a trench no power could span.

Let's choose God's way and then pursue it.

His star said "Peace, Good Will to Man!" —Elizabeth Yockey. Ashland, Ore., Nov. 28, 1919.

GULF STREAM AFFECTS COTTON (By the United Press) ABBEVILLE, La., Dec. 17.—The course of the Gulf stream is believed to have come ten miles nearer the American coast during the last year and probably has caused serious damage to the cotton crop, according to L. Vallee, one of the most prominent planters of this section. Vallee has made observations which lead him to believe that reports made recently by seamen that the Gulf stream was flowing nearer land are correct. He points out that this year's cotton crop was greatly curtailed because of adverse weather conditions.

"If the Gulf stream is actually flowing so near land, I fear the entire cotton-growing area is menaced by a succession of wet seasons, which, added to the ravages of the boll weevil and other pests, will curtail materially the production and lower the grade of American cotton," Vallee said.
