U. S. ARMY BLANKETS ADORN FRENCH GIRLS

PARIS.—How the humble army blanket, protection of the grumbling doughboy, has increased in value from 12 francs to 200 francs, and come to be apparel of French beauty along the boulevards, has been brought to light in Paris.

At a sale of army stocks, a French grocer bought 2000 American army blankets for 12 francs each. He sold them for 15 and 20 francs each to a clothing manufacturer.

The clothing manufacturer made them up into women's cloaks and sold them at 70 francs each to a department store, which retailed them at 180 and 200 francs each.

"EYES OF YOUTH" AT THE VINING

A story that deals with the problem of knowing the right thing to do—whether to sacrifice one's happiness for others or to choose the career that means the soul's highest development. That is the problem that confronts Gina Ashling. Her beautiful voice offers her a career in Paris, a rich, much older man wants her for his wife and a young brother and sister, motherless, make remaining at home seem her duty.
