

Local and Personal

In the account of the society cabaret given in The Tidings Saturday mention of the winners of the fox trot were inadvertently omitted. These were Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont DeLosh of Medford, who gave a most attractive dance.

Hemstitching and picoting, Halcony Shop, Vaupel's Store.

Harry Silver of the Pompadour Mineral Springs company opened his lithia water station in the Farlow building Saturday. This room is an attractive place in which to drop in and imbibe the health-giving waters from the mineral springs of this company. The interior is in white, with attractive little tables and chairs where hot, tired humanity may rest while partaking of a cool refreshing drink, which is furnished ice cold to the consumers. Mr. Silver also mixes the lithia water with fruit juices which makes a very palatable drink.

This event was held in the park and was attended by all the employees and their families. A large crowd assembled in the picnic grounds at about 10 o'clock where they enjoyed a bountiful feast and spent the day under the trees.

WHY NOT BE WINDOW CLEANER OR WAITER?

NEW YORK.—Window cleaners and waiters were ranked high above the ordinary grade of wage earners when testimony was given at the trial of Harry Weiss, charged with keeping a gambling house, that two of them had lost $2000 each in a poker game there, on Wednesday night.

Detectives, in describing the games between a score of window cleaners and waiters, asserted there was "a considerable amount of money before them." The defendant's attorney admitted "thousands of dollars passed in the game," but maintained the amount of cash did not provide the "necessary element" to convict.

When the magistrate discharged Weiss, Assistant District Attorney Driscoll, the prosecutor, remarked that "if a waiter and a window cleaner can sit in a game of poker and each lose $2000, I want to be either, right away."

UPRISING NOT VIOLENT

(By United Press) LONDON, July 5.—There is no likelihood of spreading on the part of the Connaught regiment in India, which surrendered its arms and ammunition to the colonel upon receipt of the news of events in Ireland, officials at the Indian office believe today. They pointed out the incident as not a violent uprising, but merely a protest against the conditions in Ireland.

PARK ATTRACTIONS DETAIN TOURISTS

R. L. Lee, circulation manager of Motor West, arrived in Ashland yesterday and will stay over the 5th and 6th, working in the interests of his publication. Mr. Lee and daughter Jill and Miss Beatrice Johnson, sister of Mrs. Lee, are members of the party and all unite in singing the praises of Ashland.

"Your park," said Mr. Lee, "is the most beautiful we have visited on the Coast. When we arrived we found it pretty well crowded and no wonder. Seems that you have furnished every conceivable convenience for the tourist and camper and combined with its beautiful location makes it simply ideal. "And then too, one meets with such a splendid cordial reception here. Every one you meet has a smile and a friendly word—makes a fellow feel right at home. We really intended going right on up state, but this is too good a city to pass up."

The feature of the trip is to obtain first hand touring and camping advice for the readers of Motor West and as the trip is being made from a genuine close to nature standpoint the party will derive much of the 100 per cent inspiration, as one night finds them far in the mountains and another in canyon or vale and again under desert stars.

SUNDAY SERVICES WERE IMPRESSIVE

Patriotism commingled with sacred services formed the leading observances of the nation's natal day, yesterday, when a large congregation gathered at the Chautauqua auditorium to listen to the patriotic sermon delivered by Bishop W. O. Shepard of the Portland area, and the services in the evening given by the Bible Institute evangelists. This part of the celebration was in charge of the ministerial association of Ashland and was participated in by practically all the clergymen of the city.

At the morning service special music was furnished by a double quartet and congregational singing led by Prof. L. A. Coon. A very beautiful solo, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," was rendered by Andrew Walker, while the ministers assisted in the preliminary services.

Bishop Shepard was at his best in his discourse. He brought to Ashland the gospel of happiness, which he insisted is the inalienable right of every one. "All people are not happy," Bishop Shepard stated, "but all could and should be." He enlarged upon the reasons for happiness which belongs to all mankind, as all inherit the earth. His was an address through which all who heard it left the auditorium better patriots, better neighbors and better Christians.

Owing to the non-arrival of ex-Ambassador Gerard Bishop Shepard very graciously consented to remain over for Monday and deliver his patriotic address accompanying the unveiling of the bronze tablet in honor of the soldier dead in the park for this afternoon, so for this reason no especial services took place yesterday afternoon.

The evangelistic services last evening were especially enjoyable, and consisted principally of the beautiful singing by the trained quartet which accompanied the speaker and song leader. The latter, Earl Cochran, led in the congregational singing, and was an inspiration to causing all to lift up their voices in song. M. H. Reynolds, the speaker, did not tire his audience with a long sermon, but gave an inspirational talk especially fitting to the occasion.

HIAWATHA PAGEANT GORGEOUS SCENE

One of the handsomest features of the celebration was the Hiawatha pageant given in the Chautauqua auditorium Saturday evening, in which were featured upwards of 100 characters. This was a pantomime of the charming old legend, "Hiawatha's Wooing," portrayed by Longfellow, and read by Mrs. Ray McAdams, under direction of the latter and assisted by Frances Montgomery, who staged all the dances. The curtain was raised on the forest home of Hiawatha, represented by Dr. Moxon, and his old mother, Nokomis, with Indian girls of Hiawatha's people, (Lucile Perozzi and Au-dry Roberts). They consult about the proper choice of a wife for Hiawatha, and old Nokomis, represented by Jennie Dowd, dissuades her noble son from choosing a stranger maiden, but the former remembers the charms of Minnehaha, the lovely daughter of the ancient arrow maker, "In the land of the Dakotahs."

The next scene depicted the gorgeous picture of the village and the home of the old arrow maker (W. D. MacAdams), who with his daughter Minnehaha (Molly Clary), are seated before their wigwam. The arrival of Hiawatha brings joy to the village and he asks for the hand of the lovely Laughing Water. Gathered about their wigwam home were the other members of the household, the young arrow maker (Mr. Judkins), and Minnehaha's friends, (Dorothy and Helen Tinker and Mrs. Harrison.)

After the betrothal the old arrow maker summons the Spirits of the Woods to celebrate the festival of joy in honor of the marriage of his daughter, Minnehaha. This was beautifully enacted by pantomime by the children who were gorgeously robed to represent the various features in the festival. The young planters appear to till the ground, and were surprised by the storm clouds, who following the north wind, swept over the fields of corn. The young braves, called the chasers of the storm clouds, dispelled the storm spirits. Then came the happy Spirit of Light, who brought as an offering for Minnehaha's happiness the beautiful flowers of the woods, the Violets, Wild Roses and Daisies, who had farewell to Minnehaha, as an Indian brave sang for them his love song. The children in these features were dressed to represent their characters, and in their graceful manner carried out the scene as depicted. Too much credit cannot be given to those who participated in the pageant, those who trained the children and the women of Ashland who spent much time and skill in making the costumes and arranging the scenes.

Nash Passenger Cars

Nash Passenger Cars are Nash built—ninety-three per cent complete, in the one hundred acre Nash factory at Kenosha. This is the big reason for the splendid account they have given and are giving of themselves in the hands of owners from coast to coast.

Thousands of Nash Sixes now in use, by the high character of their service, are proving daily the soundness of Nash manufacturing policies, and the fact that any product bearing the Nash nameplate does represent quality to an unusual degree. The heavy and nation-wide demand for the Nash Six is but a reflection of their good performance for every motoring purpose.

All Nash cars get their unusual power, quietness and economy of operation from the Nash Perfected Valve-in-Head Motor. See the Nash on display in the Ashland Park today.
