PLANTING "THE GREATEST POEMS OF ALL"

The greatest memorial of all is a tree. In the words of the poet, Joyce Kilmer—"I think that I shall never see, A poem lovely as a tree. A tree that looks at God all day, And lifts her leafy arms to pray. Poems are made by fools like me, But only God can make a tree." Arbor Day at Washington this year meant the planting of 61 trees by school kiddies. Secretary of Agriculture Merdith making the principal address. are "much more assiduous than men in their work."

A representative of the Harrod's department store said they had not turned down any applicants for posts merely because they had formerly been in government employ. This firm has absorbed many Whitehall flappers and their services are reported as giving as much satisfaction as those of any other class of employes.

"FLAPPERS MAKE GOOD"

LONDON. — (By Mail.)—The much maligned "Whitehall Flappers" have made good.

All those young girls who during the war scandalized their sober brethren in government offices with their cups of tea and powder-puffs are no longer recognizable as "flappers." They are distributed in all directions.

A small minority of the ultra-mischievous have gone back to the parental roof, but the great majority are working hard to get the Old Country on its commercial feet and they are to be found in banks, lawyer's offices, and big commercial houses of all kinds.

When the piping days of peace closed scores of government departments, there was a general reluctance among the employers to give these girls a trial. However, some of the more enterprising came forward and engaged batches of them regardless of the attention they paid to silk stockings and powder-puffs—and from inquiries made by the United Press, they have not regretted it.

The secretary of a large shipping firm declared that the girls
