DESCHUTES ATTORNEY TO PROSECUTE FATHER-IN-LAW

BEND, Ore., Oct. 4.—When Jack Weston goes on trial here for the alleged murder of Robert Krug, he will be prosecuted by his son-in-law, A. J. Moore, district attorney of Deschutes county.

It has been reported Moore decline to prosecute his father-in-law, but he announced this afternoon he would direct the prosecution.

"After talking it over with my wife, I've decided not to ask to be relieved from prosecuting this case," said Moore. "She takes the stand it is my duty to go ahead with the case, and I'll leave no stone unturned to convict her father."

Weston was arrested Thursday, charged with slaying Robert Krug, 70-year-old-hermit farmer.

GROWS BROWN, GREEN COTTON

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Not much longer will the sales person at the dry goods counter be pestered with such questions as "Will the color run?" or "Is it fast?" for she will truthfully be able to reply, "Why, madam, don't you know that this material was woven with black cotton?"

Comes the word now that A. W. Brabham of Olar, S. C., has finally succeeded in his efforts of several years to produce cotton of a color other than white. Brabham has exhibited four samples of cottons of color which sustain his assertions that he has successfully produced these cottons of extremely fine fiber. The four samples shade from light brown to dark brown and from light green to dark green.

As for growing absolutely black cotton this year, Brabham says he is sure he would have produced it had not a package of blued-tinted or listed cotton imported from India gone astray. He has a Hindu botanist of Delhi gathering specimens of cottons in color in India, and this botanist has located blue, gray and a light pink.

PICKETING LAW UPHELD

SALEM, Ore.—The constitutionality of the Oregon picketing law, granting to labor unions the right to picket places of business involved in a dispute with employees over wages or labor conditions, was upheld in an opinion handed down by the Oregon supreme court.

Aids to Grace and Beauty

Aids to Grace and Beauty

"Did you ever know that your mental state has a great deal to do with your facial beauty?"

"You didn't? Well then I am going to tell you something I know to be an absolute fact."

Have you ever noticed a woman whom everyone calls a cat? The woman who is always making unkind and hateful remarks about everyone? Nothing pleases her. She roasts her best friend the minute she is out of sight. She not even stops at gossip but she slanders wickedly.

No one is safe from the lash of her tongue. Do you think for a minute that such a woman is pretty?

She may have regular features, her nose perfect, her mouth like a rose bud, but she repulses you. You can see nothing that is fine and beautiful, try hard as you may.

The reason is, this woman reflects her mental self and no matter how beautiful her body may be, the mental conquers the physical and we see only her mind. Her black, ugly thoughts.

Look closely. You will notice that the mouth has a hard line. The eyes, that at first we thought pretty, are narrow as she thinks and schemes. No this woman is not beautiful and until her mind has cleared and her thoughts purified, she never will be.

Take, on the other hand, the girl whom we pass by, at first as plain.

As we listen to her and are thrown constantly in her company she appeals to us. She draws us closer by her kindness of speech and action. She is always ready and willing to help. You tell her your pet grievance and she listens just as if she never had any trouble of her own.

When you have finished she is most sympathetic and suggests some way in which you may be relieved.

Her nose isn't perfect. It's a bit too short. Her mouth is too large and her eyes too small. Her hair is that straw color that never was and never will be pretty, but you do not notice this. In fact, when it is called to your attention that she is not a Lillian Russell you are much surprised. You had always thought her beautiful, because she had reflected her mental state, which was a very beautiful thing.

Nobody thinks anything now of going away on a trip

THE railroads were partly responsible. But it wasn't until the automobile reached its present state of development that the old barriers against travel were finally broken down.

More people own automobiles today than ever thought of owning a horse and buggy in the old days.

That's because the cost of motoring has been brought within reach of the average citizen's pocketbook.

We look upon it as part of our job to keep it there. If it weren't for the trade of the man with the medium priced car there wouldn't be much in this tire business for us.

The less a man has to spend on motoring, the more important it is that his tires should be of first quality.

Any tire is not good enough for the small car owner. He wants a tire that will give him just as much for his money in the small size as the big car man gets for his money in the large size.

In thinking over what kind of tires we would represent in this community we tried to put ourselves in the place of the car owner. And we believe we hit it exactly when we selected U. S. Tires.
