Tested Cows Show Quality

The 1644 cows tested in the ten Oregon cowtesting associations for January averaged 396.5 pounds of shown by the report of E. B. Fitts, extension dairyman of the agricultural college. Bam! Closely followed by another

The best herd was R. Saling's of the Nestucca association, with an average of 1130 pounds of milk and 50

The champion cow was Jack Dowling's three-year-old grade jersey, Tootsle, of the Columbia River association, with the remarkable record of 85.15 pounds of fat. The highest Commissioner Mann, for his part milk record goes to J. R. Hawes' reg-"Cant' park that chariot here!' now adds a touch of informality to istered Holstein, Fanny, for her yield council meetings by displaying a very of 1581 pounds, carrying 64.82 pounds of fat.

The champion registered cow was Dolly Dimple, P. A. Lux's Jersey, who won her third consecutive honor with a fat record of 68.75 pounds. She is in the Bandon association.

Honors for the highest average yield goes for the third consecutive time to the Rogue River association 44 reaching the standard.

Several of the associations are reorganizing for another year's work. Considerably higher averages should be obtained this year by weeding out the poorer cows and paying more attention to feeding, says Professor Fitts. Five cows were sold for beef in January, and three purebred bulls and one purbred heifer were bought. The associations are:
