RAILWAY LINE TO CIVILIZE THE BALKANS

ROME—(By Mail)—The "Adriatic" is the name that will be given to the new line of railway that is to connect Belgrade with the Adriatic seaport of Cattaro and which is expected to work wonders in carrying modern civilization into certain sections of the Balkans.

Where the railway was the principal factor in carrying modern progress into the western portions of the United States half a century ago, the lack of railways appears to have been the determining factor in leaving portions of the Balkan peninsula in a state of primitiveness that is a surprise to Americans.

However, Jugo-Slavia's new railway project is intended more especially as a commercial short-cut to Europe rather than purely a means of civilization. The "Adriatic" from Cattaro will connect up with Brindisi on the Italian side with huge ferry boats.

Ashland Chamber Of Commerce Meets; Elects Directors

The Ashland Chamber of Commerce was given an impetus to new endeavor at the real get-together and business meeting held in Chautauqua Pioneer hall last evening. The event was the annual meeting, and marked the election of six directors, the secretary's report of the past year's work, and many other essential topics to be discussed that will appear before the chamber during the coming year.

The room was comfortably filled with members of the Chamber when Henry Enders, leading the community singing, assisted by the Loveland-Dickey orchestra, opened the meeting with President L. F. Ferguson presiding. This feature is gaining great favor in the chamber meetings and the members are excelling in singing the booster songs of Ashland.

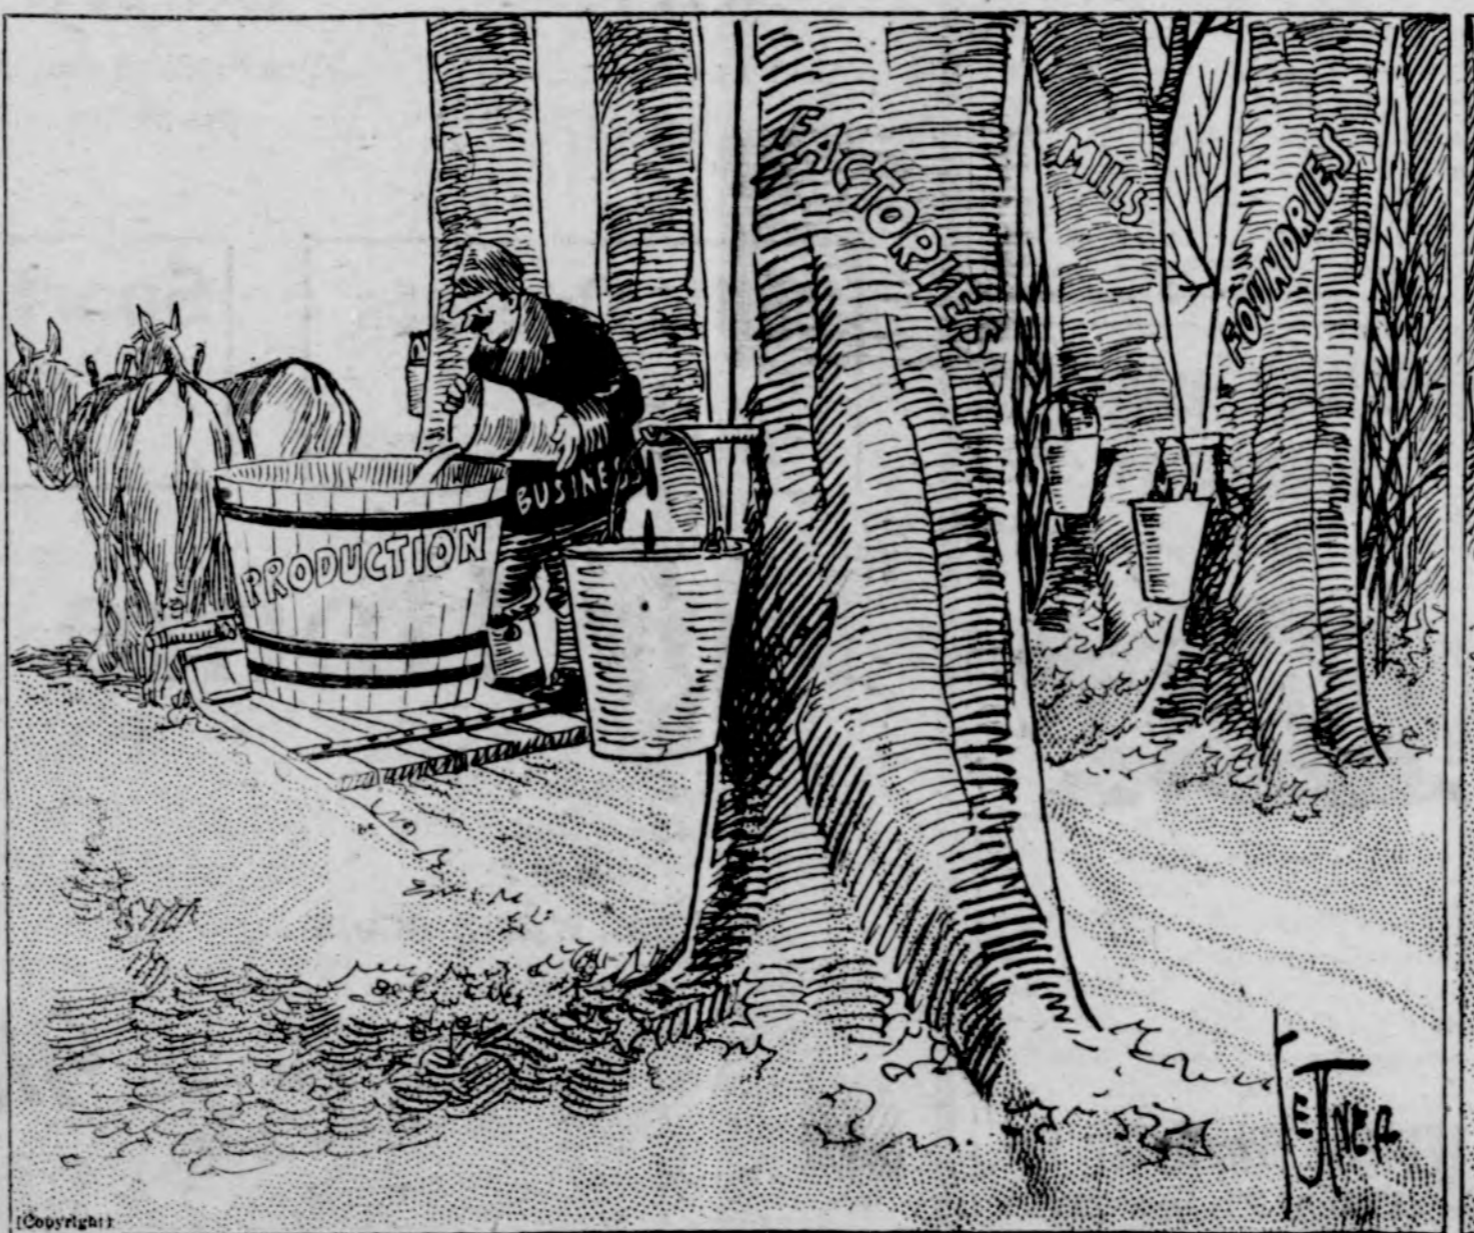

Secretary Fuller read his report of the past year's work in the Chamber of Commerce, which gave an insight into the workings of the organization that had not come under the consideration of a number of the members. The report, which is a lengthy document, gave a detailed account of all receipts and expenditures of the Chamber, together with all its activities and the future plans. This will be given to the public at an early date, and will afford an excellent opportunity to the citizens of Ashland to discover what real live wires the Chamber of Commerce members have been the past year.
