QUICK CHANGES IN PARIS MODES

Extreme Novelties Are Suddenly Produced for Purpose of Making Sensation.

CHIEF AIM IS BECOMINGNESS Women of Refined Taste and Social Position Demand Dresses That Are Free From Undue Eccentricity.

At recent race meetings in the Bois de Boulogne, writes a Paris fashion correspondent, we have had an excellent opportunity of reviewing present-day fashions. Indeed it would be more correct to say "present-hour," because at this season of the year fashions change very frequently. Extreme novelties are suddenly produced for the purpose of making a sensation—and a good advertisement for some particular dressmaker.

As frequently pointed out, the general outline remains graceful and simple; that is to say, the dresses worn by our more exclusive Parisiennes, also by American women of refined taste and assured social position, are perfection itself, free from undue eccentricity and essentially becoming. But then we have other and widely different fashions which are freely exploited by daring young actresses and by women who like to find themselves the center of a wondering crowd. These remarkable costumes are also created to please a certain type of American buyer who insistently demands "something quite new and sensational."

At the races one realizes that longer skirts have really become popular. The Parisiennes have been slow to consent to the added inches; in New York the dresses were ankle length, when over here, in France, the majority of women wore dresses that cut the lower limbs half way between knee and ankle. Even now there are many very smart Parisiennes who actively object to long walking dresses. My personal opinion is that the latest models by Paul Poiret have had much to do with this fight against the added inches.

Models Long and Full. At the beginning of the season Poiret launched models which were at one and the same time long and full. Women quickly realized that this outline, though quaint and picturesque, was not generally becoming; it called for a special type of woman and it rarely suited young girls. Perhaps this was why so many of our best dressmakers—the real autocrats of the rue de la Paix—have decided to retain the beautiful straight outlines of last year while adding width, actually, to the hem of the skirt. The reason is not easy to discover, but the fact remains.

Paquin, Worth, Doucet, Doeuillet and others are showing lovely models which resemble those of yesterday, but which have much more material pressed into their composition. At the fashionable race meetings one sees the most wonderful hats and toques. Quite amazing arrangements of paradise plumes, uncured ostrich feathers and aigrettes—the latter as a rule artificial and cleverly made of fine horse hair. There is just now a craze for bushy feathers, which make their wearer look like a savage chief in full war costume. These feathers—always uncurled and straggling—are placed in two or three rows round the brim of the hat or toque and allowed to fall over the eyes. A curious fashion, but one which has caught on to an alarming extent. Lewis is trying to make us accept very wide-brimmed satin and straw hats, which have low crowns and scanty trimming; the genuine "picture hat" which used to be so dear to the heart of the artist. "Drian." These hats will be immensely popular when the seaside season is in full swing, but for Paris they seem a trifle too remarkable. As a matter of fact they are not really so remarkable as the small toques covered with straggling aigrettes and feathers, which are now so generally worn, but the big "picture" shapes are unexpected. It is quite a long time since we have worn them.

Short Jackets Popular. The growing popularity of short jackets is something that must be taken into consideration. They are shown in all the best dressmaking studios and it is certain that they will become very popular. Many of these little garments are of Breton outline. Almost exactly like the little coats worn by Breton peasants—Very simple, rather wide at the hem, finished with long sleeves of pagoda outline and open in front. I have seen jackets of this order chez Paquin, Beer and Redfern; they are distinctly original, but I do not consider them very becoming. Nevertheless they must be taken into serious consideration because they are going to be generally worn. A model created by Redfern was worn at the Longchamps races. It was very simple in outline, but unusual. This was a genuine Breton model and it is one which will be very fashionable a little later on in the season.
