BRITISH-IRISH EAGER FOR A SETTLEMENT

Ashland Is Popular Playground For July Fourth Celebration

With a crowd estimated at about 15,000 people in Ashland to celebrate Independence Day yesterday, all Jackson county viewed the "passing show." From 8 o'clock in the morning until late in the evening, Ashland, the county playground, was crowded. The sidewalks of North and East Main streets were jammed with sightseeing visitors fully two hours before the start of the all-Jackson county parade at 10 o'clock in the morning. At 10 o'clock standing room was at a premium, and at several points the crowds extended far into the streets, unable to find footing on the walk. The parade, more than a mile long and composed of floats decorated in a manner showing a great amount of planning and artistic ability, would have been a vast asset to metropolitan centers several times the size of Ashland and with populations larger than the combined cities of Jackson county.

The parade was the feature of the morning's celebration. Forming on the Boulevard opposite the public library, and led by Marshal Fred Homes, it moved down East Main street, out North Main street, and back again, disbanding at the library. After Marshal Homes followed the G. A. R. and the D. A. R. organizations, Jacksonville, capital and the oldest city in the county, was given the leading place of honor with a float depicting the early mining industry of the county.

After Jacksonville, the following order of floats in the parade was observed. The D. O. K. K. band of Medford; Medford float, decorated with pine trees; Talent, depicting a farm scene, "The Cream of Rogue River Valley"; Central Point with a high school float; Mayor Lamkin and members of the city council; Shriners; the Ship of State, entered by the Civic Improvement club; feature representing Dempsey, world's champion pugilist; truck carrying a small hydroplane; the Oregon Normal school, entered by the summer school branch here; a private float entered by Enders and Son; the Elks' float, representing an elk in the forest; playground float, displaying the activities carried out in the children's playground at the park; private float featuring the friendship of Oregon and California; the American Legion depicting army life during the world war with two small French box cars used for transporting army troops; the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion; Jesse Winburn and party of horseback riders; float of "Future Mothers of America"; and a baby float. Several marching bands, private floats and machines took part in the parade. The First Company Coast Artillery, led by Captain William Briggs, was a military feature of the parade. The Ashland band and the D. O. K. K. band of Medford supplied music for the parade.

Award $375 in Cash Prizes
Jesse Winburn, chairman of the parade committee, awarded $375 in cash prizes for floats and other winning features. The judges were R. W. Ruhl, of Medford; Judge C. B. Watson, of Gold Hill; Tom W. Fulton. Prizes were awarded to the following:
First prize of $100, Jacksonville float, "Discovery of Gold."
Second prize of $50, Talent, float of a farm scene, "Cream of Rogue River Valley."
Third prize of $25, Phoenix float, "Rising from Its Ashes."
The following entries were awarded prizes for stunt features:
First prize of $25, Ford car with "home brew" representation.
Second prize of $15, donkey with wine kegs labeled "Winburn's Wines."
Third prize of $10, feature representing "Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion."
The float, "Future Mothers," was awarded a prize of $15, and the "Bathing Girls" float a prize of $10. The D. O. K. K. band of the Knights of Pythias, of Medford, was given a $50 cash prize, and the life and drum corps of the G. A. R. a $25 prize.
McGee's dry goods store was awarded the first prize of $25 for the best window trim among Ashland business houses, Holmes Grocery, second prize of $15, and Vinting's theatre, third prize of $10.

With the exception of the first three main prizes, awarded to Jackson county cities, the names of the parties or organizations entering prize winning floats or features are not known. Mrs. C. B. Lamkin, treasurer of the parade committee, stated this morning. All prize winners whose floats or features but not their names are listed, are requested by Mrs. Lamkin to notify her as soon as possible; that the checks may be made out at once.

Beginning immediately after the parade Lithia Park was crowded with picnickers who spread their lunch on the lawn at the entrance to the park. Patriotic services were held in the park at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The speakers were Mayor Gilmore, of Rogue River; Mayor Gates, of Medford, and Rev. Conaty, pastor of the Catholic church in this city. The speakers were introduced by John H. Fuller, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Thye Wins Wrestling Match
Ted Thye, Portland wrestler and former middleweight champion of the world, won two falls out of three from Ralph Hand, of Gold Hill, in a match staged at the Chautauqua auditorium at 2 o'clock under the auspices of the celebration committee. The match lasted an hour.

The first fall was secured by Hand in 19 minutes. Within 26 minutes Thye made Hand's shoulders touch the mat for the first time, and again for the second and decisive time within three minutes.

Horseshoe pitching was a popular form of exercise and amusement in Lithia Park yesterday. The horseshoes were supplied by the celebration committee.

Medford Elks Win Ball Game
Medford Elks defeated the local Elks baseball team 12 to 13 yesterday in a game played at the high school grounds. It was a hard fought game, nip and tuck until the last inning. Avialton stunts performed during the game by Clyde C. Pangborn made the ball grounds a crowded central point of interest.

At 9 o'clock in the evening a fireworks demonstration was given in the park. The park was crowded with spectators of all ages, witnessing the display which was in charge of a large Seattle company specializing in such work.

IRISH PEOPLE TO HEAR PROPOSALS OF GOVERNMENT

By EDWARD L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, July 5.—A sentiment favoring a quick and definite solution of the centuries-old Irish question appears to be growing among Sinn Feiners, Ulsterites and the British government.

Jan Smuts, South African premier, arrived in Dublin today. Though not officially representative of the British government, Smuts' recommendations carry weight with the government and other dominion premiers. The Sinn Fein faction has invited Smuts to advise the Irish officials relative to a settlement of terms and advise them during the negotiations. The De Valera conference continues until Friday.

"President" De Valera, of the Irish "republic," conferring with unionist leaders, insists that Ireland should decide her own fate through the principal of self-determination. It was stated authoritatively today that the British government is theoretically willing to accept that solution of the Irish question.

De Valera will be asked to come to London to confer with Lloyd George and dominion premiers and hear proposals of the British government, to be submitted to the Irish people for rejection or acceptance. The Irish office insists that the timetable of Great Britain's offer expires July 12, after which the "iron heel of military action will be applied." The Ulster premier, Craig, was not present, although his views are reported to have been voiced by southern Unionist leaders.

GEORGE WASHINGTON IN TRAFALGAR SQUARE

LONDON, July 2.—A statue of George Washington—the leader of the Continental arm that wrested the thirteen colonies from George III—was unveiled today in Trafalgar Square, opposite the National Gallery of art and just across the square from a statue of George IV.

All members of the American official and residential colony attended the ceremony, one of a series arranged for this summer in connection with the dedication of Sulgrave Manor, home of Washington's ancestors. The statue, is a reproduction of the Houdon statue, and was a gift to the British people from the people of Virginia. John A. Stewart, chairman of the Sulgrave Institution of America, was in charge of arrangements for the unveiling.

GOVERNMENT IS ACCUSED OF INEFFICIENT R. R. ECONOMY

U.S. HAS SAFE, SANE FOURTH, DROWNING TAKES BIGGEST TOLL

PORTLAND, Or., July 5.—America passed the safest, sanest Fourth of July in many years, yesterday. Nation wide reports indicate but few deaths due to fireworks, drowning claiming the largest tolls.

Portland accidents resulted from automobile collisions, killing three and injuring seven. Chicago and Boston led the list with 12 deaths each. Five were drowned at Chicago, and the rest were killed in automobile accidents. Six out of 11 at Milwaukee, Wis., are dead due to drowning. Nine were drowned at New York, four killed in Detroit, three at Brownsville, Pa., three at New Orleans, two at Pittsburgh. Scores of cities reported smaller casualty lists due to drowning and automobile accidents.

Rev. Hoyt and Family Move To Walla Walla, Wn.

Rev. J. W. Hoyt and family leave this week for their new home in Walla Walla, Wash. Their many friends feel a distinct loss in their going, especially the Christian forces, will miss their staunch help and fellowship.

Mrs. Hoyt, John Archer and Eleanor have been loyal workers in Sunday school and Christian Endeavor in their own church and also the Southern Oregon Union. Rev. Hoyt's work as a Sabbath school missionary under the Presbyterian board has been faithful and constructive and far-reaching in Southern Oregon. Presbytery, and also in the whole synod. He has been counted among the experts in Sabbath school work, and as one fellow minister said of him, "His work has been a challenge to every other minister and Sunday school worker throughout the state."

The local Christian Endeavor society of the Ashland Presbyterian church presented them with a painting of Crater Lake by Miss Nabel Russell, the gift being appropriate as one of Southern Oregon's choicest landscapes, and because the Hoyts had the first Christian service on the rim of the lake a custom since kept up each summer. Many good wishes attend them to their new home and work.

Elks Minstrel Show Advance Man Arrives in Ashland

Carries Cane But Denies He Is "Trouper"

Billy B. Hoke, advance man for the Minneapolis Elks' All Star Minstrel show, which shows in this city Thursday evening, arrived in Ashland this morning from Portland. Hoke, who shyly admits he is not a professional showman, nevertheless is carrying a cane, the sure sign of a "trouper," but this he explains by saying that he wears said "crutch" on a bet.

It seems that a certain sporting haberdasher of his home city, Minneapolis, Minn., offered to wager the advance man that he was not game to carry the stick clear across the country, over the Rockies and home again, and this sort of starting the red blood to circulating in Billy B's veins. Result, everywhere Willie has gone thus far, he has toted the said stick.

According to Hoke the show is playing to packed houses all along the line and is composed of 200 men, including the Elks' Glee club and symphony orchestra of 20 pieces. Every one of the performers are Elks and every single one of them have had professional stage appearance and are simply taking their vacation and showing their way along to the big national convention at Los Angeles. They will arrive in their special train Thursday morning from Portland and will parade through the downtown streets about noon.

U. S. SPENT TO LITTLE ON R. R. ASSERTION MADE

By RALPH H. COUCH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 5.—The settlement of the $1,250,000,000 in railroad claims against the United States government depends upon the question of efficiency or non-efficiency of war time railroad labor.

Railroad attorneys appearing before Rail Director Davis contend that the administration spent $1,250,000,000 too little during the period of federal control of the railroads. The money actually spent by the government is said to have been insufficient to keep the railroads in good condition due to the inefficiency of the workers employed, rail attorneys contend. Rail Director Davis is insisting the claims be settled within 40 or 60 per cent of the amount demanded.

Sport Chatter

By FRANKLIN B. MORSE
(Pacific Sports Service)
With the Dempsey-Carpenter fistie battle a matter of history, there probably will be some persons, here and there, who will get a thrill out of the announcement that another chess tournament will be held at Havana, Cuba, at the end of the year.

"Now that the big fight is over it looks as if a lot of sports editors would have to get back to work again," remarked the Genial Grouch as he sauntered into our sanctum. All of which is rather an unkind cut. Any one who has had to write a column of "stuff" a day for weeks on the training period when there was not anything to write about, will vouch for the fact that a holiday for the purpose of resting up is what ought to be coming.
