MAIL SHIPPING CAMPAIGN AS TRADE STIMULANT

NEW YORK, July 12.—The action of transatlantic carriers in joining the general campaign for the renewal of America's foreign trade, signalized by announcements of marked decreases in ocean freight rates, was hailed by New York bankers as a significant development in the movement to release the country's surplus products for sale in foreign countries.

Lewis E. Pierson, chairman of the board of the Irving National bank, and a member of the committee on organization of the Foreign Trade Financing corporation, the largest of the Edge banks for granting long-term credits to foreign buyers, reflected the opinion of financial leaders by stating that none but the most drastic measures will suffice to swing foreign trade figures back to their normal level. The recent figures of the department of commerce showing a shrinkage of $67,000,000 in January's export trade constituted the most concrete of the current signs. These figures, together with an authoritative statement made in maritime circles that more than 200 merchant ships are tied up in New York harbor, were cited by bankers as reasons why the prospects of the next few months cannot be regarded with any degree of optimism.

Mr. Pierson and his associates see the announcements of lower ocean freight rates as a coming of the inevitable. It is hoped that the shipping board's decision to lower the rate on cotton from Atlantic ports to Liverpool, for instance, will be some measure of relief to the distressed growers of the south. The more conservative bankers are of the opinion, however, that only a part of the problem's solution rests with the question of rates. The greater problem is financial; according to Mr. Pierson, when foreign buyers are enabled to obtain credit beyond the restricted limits now set by commercial banks the export trade will have a real chance of renewed vitality. It is such credit that banking institutions organized under the Edge law are designed to extend.

KLAYKORT
The Tennis Player says —
"Three sets are nothing!"
"With Klaykorts I can play a half dozen sets, and feel it less than I used to feel three, because my feet don't hurt in them. I play a faster game. There isn't a better tennis shoe made."
Hood Klaykorts combine lightness with strength, and the patented Kexend insole and thick felt cushion keep the hard court from tiring or burning the feet. No other shoe of any kind combines equal wearing qualities with the ease and the sense of quick, sure action of the Hood Klaykort. Many also prefer Klaykorts for general outdoor summer wear.
