Would Quash Indictment Of 'Dud' Wolgamott

A motion to quash the indictment against Ernest S (Dud) Wolgamott, charging him with being drunk in a public place, was filed in the circuit court Saturday morning by Attorney George M. Roberts, and the same taken under advisement by Circuit Judge F. M. Calkins. It is understood that the indictment will be resubmitted to the grand jury when it convenes next Wednesday.

The motion for quashing was based upon the allegations, that a woman stenographer was in the grand jury room when testimony was being taken, that the name of Justice of the Peace Glenn O. Taylor, who was called as a witness was not upon the indictment, and that the name of Glenn Terrill should be Dolph Terrill instead, as one of the witnesses.

The indictment was returned last week, though Wolgamott was freed of the charge in the justice court last spring, and is now under $500 bonds.

U. S. DESTROYERS ARE TORPEDOING ICE BERGS IN NORTH ATLANTIC

BOSTON, Mass., July 23.—Icebergs of unusual size and number, one of them estimated to contain enough ice to supply the homes of a large part of the country for the rest of the summer, have been encountered by the United States coast guard cutters Seneca and Yamacraw which are policing the ocean steamship lanes.

Since early February the United States government, acting under an international agreement and at international expense, has maintained the annual iceberg patrol. The coast guardsmen have helped many vessels to steer a safe course through the danger zone. Some have been extorted from serious positions, others have been warned when they were headed for the ice.

Although plans for ridding the seas of these dangers to navigation have often been proposed the coast guard officers insist the icebergs "still rule the northern sea." They are awaiting with interest reports of experiments made by the destroyer Breckenridge which shot several bergs with torpedoes. Some of the coast guardsmen are frankly skeptical of this plan and insist that a torpedo would make no more impression on an iceberg than a pop-gun would on a mountain of cotton.

Pity the Blind Man

SOME days you'll see him, slowly, hesitatingly, feeling his way. At other times he has a guide who quickly leads him where he wants to go.

When you shop without advance knowledge of where to go to get the best, you are feeling your way.

The advertisements in the Tidings are guides. They will tell you where to go to get the best—quickly.

And they are a guarantee of satisfaction. The consistent advertiser pays money to tell you about his goods. He knows they are good—he backs them with his money because he believes they'll satisfy. Only merchandise which is consistently good can be consistently advertised.

Read the advertisements and buy the advertised products. Don't spend your money blindly. Get dollar's worth for a dollar by buying products that have proved their worth under the glare of publicity.
