What Constitutes Advertising?
In order to allay a misunderstanding among some as to what constitutes news and what advertising, we print this very simple rule which is used by newspapers to differentiate between them: "ALL future events, where an admission charge is made or a collection is taken IS ADVERTISING." This applies to organizations and societies of every kind as well as to individuals.

I praise not those
Who in their petty dealings pilfer not,
But him, whose conscience spurns at secret fraud,
When he might plunder and defy surprise.—Cumberland.

Factionalism sets a community by the ears and is a brake on the wheels of wholesome progress. The city that forges ahead and flourishes is not the one that is cursed with factional wrangles.

The world has gone through more agony in the last seven years than in any hundred years of the past.

Marie Prevost, ex-bathing beauty, is to star in a series of productions for Universal. Hope she's in good shape for the coming season!

Irvin V. Willat is shortly to begin work on his fourth production for Hodkinson—"Fifty Candles," written by Earl Derr Biggers. A light comedy?

Ruth Stonehouse will play opposite Tom Santschi in a series of two-reelers for Pathe. Remember Santschi in "The Spoilers" with Bill Barrum?

Rumor hath it that Marshall Neilan will make "Penrod" for First National, featuring Wesley Barry. But perhaps it's only a kid!

Chaplin's next comedy will be called "Vanity Fair." That noise you just heard was William Makepeace Thackeray turning over in his grave!

The well-beloved "Wallingford" will come to the screen next Fall. A Cosmopolitan production. It ought to make a great picture.

Bayard Veiller will direct Viola Dana in a picture tentatively titled "There Are No Villains." Who says there ain't?

Director T. Hayes Hunter, the man who made "Earthbound," is finishing up "The Light in the Clearing," the screen version of Irving Bacheller's novel for Hodkinson release.

"The Three Musketeers" with Douglas Fairbanks as "D'Artagnan" will reach the screen in August. "Doug" must be losing his "pop." Back in the old days he'd have played all three of 'em!

There are cold towns, friendly towns and DEPENDABLE TOWNS.

The greatest of these—according to authoritative surveys—is the town that can be depended upon. This town of OURS is a dependable town.
—I like to deal in your town—a country shopper remarked to a business man the other day. "I can get anything on earth I want here—as cheap or cheaper than anywhere else."

That unsolicited testimony shows that the town can be "DEPENDABLE" upon—that shoppers are learning the value of the real SERVICE the merchants and business men are daily striving to establish.
In this bustling day, a man's too busy to stand for very much LOST MOTION. Slow mails, unreliable transportation facilities—substitution of articles for the one ordered—delays—irritations—DISAPPOINTMENTS, are some of the usual mail order buying trials today—aside from the DISLOYALTY of failing to support your town and community TRADE.

If you can buy it ANYWHERE, you can buy it right here. There is EVERYTHING here—and the latchstring is OUT on every business and public door in this town.

REVOLVER INVENTED BY BOY

Idea of Deadly Small Arm Was Born in the Brain of Fourteen-Year-Old Runaway.

The revolver, that until the invention of the automatic pistol, was the most deadly small arm known to man, was born of the brain of a fourteen-year-old boy, Samuel Colt. Colt ran away from school and shipped on board a merchant vessel bound for the East Indies. He had a good deal of idle time on his hands once the ship was well at sea, and a long period of calm weather followed its movements. He began to seek an outlet for his active imagination and mechanical urge. He attempted various things to aid sailing, but without any great success. He then took to planning a pistol that would shoot several times with a single load. He had only bits of wood and a jack knife to work with, but before the voyage was over he had cut out a model for a revolver very similar to the pattern still in use.
Once at home again, he went to work in his father's factory, but the revolver idea was still in his head, and he worked at it from time to time until he was twenty-one. At this point his experiments had so far advanced that he asked for and obtained patents in America and European countries. A stock company was organized, and from this humble start the great Colt arms factory was begun, and the revolver put on a market that soon carried it around the world.

SCIENTISTS HOLD TWO VIEWS

Are Not in Accord in Their Explanation of Origin of the Planetary System.

Scientists explain the origin of our planetary system in two ways. One of these is the familiar nebular hypothesis of Laplace. The other is the planetesimal theory of Professor Moulton, which is probably the most correct one. According to this theory our planetary system was originally a vast spiral nebulae. The planets were formed by accretions of matter in the spirals of the nebulae. Our earth and its satellite, the moon, were formed in this way. The moon being a smaller accretion of matter, was naturally attracted by the earth, which was possessed of enough gravitation to hold the moon. The moon therefore is not a child of the earth, but speaking in everyday parlance, we might call it an adopted child. This theory explains a great deal that the nebular hypothesis does not. There are vast numbers of such spiral nebulae in the heavens, indicating that this is nature's accepted way of creating new worlds, and it is for these reasons that I accept this view of the formation of the earth and the moon. —Pittsburgh Dispatch.

SIMPSON'S HARDWARE

When the time for Washington's second inaugural came around he was in doubt as to the proper method of taking the oath for his second term. He addressed a note to his cabinet asking for their opinion as to whether it should be public or private. The cabinet at that time was divided. Jefferson and Hamilton recommended that it should be private. Knox and Randolph reported in favor of making it public, which was done.

Soft, as It Were.

"All the young ladies are raving about your new clerk's melting eye." "Let 'em rave," said Mr. Grumpson. "I've never known a chap with melting eyes whose brain wasn't in the same condition."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

NEEDED COURSE IN WISDOM

In Ancient Days It Was Well Recognized That The Young Required Proper Instruction.

Instruction of the young by the old was not out of date when "The Wisdom Books" were written, according to Dr. Josiah H. Penniman, acting provost of the University of Pennsylvania. "The people who wrote the Bible were very human," declared Doctor Penniman, and he illustrated this with many passages from the Scriptures.

"The book of wisdom told the people what to do, and most of the people needed it," Doctor Penniman said. "There were just as many wise as foolish virgins—and probably the average has been maintained."

Among Doctor Penniman's other sayings were the following: "They offered money to Job when they knew he did not need it."

"Be sure your sin will find you out," he quoted, and then added, "You know perfectly well a lot of your sins will find you out."

"The tongue has always been one of the greatest mischief makers, as witness 'where there is no whisperer contention ceases.'"

"I need not explain 'the that winketh with the eye and the sorrow.'"

"Sob stuff was apparently used in olden days, for Delilah said to Samson, 'Thou hast told a riddle unto thy neighbors, but not unto me.'"

"What does he get for it?" was asked of Job as it is today of those who get into the public view.

Doctor Penniman declared Job was the most artistic of the Wisdom books, and in some respects of all the books of the Bible.

WAS CENTER OF INTEREST

Student Quite Unwittingly Furnished Amusement for a Large Number of People.

While I was a student in college I think I amused the largest number of... people it was ever my fortune to entertain at one and the same time. I know I came nearer to wishing to vanish off the face of the earth at that moment than ever before or since.

The morning schedule in this college consisted of four periods for recitations with five minute periods of intermission between classes. All classes were dismissed and summoned from and to classrooms at the same time by a small bell operated exactly like the ordinary doorbell. This bell was installed in the entrance hall of the building—where most of the students congregated during intermissions.

For the convenience of the students a telephone was likewise placed in this hall. One morning the usual crowd of students was gathered in the hall, waiting for the signal to call them back into classes. When it came, mistaking it for a telephone call, I hastily picked up the receiver and called "Hello." No answer—so I repeated my "Hello" louder.

By this time I had the attention of most of the students—they stopped their chattering and were intent on watching me wake up. It was a rude awakening.—Exchange.

With Remarks From the General.

While I was a lieutenant in the army at a western training camp we had a parade and divisional review before a well-known general, and I invited some girls to see it. We were marching along in a column of fours with another company on each side of us. We were to keep on this way until we got in front of the general, when we were to turn left and go forward, the command to be "Squads left." I must have been excited, for I shouted "Squads right," and, like good soldiers, my company obeyed. There was great confusion, of course. The general saw it all and sent an orderly to get me. When I confronted him I received some cutting censure. During the most heated part of his lecture I saw my friends standing at the fence not five feet away, taking it all in.—Chicago Tribune.
