

ASHLAND climate without the aid of medicine, cures nine cases out of ten of Asthma. This is a proven fact.

ASHLAND DAILY TIDINGS

MALARIA Germs cannot survive three months in the rich ozone at Ashland. The pure domestic water helps.

VOLUME 2 (Successor to the Semi-Weekly Tidings. Vol. 43.)

ASHLAND, OREGON, THURSDAY, AUGUST 11, 1921

NO. 290

POSSE FIND MISSING PRIEST MURDERED

MRS. F.W. CHAPIN, ASHLAND PIONEER DIES WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Nancy A. Chapin, widow of the late F. W. Chapin, died yesterday evening at 8:30 o'clock at her home, 159 First street. Mrs. Chapin's death followed an illness of only a few days. Funeral services will be held from the Dodge undertaking parlors at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning (Friday, Aug. 12.)

One Strike!

"Mike," said the judge sternly, "the testimony shows that you hit this man twice."

"I did not, y'r honor," declared the defendant stoutly. "The furst time I hit him I missed him!"—American Legion Weekly.

—"Topics of the Day" Films.

Full Share

Mrs. O'Brien—"My husband never goes out looking for trouble like yours."

Mrs. Murphy—"I suppose he gets all he wants at home."—"Topics of the Day" Films.

Portland Invites Foreign Nations to 1925 Exposition

Harding Signs Proclamation For Official Invitations.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 11.—President Harding yesterday signed a proclamation giving the managers of the world exposition to be held in Portland in 1925, permission to invite all European nations to participate. The permission, however, was given with the stipulation that such participation of foreign countries will entail no expense to the United States government.

The entire Oregon delegation was present at the time President Harding affixed his signature to the proclamation. Among the invited guests were W. D. B. Dodson, secretary of the Portland Chamber of Commerce. Following the signing of the bill the president gave the pen he used to Senator McNary for transmission to the officials of the exposition. Photographs were taken of Harding as he signed the resolution. A Portland celebration is planned for August 17 in honor of the event.

Medford Police Find Still; Two Men Are Arrested

MEDFORD, Or., Aug. 11.—Following the arrest of Jim Lewis and J. M. Housler of the Griffin Creek district Tuesday night on the streets here on a charge of intoxication, police found upon investigation that the shack lived in by the two men had been burned with the apparent object of hiding the evidence of an illicit still. Five barrels of sour mash was found close to the cabin and taken by the officers as evidence against the men.

Although authorities here are unwilling to give any particulars regarding the raid, it is known that the police are searching for several other men said to have been implicated with the two jailed men in operation of the still.

C. Lake Travel Increases 39 Per Cent This Year

CRATER LAKE, Ore., Aug. 8.—(Special.) The number of autos in the park this year is 35 per cent greater than last year in July and the number previous entering the park this year is 39 per cent greater than last year. The lodge was filled over Sunday to capacity and many came up for Sunday dinner who didn't stay but a few hours.

The road around the rim is to be opened by Wednesday, according to Mr. Sparrow. There is a sunset auto ride from the lodge every night at 7 o'clock round the rim, beyond The Watchman and turning back at the foot of Glacier Peak to see the beauties of the sun setting beyond the distant hills and the changing lights on Crater Lake. The trip includes the bit of road through the snow bank that is more than twenty feet high on either side of the car and is quite a novelty in August.

As soon as the entire rim road is open there will be daily auto trips from the lodge around the lake for tourists.

UNEARTH BODY FROM CAVE HIDDEN GRAVE NEAR SALADA BEACH

Father Heslin Shot Thru Heart; Thought to Have Been Killed Near Grave; Find Empty Shells

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 11.—Father Patrick Heslin, missing Catholic priest of Colma, Calif., for whom searching parties have been scouring the country for the past several days, has been found, murdered. The body was dug up from a rude grave concealed in a tiny cave near Salada Beach, thirty miles south of San Francisco, by six members of the searching party. Examination showed that the aged priest had been shot through the heart, probably as he stood at the edge of the grave. His murder at the spot is substantiated by the finding of several shells scattered about on the ground near the grave.

The finding of the body follows a search of Northern California by posses endeavoring to locate the priest and his abductors who were holding Father Heslin for $50,000 ransom.

The body was clothed in clerical broadcloth when found and wore a velvet case and priestly jewelry. Papers, bills and similar articles establishing the identity of the body when discovered.

The clue leading to the finding of the body was furnished by William Hightower, a mechanic. Full particulars are lacking.

"For Southern Ore." Is Urge of Klamath Falls Business Man

Co-operation as the keynote throughout Southern Oregon was sounded today at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon at Hotel Ashland by business men of Klamath Falls. The spirit of all speeches made by the Klamath Falls men carried the purport of "all hands together for a greater, bigger Southern Oregon." The speakers were essentially boosters. The advantages of Southern Oregon, commercially and as a tourist center, were constructively used in forecasting the great future for this part of the state. In the opinions of the speakers Ashland possesses scenic advantages superior to all neighbor cities, that it serves as a great point of attraction for tourists.

Henry Enders, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, presided at the luncheon. Song pamphlets were supplied by the Ashland Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Enders and Mayor Lamkin made addresses welcoming the Klamath Falls delegation to Ashland. The first speaker for the neighboring city "just over the hump," as the Klamath Falls men explained it, was Charles Hall, president of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce.

"It is with great satisfaction," said Mr. Hall, "that I note the great civic pride of Ashland. Ashland has the pride that will make the greater Southern Oregon possible. Civic pride is something we are developing in Klamath Falls."

Mr. Hall urged the completion of the Green Springs road between Klamath Falls and Ashland as a means of bringing the two communities into closer touch and harmony of idea.

E. B. Hall, president of the Klamath Falls Chamber of Commerce and brother of Charles Hall, was the next speaker. Mr. Hall urged the building of better highways connecting the cities of Southern Oregon, classing the state highway that runs through Ashland as an asset of great value to this city. He urged the completion of a "scenic loop" that would include Ashland, Klamath Falls and Medford. Southern Oregon's future, Mr. Hall stated, lies in the future development of a market for its products, the creation of a demand for all things that mean Southern Oregon.

Don't worry about the other fellow's town, don't be jealous. Boost your own and Southern Oregon.

Mr. Hall was high in his praise of the auto camp ground in Lithia park, stating that because of the camp Ashland's fame had spread throughout the country carrying a message for Ashland and Southern Oregon.

Other speakers at the luncheon were T. L. Stanley, secretary of the Klamath Falls Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Willey of that city. Both men urged a closer co-operation between Ashland, Klamath Falls and Medford. W. V. Marshall, architect and manager of the Home Building company of Klamath Falls.

Removing Moss from Canals.

When moss grows in canals, it soon causes trouble. Yet how to remove it? George E. Stratton of the United States reclamation service offers several suggestions. If there is plenty of time, the canal can be dried out; the sun will kill the mossy growth. When the moss is stiff, submarine saws will cut it.

Dragging the bottom with a harrow is sometimes resorted to, but a chain is more effective. Thirty-five miles of canal were dragged with a chain at a cost of $9 a mile.—Popular Science Monthly.

Clever Trick.

Golden sausages were used by relief workers to carry money in parts of Asia Minor where bandits are at work. One of the best methods adopted was the taking of money from Constantinople to the interior of Anatolia by extracting meat from a string of sausage and substituting gold. This ruse succeeded because the robbers are mostly Turks and have the Moslem abhorrence of the pig and its products. The worker in charge of the golden sausages was held up several times, but the hidden gold was never touched.

FINE TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

Napoleon's Eulogy of the World's Greatest Man Regarded as Worthily of Eternal Preservation.

Approach of the hundredth anniversary of the death of Napoleon Bonaparte recalls the order of the day which he issued in his capacity as first consul, to the French army on the occasion of the death of the first President of the United States. The document is as follows:

"Soldiers! Washington is dead! This great man fought against tyranny. He consolidated the liberty of his native land. His memory will always be cherished by the French people, as well as by all free men of the two worlds, but more especially by the soldiers of France, who, like himself and the soldiers of America in times past, are fighting for equality and liberty. In recognition thereof, the first consul orders that for ten days all the standards and flags of the troops of the republic shall be draped with crepe. (Signed) Bonaparte."

Not content with this, Bonaparte insisted that an official eulogy of the liberator of America should be pronounced, in the name of the republic, in the Temple of Mars, the name then given to the chapel of the Palace of the Invalides. The task was confided to Marcellin de Fontane, the poet, who was given six days to prepare it. De Fontane accomplished his task to the satisfaction of Bonaparte, and it is generally agreed that his eulogy of Washington ranks among his very finest works.

Electrical Equipment Installed

The new electric metal pot ordered by this office some time ago arrived yesterday and was installed last night. However, it has proven a big job to get it adjusted to the local electric current and the linotype has been out of commission most of the day. We hope by tomorrow to have it in good working order and then the troubles that we have experienced the past six months will be a thing of the past and we think we are in position to assure our subscribers of a much better paper than we have been able to supply lately. For an average of three hours out of eight the past two months, every day, the gas flow has been insufficient to supply our needs and our typesetting facilities have been operating only two-thirds efficient.

We got the new electric apparatus working at 2:30 today, so this paper is clean, out beginning tomorrow we hope to give Ashland the best paper she has had in her history.

CALLS FOR STEADY NERVE

Duty Devolving on Cook for East African Monarch Can Not Be Called a Sinecure.

The Rev. John Roscoe, rector of Ovington Norfolk, kept members of the Royal society wondering for more than an hour while he lectured on his journey through East Africa, where he went on a tour of investigation on behalf of the government and the Royal society.

King George was amused by the traveler's description of the royal servants at Bunyoro, one of the places Mr. Roscoe visited. He described their duties in his lecture in London.

"The king's chief cook has a very trying job," said Mr. Roscoe. "The custom is that every morning he brings to the king a pot of specially prepared meat, with which he must walk all around the royal enclosure. With his face whitened he enters the presence, and in a dead silence throughout the court, which may not be broken by coughing or sneezing on pain of instant death, the chief cook puts a piece of meat at the end of a fork into the king's mouth.

"He does this four times, but if by chance or nervousness he touches the king's teeth with the metal fork he dies instantly.

"These servants find the ordeal so trying that they can only carry it out for a few days, after which they are sent away for a six weeks' holiday. That is all the meat the king is supposed to have in a day and for the rest he lives on milk."—London Daily Mail.

Heat Waves

FRENCH CITY IN THE DESERT

Little Township of Ishmailia Has Been Made Place Where Beauty Abides Beside Desolation.

Sir Ian Malcolm, British government representative on the Suez canal board, gives a charming description of the luxurious little township of Ishmailia, which is the headquarters of the company. The executive of the undertaking is practically entirely French, and therefore it is not surprising to learn that behind a broad belt of tall trees and waving palms one finds a town that is purely French in atmosphere and management.

"Here is the residence, where I am now staying with M. Jonart, the president; buildings, schools, shops, are all French, in fact you feel that you are living in a smart French seaside resort, where roses, violets and strawberries abound throughout the year, but if you go a mile in any direction from the lake you come to the end of civilization and are faced by the desert."

This lake, the Large Bitter lake, is more than ten miles long, and was at one time part of the Red sea, but for centuries it has been dried up and had become part of the desert. Across this depression the canal was dug, the sides and bottom were prepared, and when all was ready the waters of the Mediterranean were allowed to flow in. It took four months to fill this ancient bed of the Red sea.—Christian Science Monitor.

Girl Has Real Grievance.

Goats with an appetite that permit them to relish leather pocketbooks and shoe laces may be ordinary, but a goat with a sense of humor should be annihilated. This was the opinion offered to the Venice (Cal.) police one afternoon by a young woman, visiting in Del Rey from Ohio, when she appealed at police headquarters for help in finding the owner of a "billy" that she caught chewing her purse. She laid the pocketbook on the bank of a canal with her shoes and stockings while she paddled her feet in the water. She said that the animal had eaten two $5 bills that were in the purse, besides devouring her shoe laces. "When I came running toward him," she explained, "he kind of smiled and kicked my shoes and stockings into the water, so that I was forced to walk home barefoot. I would like to have my $10 made good to me."

COUNCIL TO STOP AUTO PARKING AT STREET CORNERS

Steps will be taken by the city council to eliminate the traffic danger at Granite and North Main street caused by the parking of machines too close to the curb, following the request of Mrs. W. A. Shell to take action on the matter. Mrs. Shell appeared before the council Tuesday night and related her experiences of being run into "pockets" caused by the traffic running in both directions on North Main street, while entering the thoroughfare. Machines parking too close to the curb and blocking a view from Granite street is the cause of the trouble, Mrs. Shell stated. The request for action brought up a discussion among the councilmen of like conditions existing throughout the city. It was decided to paint the curbs at the various corners with no parking signs.

Y. M. C. A. TO HOLD AQUATIC MEET HERE MONDAY OF NEXT WEEK

The county Y. M. C. A. will hold the first of what is planned to be an annual aquatic meet at the Natatorium Monday evening of next week. Swimming, diving and other water sports will be the order of the evening. Complete details of the meet will be published in tomorrow's Tidings.

Such a Good Boy

Mrs. Morgan—"And so your boy has been taken off to the reformatory for stealing? What a shame!" Mrs. Jamison—"Yes, isn't it! And him such a good boy, too. Always brought everything home to his mother."—London Mail.