What Constitutes Advertising?
 In order to allay a misunderstanding among some as to what constitutes news and what advertising, we print this very simple rule which is used by newspapers to differentiate between them: "ALL future events, where an admission charge is made or a collection is taken IS ADVERTISING." This applies to organizations and societies of every kind as well as to individuals.
 All reports of such activities after they have occurred is news.
 All coming social or organization meetings of societies where no money contribution is solicited, initiation charged, or collection taken is NEWS.

WEATHER BUREAU HELPS GET ORCHARD FROST DATA

Systematic frost work has been carried on in Jackson county by the county agent and a representative of the weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture. April was a bad month for frost in the Rogue River valley, and considerable orchard heating was necessary. The two men co-operated in securing data on various phases of the work for that month. Many photographs were taken of the fruit in different phases of development, and counts were made of the damage done by each frost. Government thermometers were used in various localities, so that definite information was available as to the exact temperatures that the orchards were subjected to. Check observations were also made on the heated orchards for comparison. This work will be followed up by the county agent during the season and actual tonnage will be recorded on heated, and similar unheated tracts.

TIDINGS FASHION HINTS

HATS THAT FLATTER

Hats are the finishing touch to the costume, and they make or mar its success. There is a hat for every face, one that will enhance its good points and be kind to its faults. Three widely different models for fall and winter, as shown above, reveal that beads and embroidery are playing leading parts in trimmings and that shapes are soft and becoming.

PUBLIC FORUM

TO THE EDITOR AND RESIDENTS OF ASHLAND

ASHLAND, Or., Sept. 13.—I am submitting the following article with the earnest hope that Ashland residents will give full credence to facts pertaining to the curative powers of Jackson springs, a few miles west of the city on the Pacific highway, and will consider a suggestion that will make Ashland grow. I have the utmost faith in Ashland residents. During my twenty-two years residence in America I have always been treated fine, but the best people I have ever come in contact with is right here in Ashland and all I want to do now, after being with them for fourteen years, is live among them until I die and then to be buried here.

Recently a friend suffering from rheumatism, told me of the benefit he had derived from bathing in Jackson springs. Having been troubled with rheumatism I decided to try the springs. Although I arrived late in the afternoon, a large crowd was waiting for their turn ahead of me. As a consequence it was very late when I reached home.

As I understand it the bath house was erected by a few citizens and a man who annually makes a trip here to obtain the curative baths. Now people are coming from all sections of the country, camping at the springs, bathing in it, drinking it and using it to cook with. I believe that these tourists are more aware of the benefits to be derived from the water than Ashland residents are.

The first day I spent at the springs I was told of an elderly gentleman in poor health who came to visit his son, who owns a ranch a few miles from Ashland, as part of his first round of visiting among children and relatives before his expected death. He had to be carried about and attended by his relatives. After a few baths at Jackson springs his condition started to improve at once.

From my personal observation I know of an old man who has been camping at the springs with his son. At first it was necessary to help him in and out of the baths, but now he is managing unassisted. Regardless of how early in the morning I have reached the springs, the old gentleman always beat me to it. Every morning I have noticed his improvement. He says that lying on his back in the mud has done him good. The other morning he walked away like a young man, no longer assisted by his walking stick. At one time he lay in the water for two hours, being benefitted all of the time.

There is one trouble with the pool. Anyone desiring to bathe must disrobe behind a small signboard three or four feet high. Such an inconvenience is intolerable when it is considered that hundreds visit the springs yearly, with possibilities of thousands every year. My proposition is this:

To ask the mayor to appoint a committee for the purpose of calling on Mr. Jackson, owner of the springs, and ask him to allow the people of Ashland to erect four to six boxes or dressing rooms just inside the field and on the edge of the pool; also a gate.

This would be done by public subscription. Mr. Jackson has been good enough in the past, and I believe that he will grant such permission for the future. Anyway, it is worth trying and will not cost much for the whole thing, rough lumber principally and tar paper for the roof. Now then, I will give $5 and two days work. What is yours? I am, your respectfully,
 R. H. STANLEY.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 12.—A terrific explosion wrecked six great oil stills of the Imperial Oil company here today. One person is missing and two are badly injured. The damage is estimated at more than $1,000,000. Twelve high pressure oil stills are in the district swept by the explosion.

The most precious thing in the world

Think what this world would be without confidence that the sun would rise tomorrow!

Without confidence in the order of things, in our fellow men, in our institutions, chaos would reign in the world. There would be no security, no progress, no happiness. Confidence is essential to all that is worth while.

Years of satisfactory experience with Red Crown gasoline have given the motoring public confidence in "Red Crown." They know that with "Red Crown" in the tank they have high-quality motor fuel, and that from it their engine will deliver its maximum power and mileage.

"Red Crown" is available at Standard Oil Service Stations, garages, and at other dealers.

Look for the Red Crown sign before you fill.
